Conservatives Take Australia By A Landslide

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Former Labor Prime Minister Gough Whitlam today conceded Australia's national elections today, as returns indicated a landslide victory for Malcolm Fraser's conservative coalition.

Politicians of both parties said Fraser's Liberal party could gain up to a 50-seat majority in the House of Representatives. Labor held a three-seat majority in the last Parliament.

The Australian Broadcasting Commission predicted with 40 per cent of the vote counted that the Liberal-National Country party coalition won 81 seats in the House, and the Labor party 36. They reported 10 seats undecided.

Fraser, 45, has been caretaker prime minister since Whitlam was fired a month ago.

Conservatives ousted a Labor government in New Zealand on Nov. 29 as the National party registered that country's sharpest political swing in 40 years.

In Sydney, the president of the Australian Labor party, Bob Hawke, said his party suffered "a stunning defeat."

"I think it will be a disaster for government in this country that the majority of Mr. Fraser will be so large," he said.

Counting for the Senate was much slower but early returns indicated an anti-Labor trend there as well.

"We have lost a very great number of seats," Whitlam said in Canberra. "The Liberal party has gained a great number of seats. Let me congratulate them on their success."

But Fraser told reporters in Melbourne: "I don't see this as a victory for the Liberal party. It is a win for Australia."

He said the Conservative coalition parties won because of their policies "to move Australia forward."

Hughes Takes Over As Presiding Judge

Berrien Circuit Judge Chester J. Byrns announced he is stepping down after five consecutive years as presiding judge and Judge Julian E. Hughes will become the new presiding judge.

The appointment is effective immediately, Byrns noted. Hughes, 53, begins his eighth year on the circuit court bench in 1976, and was previously a probate court judge for eight years.

Byrns, who served the longest continuous term as presiding judge since Berrien county became a multi-judge circuit in 1954, said he is stepping down "because it's time for a change and new approaches." Byrns begins his 10th year as a circuit judge next year.

Hughes said "I hope to maintain the high caliber and continue the fine work Judge Byrns has done during his tenure as presiding judge." He added that he felt the prime responsibility of the presiding judge was "to keep the court operating in an efficient manner."

Byrns cited Hughes' "outstanding administrative ability," and Judge William S. White, the other Berrien circuit judge, commented: "Judge Byrns has been a tremendous presiding judge and Judge Hughes will do equally as well."

Hughes received his law degree from the University of Michigan law school in 1949, and was in private practice in the Twin Cities area before being elected to the probate bench in 1956. He was elected circuit judge in 1968, and at one time served as presiding judge for probate courts of Michigan.

He and his wife, Evelyn, have four children, and reside at 176 Higman Park, Benton township. "I appreciate all the help and assistance from court personnel and others who work with the court," Byrns said, adding: "I couldn't have held the job without Judges White and Hughes pulling more than their fair share of the load."

Byrns also took the opportunity to express concern with what he labeled "the rapidly growing caseload and the complexity of legal procedures created by new rules and legislation which are putting a strain on the present court per-

BH Executive Newhouse Dies

Walter F. Newhouse, former president of the defunct Benton Harbor Saranac company, was dead on arrival this morning at Benton Harbor Memorial hospital. He was 83.

Newhouse was president of the firm from February, 1972 until its sale to St. John & Co., a Chicago-based Illinois corporation, in April, 1973.

The Chicago firm operated Saranac until June 22, 1973, when operations were ended. At that time, the firm employed 30 shop workers and 15 white collar workers.

For most of its 78 years, Saranac was one of the Twin Cities' more prosperous manufacturing firms, employing up to 175 people. It was founded in 1895 in St. Joseph.

Mr. Newhouse, who resided at 2180 Ogden avenue, Benton Harbor, was born Jan. 28, 1892, in Menasha, Wis., coming to

Buchanan Holdup Produces 3rd Arrest

By NICK SMITH
Staff Writer

The third and final suspect sought in connection with the Nov. 3 armed robbery of a Buchanan jewelry store was arraigned yesterday in Berrien Fifth District court on charges of armed robbery.

Demanding examination on three counts of armed robbery was Richard "Slim" Rufus Jr., 24, who listed his address as 358 Summit street, Benton Harbor.

Rufus was arrested by Harvey, Ill., police on a Berrien county warrant Wednesday night inside his room at the Harvey, Ill., YMCA, Berrien Metro crime unit officers said.

He waived proceedings for extradition to Michigan, police said.

Officers said Rufus is the last suspect sought in connection with the Buchanan holdup. Rufus and two other men are accused of taking $20,251 in jewels and cash at gunpoint from three people at Rees Jewelry store in Buchanan.

Arrested earlier in connection with the Rees holdup were Roy Moore, 49, of 1870 Council drive, Benton township, and Robert Lee Williams, 34, of Lansing. All three men are currently in the county jail under bonds of $50,000, awaiting preliminary hearings on the charge.

Williams and two women are also charged with a Nov. 28 armed robbery at Green's Jewelry, St. Joseph, during which some $7,630 in cash and jewelry was taken.

They are awaiting circuit court arraignment on the St. Joseph robbery charges.

STRONG RECOVERY SEEN FOR MICHIGAN

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Michigan's manufacturing-oriented economy will rebound strongly in 1976, but the state's unemployment rate will dip only slightly, two University of Michigan economists said Friday.

Personal income will rise fairly rapidly for those with jobs, but 13.2 per cent of the labor force will remain unemployed, compared with 13.8 per cent in 1975, the economists said.

Professors Saul Hymans and Harold T. Shapiro said personal income would jump an average 12.7 per cent and total employment will increase 2.9 per cent, equal to about 100,000 jobs.

But they said the hiring increase would be almost entirely offset by the growing number of persons looking for jobs.

"The rate of economic growth is simply not forecast to be rapid enough to make major inroads in reducing the unemployment rate in the next year and a half," they said. "Although we forecast a growth rate more than sufficient to absorb all new entrants into the labor market, we do not foresee enough economic growth to cut deeply into the employment shortfall which has developed in the past two years, and which is disproportionately concentrated in the state of Michigan."

Nearly half the projected employment increase would be in manufacturing they said. The remainder, about 55,000 jobs, will be concentrated mostly in retailing and the government sector, they said.

The economists said 549,000 people would be unemployed next year, down from 560,000 this year, as the work force grows to 4,136,000 from 4,084,000 this year.

The forecast held some encouragement for state officials who faced a series of crises over the past year.

Hymans and Shapiro said personal state income tax revenues would total $1.5 billion in the 12 months ending next June 30, up more than $300 million from the previous year, when tax revenues declined $190 million. Sales tax revenues were forecast at $1.64 billion in the year ending June 30, up $29 million from last year.

"The 12.7 per cent increase which we forecast for Michigan personal income is a fair amount above that which we have forecast for the aggregate economy," the economists said.

"In considerable part, this derives from the fact that the economic rebound is more heavily concentrated in the manufacturing sector in Michigan than is true for the U.S. as a whole, and the manufacturing sector is relatively high in average earnings."

Deadly Shooting Puts Bears Atop Big Seven Alone

KALAMAZOO — St. Joseph is sitting alone atop the Big Seven standings thanks to some fantastic second half bombing here Friday night.

The Bears, trailing 33-26 at the half, flung in 65 per cent (17 of 26) of their shots in the last half to come from behind and register a thrilling 71-68 victory over Kalamazoo Loy Norrix.

St. Joe, now 2-0 in league play and 5-0 overall, trailed most of the game and was behind 68-67 on Alan Morehead's bucket with 35 seconds left in the game.

With 17 seconds to go, the Bears had the ball out of bounds under their own bucket. Dave Ziebart finally got the ball under the basket and was fouled with nine seconds remaining. Ziebart then canned both ends of the one-and-one to give St. Joe a 69-68 edge.

Loy Norrix still had a chance for the winning bucket but a stray pass glanced off Mike Collier, who was immediately fouled. With one second left, Collier calmly sank the one-and-one situation to ice the hectic win.

The Bears, off to their best start since the 1959-60 season, used some uncanny free throw gunning to put away the win. For the night, St. Joe hit 15 of 20 free throws (75 per cent), including 11 of 11 the second half and nine of nine the last quarter.

Loy Norrix, which had three more field goals than the Bears, could only manage six of 12 (50 per cent).

A change of strategy on the part of Bear coach George Gaundier at intermission seemed to spark the visitors in the second half.

"In the first half we played a full court pressing defense but they were just getting too many close in shots as a result. So the second half we went more to the half court. We cut down their inside scoring opportunities somewhat and were more efficient in moving the ball on offense.

"Our team just didn't give up in the second half...we kept our poise. We played good half-court defense and we were moving and passing to get the good shots on offense. I guess we just did what we had to do to win."

Dale Wright, a 6-4 forward, led the Bear second-half rally when he pumped in 21 of his game-high 25 points in the second half. Wright also paced the on-target St. Joe free throw shooting, hitting seven of eight and seven of seven the last half.

Collier contributed 17 points and Henry Follman 13. Follman started in place of starting center Fred Pries, who did not make the trip due to personal problems.

Loy Norrix, now 0-2 in league play, got 16 points from Mike McElrath, 14 from Alan Morehead and 12 from Barry Harris.

The Bears trailed 17-10 after the first period but then ripped off the first seven points of the second period to knot up the game. But then the Knights peeled off 10 points in a row and enjoyed a 33-26 margin at the half.

Norrix kept the lead until the Bears rallied to collect the last eight points of the third quarter and tie the game at 48-48 entering the xsee-saw finale.

The Bears, who scored 45 points in the last half, sank seven of nine shots outcourt and nine of nine free throws in that offensive charge in the last eight minutes.

A key in the game was the ability of Follman and Wright to stay in the game while playing with four fouls.

The Bears amazingly were outboarded 39-23 with Wright hauling away seven caroms. Norrix made 27 floor errors, St. Joe 17.

St. Joe ended with a 48 per cent shooting average on 28 of 58 while Norrix was 57 per cent on 31 of 54.

The Bears return to league action next Friday night at Niles.

Norrix defeated the St. Joseph junior varsity 59-34 with Steve Ziebart netting 14 and Jeff Beal 13 points for the losers, now 3-2.

Big Reds' Rally Topples Tigers

Pannell Sparks 83-80 Win

MUSKEGON — Tony Pannell was too much for Benton Harbor to handle here Friday night.

Pannell scored 28 points, including 13 in the fourth quarter, to lead the Muskegon Big Reds to a come-from-behind 83-80 win over Benton Harbor.

Muskegon is now 1-0 in the Lake Michigan Athletic Conference and 2-2 overall. Benton Harbor fell to 0-1 and 1-2, respectively.

The Tigers roared out to a 46-33 halftime lead, then proceeded to blow the edge in the third quarter. The hosts outscored Benton Harbor 24-9 in the third quarter to take the lead which they never relinquished.

"We just went off our game in the third quarter," Tiger coach Earl McKee said. "We just got individualistic and didn't set things up the way we should have."

Only the shooting of Russell Steele kept Benton Harbor in the game at all. Steele hit on 16 of 26 from the floor and finished with 35 points, tops in the area this season.

Bennie Bowers played his best game of the season in the middle, scoring 22 points and pulling down 10 rebounds.

Pannell, who hit 10 of 10 from the floor in the second half, scored the final two baskets of the third quarter to give Muskegon the lead for good at 57-55.

The Big Reds built the lead to 72-61 early in the final quarter before three straight baskets by Steele trimmed the deficit to five.

Muskegon again moved to an 11-point bulge at 80-69 with 1:45 left and Benton Harbor got no closer than the final score after that.

"We just turned the ball over too many times," McKee said. "After we would get the ball, we would turn it right back to Muskegon. We still have to develop that team desire and discipline. We keep hurting ourselves."

Even with the poor third quarter, had the Tigers been able to hit free throws it would have been a different story. Benton Harbor hit just 10 of 20 for the game and missed three key one-and-ones in the fourth quarter.

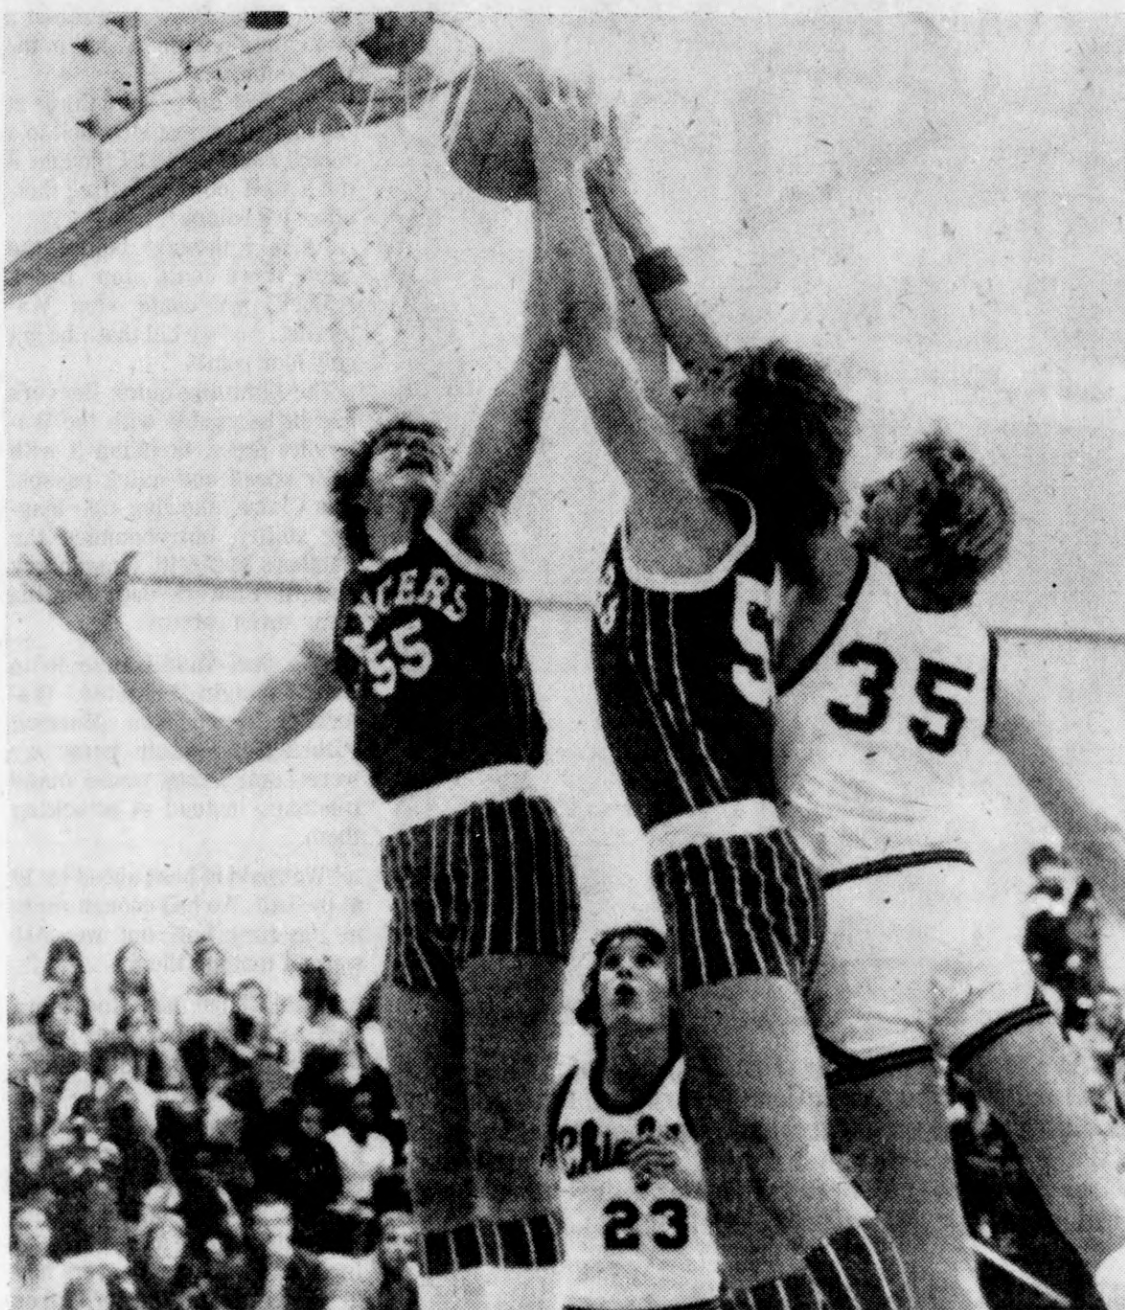

Muskegon hit on 37 of 70 from the floor for 52 per cent, while the Tigers didn't do badly themselves, connecting on 34 of 71 for 48 per cent.

Benton Harbor finished with a 34-31 rebounding edge with Pannell pulling down 13 for the hosts.

Benton Harbor did win the junior varsity game, nipping Muskegon 66-64 in overtime.

Jager, Mason Spark Lancers To First Win

'Tall' Lakeshore Edges Dowagiac

By JOHN VANDEN HEDEE
Sports Editor
DOWAGIAC — The Lakeshore Lancers are walking tall again today.

With the tall talents of 6-4 Tom Jager and 6-7 Mike Mason combining for 29 points and 35 rebounds, Lakeshore tripped Dowagiac 57-56 here Friday night in Blossomland action.

It wasn't an artistic accomplishment for the Lancers, who blew a 17-point lead, made 27 turnovers and hit on just 32 per cent of their free throws, but after a 0-3 season start, it was a welcomed win.

"It was a hard way to get the first win," commented Lakeshore coach Lloyd MacTavish afterwards. "We still have a long way to go."

Both teams had plenty of chances to win the game. Jager put the Lancers ahead for good at 55-54 with a pair of free throws with 3:20 remaining and Larry Toth added a two-pointer at the 2:13 mark. But after Dowagiac narrowed the count to the final 57-56 margin on a basket by Dave Sprague at the 2:02 mark, there was no scoring the rest of the way as both teams were guilty of numerous turnovers and missed free throws.

"It looked there for awhile that it was going to be a game of giveaway," added MacTavish. "I thought our inexperience was going to hurt us again."

Dowagiac coach Norm Schuring felt about the same way. "We set up four different plays in the last 1½ minutes and I don't think we got a shot off," he explained. "It was a nightmare. All the things they taught me in coaching class didn't happen out there."

Obviously, Dowagiac also had its share of shortcomings. The Chiefs made just 22 per cent of their free throws and just 31 per cent from the floor.

Oran Danzy was Dowagiac's only double figures scorer with 14 as Dowagiac made 26 of 83 field goals and four of 18 free throws.

Lakeshore got 19 points from

Jager and 10 from Mason as swishing an excellent 25 of 50 from the floor but only seven of 22 chances.

Dowagiac, now 1-1 in the Blossomland and overall, stayed in the game by outbounding Lakeshore 48-46 — including 14 by 6-7 Bob Waalkes — while making just 13 turnovers. Lakeshore got 22 rebounds from Jager, including 20 off the defensive boards, and 13 from Mason while hiking its records to 1-1 in the conference and 1-3 on the season.

Lakeshore opened the game by moving out to a 16-6 lead and went on to get its first 18 points from Jager and Mason.

In the second quarter, the Lancers reeled off 14 unanswered points for their biggest lead of the night at 34-17. They went on to lead at halftime 38-25.

Lakeshore's halftime edge was greatly based on a 28-16 rebounding advantage. "They like to play Waalkes outside and all we had to do was box him off," explained MacTavish.

That all changed in the second half, when Dowagiac got back into the game with a 32-18 edge

MICKEY LOLICH
Withdraws Veto

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — Mickey Lolich, the winningest lefthander in Detroit Tiger history, has traded uniforms with New York Mets outfielder Rusty Staub, in a deal that took 20 hours to complete.

The trade, completed Friday during the closing hours of the winter baseball meeting, also sent Tiger outfielder Billy Baldwin to the Mets. Detroit received minor league pitcher Billy Laxton along with Staub.

The Tigers and Mets actually agreed on the deal at 2 a.m. Friday, but Lolich exercised his right as a 10-year veteran who had spent more than five years with the Tigers and vetoed the trade.

The Mets, however, refused to give up and kept after Lolich all day until they convinced the Tigers' pitcher to come to New York.

"We're tickled to death," said Tiger General Manager Jim Campbell about the trade. "We had given up — then it was revived."

"Mickey Lolich has done a fine job for us. It was tough to give up a player of his stature but we felt we had to do it for the overall good of the ball club."

"We got the one thing we were looking for — a real sound RBI man," Campbell said of Staub. "We got ourselves one hell of a sound ballplayer."

Lolich, who has gone to his cottage near Traverse City, Mich., could not be reached for comment. But his lawyer, Robert Fenton took much of the credit for putting the deal through.

"The deal was dead last night," Fenton said Friday. "And I don't mind saying I put it back together."

Fenton acted as the middle man between Lolich and the Mets.

"Both clubs had struck out. I asked for a few concessions, and we finally worked it out," Fenton said.

"I realize this was a very traumatic decision for Mickey," the attorney continued. "It's a tremendous emotional adjustment to think that after all these years he'll be playing in a different uniform in a strange city. And he was hurt to think that the Tigers would trade him after all he has done."

"But I think the deal that was worked out will financially be sensational for Mickey, his wife Joyce and their three girls."

The 35-year-old Lolich, three times an American League All-Star in his 12 seasons at Detroit, was 12-12 last season with a 3.77 earned run average. He has a career record of 207-175.

Staub, 31, hit .282 with 19 home runs and a club record of 105 runs batted in with the Mets during 1975. This was Staub's fourth year with the Mets, who acquired him from Montreal on April 6, 1972, for outfielder Ken Singleton, first baseman Mike Jorgensen and shortstop Tim Foli.

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson.

Put More Than Red Ink Behind Municipal Bonds

Simply to illustrate a point, we are creating a fictitious city of Red Cedar, Michigan, whose governing fathers decided a month ago to issue two species of debt.

One was a $1 million bond issue to pave Red Cedar's streets.

Another was a $1 million development bond program to prompt the Widget Company to locate a plant in town.

The street paving bonds are a general obligation against the community, meaning that all the taxable real estate and personal property within the city limits are security for paying the interest and principal.

The development bond is Widget Company's obligation to pay off. It is issued in the name of Red Cedar merely to qualify as a municipal bond whose interest is not taxable income under the Internal Revenue Code, or if the bond owner resides within the Wolverine state, under the Michigan income tax. It is a fiction in law to obtain a favorable interest rate for the borrower.

The only requirement to put the Red Cedar paving bonds on the market is approval from the Michigan Municipal Finance Commission and a letter from a lawyer or a legal firm that the city has the proper authority to issue the securities. The lawyer's certification is more a practical requirement than an outright legal necessity. Brokers are reluctant to handle a municipal issue unless they have an impressive appearing 40-page document stating that everything is in apple pie order.

Widget Company's development bonds do not require Finance Commission approval since it is not Red Cedar's duty to pay them off. Neither is the lawyer's certification.

However, if the Widget bonds are to be offered to the public as distinguished from a single purchaser, then the broker must prepare a fairly detailed prospectus showing Widget's past history, present financial background, what it plans to do with the proceeds from the bond sale, a background on its top management and it draws down, and so on. The requirement comes close to what a company such as Bendix, Clark Equipment, National-Standard or Whirlpool must disclose before floating a debt program or a stock issue. The law, though, does not require the city of Red Cedar to participate in any manner, however greatly its municipal policies on taxes, zoning, public safety protection and other matters might affect Widget Company's chances of paying its debts.

Nor does the law require Red Cedar to issue any disclosure on its financial situation or governmental policies when it brings the paving bonds to market; and until this year neither was it necessary to circulate the background on the basically private responsibility as represented by the Widget bonds.

Until New York City hit the financial skids earlier in the year, neither the investment community nor the lawmakers gave much thought to exempting municipal securities from the disclosure demands imposed upon private borrowers. Everyone assumed if a municipal bond issue is within the legal debt ceiling established by state law or local charter it is good as gold.

This is not the sole reason for New York hitting the bottom of the barrel, but it is an important one.

The absence of a disclosure requirement enabled Gotham's city hall to conceal the fact that much of its bonding was really capitalizing its operating deficits. Had the investing public known or suspected that New York was actually stalling current red ink over to a future payment date, it is safe to say it would have rejected the bonds long ago. This would have precipitated New York's crisis sooner, but the descent would not have been as damaging.

How many other local units are in or approaching New York's brink and what is the dollar volume in jeopardy is guesswork. The stock market's somewhat so-so performance in recent months and the erratic patterns taken by the bond market indicate the money people are guessing on the high side.

If our mythical Red Cedar is out in left field with New York, there isn't much that can be done to correct its position overnight.

Preventing the state and local units from following that same treacherous policy should be done by adopting full disclosure.

It would be great if Congress would put Uncle Sam in the same goldfish bowl; but as the slogan would have it, do the possible today and perform the impossible tomorrow.

Twin Cities' 'Overhead' Needs Better Control

Twin Cities "overhead" is making big news. That is to say, the air corridor between Detroit and Chicago — which passes directly over this corner of the state — has been the site recently of some scary events that are attracting national attention.

And rightly so!

Few circumstances will unnerve the highly sophisticated air traffic control system in the United States as much as a reported near-collision in air. When such a rare event happens two or more times in rapid succession, an urgent look by aviation officials is required to find the cause.

That is what is happening in the wake of at least two and possibly more near misses in the vicinity of Detroit and Chicago since the first incident on Thanksgiving eve. Each case involved commercial airliners and in the first incident strong evasive action by one of the pilots resulted in a number of injuries to passengers.

Adding to the confusion over what happened is labor unrest among some traffic controllers. Spokesmen for the Air Traffic Controllers Organization deny that a morale problem among its members has anything to do with the near collisions, contending the problem is in traffic control equipment.

None of which answers the question, what went wrong? Until that question is answered with conviction by Federal Aviation Agency investigators, any and all possible causes must be considered suspect. It won't do to pass off these near-accidents as mere coincidence.

Kazoo Man Awarded $225,000; A Record For Berrien Court

The largest consent judgment in the history of Berrien Circuit court — $225,000 — was entered yesterday on behalf of a Kalamazoo man who lost his wife and two children in a 1973 automobile accident.

Judge William S. White signed the judgment which awards $145,000 to Ronald E. Dobbins and his son, Pierre, with $80,000 for attorney fees and other expenses.

The judgment went against the estate of William Schneider, formerly of Chicago. White noted Dobbins sued for injuries sustained by himself and his son and for loss of companionship of his family, but the suit was not predicated on any economic loss.

The judge noted the judgment was one of the first of any large sum based on injuries and loss of companionship since the advent of no-fault insurance.

Dobbins' wife and children, as well as Schneider, were killed Oct. 14, 1973, in a head-on collision on I-94 in New Buffalo township when Schneider drove in the wrong direction on the freeway.

A consent judgment is one agreed to by parties to the suit without benefit of a trial.

Ex-Executive Asks $2 Million In Lawsuit Against Niles Star

A former executive of the Niles Daily Star newspaper has filed suit in Berrien Circuit court seeking $2 million damages, claiming the company breached a contract with him and forced his resignation because of his age.

The plaintiff, Harold Deudman, 56, and his wife, Madeline, both of Oklahoma, seek a total of $2,000,000 from the Star and Knight-Ridder Sales, Inc.

The suit identifies Deudman

as a former general manager, associate publisher, vice president, publisher, and operational head of the Niles newspaper.

Deudman began work at the Star on Sept. 3, 1968, the suit says, and was dismissed on May 21, 1974 "without notice or cause." The suit claims the defendants refused to honor Deudman's contract, which he claims "was for permanent employment for the working life of Deudman."

The suit claims a breach of contract, and also discrimination because of Deudman's age, and claims he was forced to resign. The suit seeks, in addition to the monetary damages, reinstatement and back pay.

Dedication of the church's newly constructed altar in the morning and of the new Hazelton concert grand piano in the evening will feature the Sunday services at the First Methodist church in St. Joseph. The altar, designed by the pastor, Rev. G.A. Critchett, is a gift of Mrs. Nellie Forbs to the church as a memorial to her late husband, James Forbs. The altar has been remodeled in such a manner as to provide a complete communion table. A series of trays, which were dressed from Michigan butter-nut taken from the back panels of the old pews in use for more than 50 years before the auditorium was re-modeled last winter, fit into the new construction forming one continuous service the full length of the altar.

Roy Cromley Ford Learned It All In Congress

WASHINGTON — There's a great deal of confusion as to why President Ford acts the way he does:

—His off-again, on-again attitude toward financial aid to New York City.

—His strong stand in demanding Congress agree in advance to slash projected federal spending by a specified percentage.

—His repeated vetoes.

—His rapid pardon of former President Nixon.

—His quickie Halloween massacre, in which he fired Defense Secretary James Schlesinger and Central Intelligence chief William Colby without warning.

—His consistent refusal to strike out a la Franklin Roosevelt and John F. Kennedy with national plans to lead us out of the inflation-unemployment wilderness.

To his critics, Mr. Ford is weak, vacillating, uncertain — a feeling apparently shared by many of those queried in public opinion polls.

The fact is, that for better or for worse, Mr. Ford is a prisoner of his experience. As President, he is employing those tactics Congressman Gerald Ford found most profitable in his years as leader of a minority party in the House of Representatives.

Tactic One: Take a strong, hard stand on important issues. Know in your own mind what you will compromise for. But adamantly refuse to concede you're willing to budge. Publicize your stand with all the guns you have. Hold still, eyeball-to-eyeball — without blinking until the opposition is willing to concede as much as you've calculated they can and will. Then make your deal.

This is the tactic Mr. Ford has used with New York City.

Estimate: Success. He pushed

New York into greater self-discipline, on paper anyway, than anyone thought possible.

It's the tactic he's using with Congress on the budget for fiscal year 1977.

It's the principle behind his hefty pattern of vetoes of programs he doesn't like and those which he believes cost too much.

Estimate: Mixed. He's knocked out some hefty spending proposals Congress voted, gotten other bills modified to better suit his objectives, but he hasn't succeeded in getting Congress to pass bills of the type he wants in energy, economic stimulation and other major domestic problems.

Most curiously, however, the president has not used this strong stand until the opponent blinks tactic in dealing with the Soviet Union.

Mr. Ford's quick pardon of Richard Nixon and his haphazard Halloween firings of Schlesinger and Colby are likewise patterned after strategies Mr. Ford developed in his congressional days.

—The first, that if something distasteful or unpopular has got to be done, do it quickly, even clumsily, but above all do it rapidly. The sooner done, hopefully, the sooner forgotten.

—The second, that if you're in the minority in Congress, to get anywhere at all, the emphasis must be on team play rather than on individual excellence.

Only the majority can afford some division.

And finally, in Congress, Mr. Ford's genius was in reaching a consensus among his own people, when you evolve a consensus or compromise on economic programs, what you have is mush. There's no possibility of agreement on any strong program: each set of advisers has a different theory.

Jeffrey Horn President Nixon Got A Bum Rap

Now that all the skeletons are leaping out of their closets and into the headlines, we are entitled to conclude that Richard Nixon got something of a bum rap. Or, at least, that he was subjected to cruel and unusual punishment.

Misuse of the FBI and the attendant violation of a host of statutes did not originate with Nixon. Such practices go all the way back to FDR, with a uniquely clean interval occurring during the eight years of the Eisenhower Administration.

Indeed, under John Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson, the violations were "incomparably more serious than anything charged in the Congressional Articles of Impeachment or other denunciations of Nixon" — at least that is the conclusion of Noam Chomsky, prominent leftist and scarcely a Nixon fan.

Though it may sound harsh, the following conclusion seems to me inescapable. Since 1972, the media, in league with Congressional Democrats, have been treating the American public to a long-running but fictional production entitled "The Unique Villainy of Richard M. Nixon."

Those so-called investigative reporters, of course, became instant folk-heroes, and Robert Redford, no less, in starring in a movie about the heroic deeds of Bob Woodward and Carl Bernstein. But where were those intrepid investigators when the truth was oozing out about bugging, corruption of Federal agencies, invasion of privacy, and widespread personal harassment under FDR, John F. Kennedy, and Lyndon B. Johnson?

During the Watergate furor, we were treated to a great many leaks damaging to Nixon, curiously enough, some other things somehow did not get leaked.

Ervin Committee minority counsel Fred Thompson, for example, reveals in his book, "At That Point in Time," that John Dean turned over to majority counsel Sam Dush two lengthy memoranda from William C. Sullivan, former assistant director of the FBI. These never surfaced during the hearings. Ervin and Dush never subpoenaed Sullivan or his colleague, Cartha DeLoach, to sit before the TV cameras and recount the scandals of the Kennedy-Johnson years. All moral indignation has to be focused on Richard Nixon, preparatory to driving him from office. All other information was irrelevant to that goal.

"To my memory," wrote William J. Sullivan in his memoranda, "the two Administrations which used the FBI most for political purposes were Mr. (Franklin D.) Roosevelt's and Mr. (Lyndon) Johnson's. President Johnson, however, far exceeded Roosevelt in his use of the FBI for political purposes."

LBJ had Anna Chennault and Spiro Agnew bugged, he bugged the South Vietnamese Embassy, assorted opponents at the 1964 Democratic Convention, and various black politicians. Both Johnson and the Kennedys eavesdropped on Martin Luther King. Of course, none of this could come out until the job of removing Nixon from office had been accomplished.

Due to an enormous media con job, however, Nixon goes into forced exile, while Kennedy rests in Arlington beneath that symbolic eternal flame, and FDR has all but joined the deities on Olympus.

Poetry A Gift?

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) — The author of "Twas the Night Before Christmas" may have written the Christmas poem for his children as a substitute for gifts he was unable to buy.

A descendant of poet Clement Clarke Moore, Lula Moore Hester Averill, 70, said family legend indicates Moore was poor at Christmas in 1822 and could not buy the gifts his children wanted.

So he wrote the poem for them instead, she said.

Speed, Quickness Give Eau Claire 62-51 Win

Panthers Cut Down By Beavers

By JERRY DYKSTRA
Staff Sports Writer
WATERVLIET — Speed and quickness are two valuable basketball commodities. Eau Claire is blessed with an abundance of both, and the hounding Beavers used them to cut down previously unbeaten Watervliet 62-51 here Friday night. The Beaver victory broke the Panthers' winning streak at four straight while Eau Claire now has taken three in a row after an opening loss.

The triumph also puts the Beavers back into the thick of the Red Arrow race. Eau Claire, Watervliet and Berrien Springs are now all 2-1 in loop games and trail Lake Michigan Catholic (3-0). "This was just a great overall team victory," stated pleased Beaver coach Dave Gray in the locker room after the game. "It was like a tournament atmosphere out there tonight...our kids really wanted this one badly. Everyone did the job for us."

Eau Claire showed plenty of banking with Randy Grandberry sinking 15 points, Terry Adams 14, Nathan Lanier 11 and Jerry McAfee 10. The Panthers got 16 points from Ken Marzka and 13 from Tom Hutchinson.

The story of the game is revealed in the shooting statistics. Eau Claire earned 28 of 63 for 44 per cent, including 50 per cent the second half, while the Panthers ended at a miserable 30 per cent (21 of 71), 20 per cent in the first half.

Even with the frigid first-half gunning, Watervliet trailed only 28-25 at the half and then narrowed the gap to 28-27 to open the second half.

But then Eau Claire, which went into a 1-2-2 zone to start the second half, got its fast break working and pumped in its first six shots of the second half to put the Panthers up a tree. Adams, a 6-1 forward, led the charge by hitting three straight shots as the Beavers grabbed a 40-29 margin with 5:15 left in the third quarter.

"We had to do something at the half so we just switched to a zone," noted Gray. "I thought it did a good job of upsetting their offensive balance."

"Also I thought before the game if we could stop Brock (Chuck) we could stop Watervliet. And we did that...he got only four points."

The lightning-quick Beavers had little trouble with the Watervliet press, breaking it with their speed and quick passes. Eau Claire, showing fine leaping ability, outrebounded the Panthers 30-25 with Grandberry and Al Flowers both hauling away seven caroms.

"We just didn't take it to them tonight," stated Watervliet coach Ken Marzka. "During the whole game we were hoping they would make mistakes instead of attacking them."

"We could of been ahead by 10 at the half. We had enough shots in the first half but we just weren't making them."

"Eau Claire has fine team speed. They have four guys, maybe five, who are just super fast."

The Panthers, who never led in the contest and fell behind 8-0 in the opening quarter before scoring its first bucket at the 4:24 mark, were forced into 24 turnovers while the Beavers had 21. Watervliet hit nine of 11 free throws without getting a charity opportunity in the second half. Eau Claire was six of 13.

Gray is especially proud of the Beaver defense which has given up only an average of 53.7 points in the last three games.

"I think the kids are really sold on defense. They talk about it and they're always working hard on it in practice."

Eau Claire also won the junior varsity tilt 69-48 with Tim Weber and Chuck Hunter both flinging in 20 points. Jon Hilner dropped 21 for the losers.

on the boards. "It told the kids at halftime that we had to get to work on the boards," noted Schuring, who also thought that his players took the play inside more the second half.

Dowagiac scored 11 unanswered points at the start of the third quarter to tie the game at 40-40. The Chiefs then got their first lead of the game at 44-42 on a fast break basket by Scott Wiltse with 1:33 left in the period. Lead before Jager's free throws put Lakeshore ahead for good with 3:20 left in the game.

Lakeshore was without regular guard Jim Rosenhagen (sprained ankle), but Rod Nitz contributed nine points and led the team in assists with seven in his first start.

Lakeshore also won the junior varsity preliminary 61-33, with Scott Lee scoring 12 points. Jeff Bacon was high for the little Chiefs with nine.

The little Lancers, now 3-1 with three straight wins, led by only 18-15 at halftime but ran away with the game in the second half, including a 24-point fourth quarter.

Brink Fashions Lutheran Victory

GRANDVILLE — John Brink's free throw with just six seconds to play here Friday night was the difference as Michigan Lutheran nipped Covenant Christian 48-47.

Brink went to the line with two shots and six seconds left and made the first for the win. Covenant's victory hopes were dashed moments later as Dean Karlson missed a shot and was called for traveling after grabbing the rebound.

The 6-2 Brink finished as the game's top scorer with 22 points for the winners. Bob Guse added 10. Karlson had 17 and Douglas DeBuer tossed in 12 for Covenant Christian.

Even the easy margin of victory did not please Wilson, however. "We have to play a lot better than this both offensively and defensively if we want to win a championship," he observed. "We're not seeing the type of

Valley Record School's Worst

THREE OAKS — Brandywine and River Valley both kept their streak intact here Friday night in the Bobcats' 53-48 Blossomland victory. Brandywine has now won four straight this season for its best start in its 16-year history while the Mustangs lost their fifth in a row for its worst opening in its school history.

Some torrid free throw shooting and muscle on the boards were the keys to the Bobcat victory. Brandywine hit 21 of 26 foul shots for 81 per cent while holding a 39-25 margin on the boards.

River Valley led 25-23 at intermission but then the Bobcats outscored the hosts 17-7 in the third period to take the lead for good. Tony Harris generated the Bobcats in the third period with nine points. He scored all 15 of his points in the last half.

Greg Gallas added 11 points for Brandywine while Dave North popped in a game-high 26 points for Valley, which also got 10 from Greg Johnson.

River Valley, which had three more field goals than Brandywine, ended up shooting 39 per cent on 19 of 49 while Brandywine also took 49 shots, canning 16 for 33 per cent. Valley was 10 of 19 at the charity stripes.

Harris had 12 rebounds for the winners, Johnson nine for the Mustangs. The Bobcats committed 19 floor mistakes, River Valley 15.

Brandywine is 2-0 in Blossomland action and deadlocked with Cassopolis and Buchanan for the league top spot. River Valley slips to 0-2.

River Valley won the jayvee game 47-45 with Steve Nash and Tom Umphrey both pouring in 13 points.

Lawrence got 16 tallies from Dave Congdon and 15 from Jim Mason while swishing 24 of 55 from the floor (44 per cent) but just one of five charities.

Lawrence, now 0-2 in the league and 0-4 on the season, had an overall 27 to 24 rebounding edge but was guilty of 24 turnovers. Bloomington is now 1-0 in the SAC and 1-2 overall.

After trailing at halftime, Bloomington pulled to a 41-41 deadlock after three periods and pulled away in the final quarter with an 18-8 scoring edge.

"We're holding teams down real well," concluded Smith, "but offensively we don't have the punch. But we played well and if we would have had our two starters it may have been a different story."

Bloomington's Goldman Greene was the game's leading scorer with 20 points as the Cardinals hit on a fine 27 of 55 field goals (49 per cent) but just five of 14 free throws.

Lawrence, which was playing without starters Matt Mills and Gary Perkins, slipped to its fourth loss without a victory. Mills suffered a shoulder separation in the opening minutes of the game, and Perkins was sidelined by a back injury sustained in practice Thursday night.

Tim Miller Paces Bloomington Win

LAWRENCE — Bloomington's Tim Miller took charge in the second half and led the Cardinals to a 59-48 SAC triumph over Lawrence here Friday night.

"He made the definite difference in the game because he controlled the boards in the second half," declared Lawrence coach Dave Smith.

"When they needed points, they started putting the ball into the middle to him."

Miller finished with 12 points, all in the second half. He also pulled down nine second half rebounds as Bloomington erased Lawrence's 25-23 advantage at the intermission.

Lawrence, which was playing without starters Matt Mills and Gary Perkins, slipped to its fourth loss without a victory. Mills suffered a shoulder separation in the opening minutes of the game, and Perkins was sidelined by a back injury sustained in practice Thursday night.

Bloomington's Goldman Greene was the game's leading scorer with 20 points as the Cardinals hit on a fine 27 of 55 field goals (49 per cent) but just five of 14 free throws.

Lawrence got 16 tallies from Dave Congdon and 15 from Jim Mason while swishing 24 of 55 from the floor (44 per cent) but just one of five charities.

Lawrence, now 0-2 in the league and 0-4 on the season, had an overall 27 to 24 rebounding edge but was guilty of 24 turnovers. Bloomington is now 1-0 in the SAC and 1-2 overall.

After trailing at halftime, Bloomington pulled to a 41-41 deadlock after three periods and pulled away in the final quarter with an 18-8 scoring edge.

"We're holding teams down real well," concluded Smith, "but offensively we don't have the punch. But we played well and if we would have had our two starters it may have been a different story."

Dismissal Of BH School Suit Expansion Asked

By JIM DeLAND
Assistant City Editor

GRAND RAPIDS — U.S. District Judge Noel Fox has given defendants in the Benton Harbor school desegregation suit until Dec. 29 to complete written arguments challenging the most recent complaint filed by the NAACP.

Seven parties named as defendants have filed two separate motions asking that the latest complaint be dismissed entirely and the Michigan Municipal Boundary commission has also asked to be removed as a defendant in the suit.

The boundary commission, Gov. William Milliken, Attorney General Frank Kelley, Superintendent of Public Instruction John W. Porter and the State Board of Education have filed a joint motion asking Judge Fox to strike the supplemental complaint he permitted the NAACP to file on Sept. 24.

A similar motion has been filed by the Berrien County Intermediate School board and Intermediate Superintendent Raymond Sreboth.

The supplemental complaint by the NAACP added Milliken, Kelley, the boundary commission, the intermediate school board and Sreboth to the list of defendants and detailed new charges that various officials, agencies and surrounding communities had fostered racial isolation of the predominantly black Benton Harbor district.

The motions asking Judge Fox to strike the complaint contend that it is a completely new complaint that should be part of a new suit and that it will delay determination of the 1967 case, which has been sent back to U.S. District Court by the Circuit Court of Appeals.

State officials and agencies listed as defendants also contend that it will be prejudicial toward them since they did not participate in the original trial, which was concluded in 1970.

The boundary commission asks that it be dismissed as a defendant since it has no role in setting school district boundaries. The commission acts on municipal boundary matters.

The boundary commission also asks that Judge Fox abstain from considering it as a defendant pending a decision by the Ingham County Circuit Court on a suit filed by St. Joseph township asking the court to overrule the boundary commission's approval of incorporation of the former Fairplain school district into a city.

Should the circuit court overrule the approval, the motion contends, reasons cited for including the boundary commission as a defendant would no longer be valid.

After reviewing final arguments, Judge Fox can either rule on the motions or call for a hearing to receive further information before handing down a decision.

The NAACP is pressing the 1967 suit on behalf of the original plaintiffs, Mrs. Ruth Berry and her six children and other black parents and children in the Benton Harbor district.

U.S. District Judge Wallace Kent in 1970 ruled that there was no de jure (illegal) segregation in the Benton Harbor district, but the NAACP appealed that decision and the Court of Appeals sent the case back to U.S. District Court last year.

Since the 1970 decision, the case has been expanded to include the transfer of the former Eaman school district from Benton Harbor to Coloma, which was approved by the state board in 1971, and the transfer of three former elementary school districts in Sodus township from Benton Harbor to Eau Claire, which was approved in 1974.

The Sodus transfer was blocked by an injunction issued by Judge Fox, however, and Sodus students have remained in Benton Harbor schools.

The 12 defendants in the case include the Benton Harbor, Coloma and Eau Claire school districts, the Concerned Parents and Taxpayers of Sodus, the Concerned Parents for Hagar Township School District No. 4 (Eaman), the State Board of Education and Dr. Porter, in addition to those added in the supplementary complaint.

BUYING GAST BONDS: Industrial revenue bonds totaling $1 million were sold yesterday to finance construction of Gast Manufacturing Corporation plant at Bridgman. Farmers and Merchants National bank, Benton Harbor, bought 50 per cent of issue and Continental bank, Chicago, the remainder. Bonds at 8.25 per cent over 10 years were issued by City of Bridgman and will be amortized by Gast which is building $1.5 million plant on 13.8 acre site. Card's Sender Has Time For Thought

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

"Wish you a Merry, Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year" is a frequently expressed sentiment at this time of year.

So it was no surprise when Berrien Circuit Judge William S. White read that greeting handwritten on a Christmas card he received.

But the sender did surprise him. The card came from M.C. Woods — who received a 15 to 50 year prison sentence from the judge last summer.

Woods was sentenced for armed robbery stemming from a Feb. 7 holdup at the Scottdale branch of the Peoples State Bank of St. Joseph. Two bandits fled with some $11,000 but were captured with all the money only seven minutes after the robbery.

"Yes, I was surprised," White said of the unusual Christmas greeting, and added he felt the sentiment was sincere.

White sentenced the 24-year-old Woods, of Benton Harbor, White noted: "From what you have told me, you have at least made the first step towards rehabilitation." White recommended Woods be permitted to study to become an X-ray technician while he is in prison.

The printed portion of the card, under which Woods wrote his personal greeting, said: "To wish you a joyous Christmas and happiness throughout the year."

THREE IN BERRIEN DISTRICT COURT

Women Face ADC Fraud Counts

By NICK SMITH
Staff Writer

Three women were arraigned in Berrien Fifth District court yesterday on charges of welfare fraud over $500.

Barbara Coates, 42, of 875 Buss avenue, apartment A, Benton Harbor, waived examination and was bound over to Circuit court.

Juanita Kay Quick, 22, of 1112

Ontario, apartment 7, Niles, pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of welfare fraud under $500, and the felony charge was dismissed.

Alice DeMorrow, 27, of Three

Oaks, demanded preliminary examination on the charge.

The women were all arraigned before District Judge Leo Cook. Their arrests followed investigations by the Office of the Inspector General, state department of social services, and the Berrien prosecutor's welfare fraud unit.

Barbara Coates, between November of 1970 and February of 1973, allegedly received $2,023 in ADC benefits but is accused of failing to report social security benefits she received at the same time. The mother of four children, she was freed on $1,000 personal recognizance bond.

Juanita Quick was sentenced to fine and costs of $150, 18 months probation and restitution of $987.50 for fraud under $500. She pleaded guilty to illegally receiving ADC funds from April 1 to June 30 of this year.

Alice DeMorrow, mother of one child, allegedly received $2,358.50 in ADC funds to which she was not entitled from February of 1972 to June of 1974. She was released on $1,500 personal recognizance bond.

LMC Club Collecting New And Used Toys

"Toys for Tots," a drive to collect new and used playthings for needy youngsters in the Lake Michigan College district has been instituted by LMC's newly-organized Management club.

The drive was given a boost this week by Dr. James L. Lehman, LMC president, who presented three toys, one given for each of his own three children.

Receiving point on the LMC Napier Avenue campus for toys is a large decorated box in front of the college bookstore on the ground floor of the main building.

According to William Baker, business administration instructor and the club's faculty adviser, all persons in the LMC district are asked to bring their contributions of new and used toys to the LMC receiving box on weekdays between 9 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

All toys collected will be turned over to the Salvation Army for distribution to needy families during the holiday season. The drive ends Dec. 19.

St. Joe Beach Grant Hearing On Agenda For Monday Night

A public hearing on an application to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources for $28,500 to improve Tiscornia beach will be held at Monday's St. Joseph city commission meeting, according to City Manager Gerald W. Hepler.

The public hearing is a requirement before applying for the funds, Hepler said. He said the money, if granted, will go for recreational improvements at the beach including restroom facilities and a picnic area.

Also at Monday night's meeting there will be a public hearing on a tax reduction sought by Whirlpool Corp., St. Joseph division, for a new $1.4 million steel slitting operation. The reduction is sought under the Michigan plant rehabilitation and industrial development districts act of 1974 and requires local municipality approval.

Adding Machine Busy In St. Joe

The St. Joseph Area Good Fellow fund took some big strides today.

Santa Claus punched the adding machine to the tune of $204.50, bringing the 1975 total to $1,381.61. The fund is $3,818.39 short of its goal.

But by this time next week everything could be coming up roses. The results of the Lions Newsie sale will be in, and proceeds from the Dec. 19 sale will hopefully put the fund at or near the top.

Today's gifts included a $150 check from Whirlpool Corporation. At the same time as the corporate contribution came $29.50 contributed by employees of the Whirlpool Laundry Group Engineering Services Department.

Good Fellows like Ralph and Carol Roberts sent $10, and more good folks like Kathleen and Marie Schram also gave $10. Then there was $5 from the

It Wasn't Santa—Just His Helper

"That wasn't a 'goofy looking Santa' seen on the streets of St. Joseph, it was Santa's helper," said Wayne Ransbottom, manager of the Downtown Merchants Association.

A letter in yesterday's Herald-Palladium from Mrs. John Wenzlaff of Stevensville was critical of the "goofy looking Santa" she and her five-year-old encountered in St. Joseph.

Ransbottom said Santa wasn't scheduled to arrive until yesterday afternoon, but his appearance was postponed because he was stricken with an attack of phlebitis.

"We're hoping he makes a quick recovery and will be able to greet youngsters next week," said Ransbottom.

However, there's no doubt that Santa will be able to make his appointed rounds on Christmas eve.

As for his helper? "There certainly was no intent to deceive children," Ransbottom said.

Monday Musical Boosts BH Fund

The beauty of Monday Musical club's Christmas vespers was transformed in a major gift to the Benton Harbor Area Good Fellow fund today.

The fund received $244.45 from an offering taken last Sunday at the annual vespers sponsored by Monday Musical at First Congregational church, Benton Harbor.

Monday Musical traditionally divides the offering between the Benton Harbor Area and St. Joseph Area Good Fellow funds.

The Benton Harbor fund mounted to a total of $1,914.61, as Santa acknowledged other gifts today.

The student of Benton Harbor seventh-eighth grade center knows at an early age that everyone won't have a happy Christmas unless others help, so they gave $10.

Ralph and Carol Roberts put $10 on the line that the Good Fellow fund will be a winner again. Kathleen and Marie Schram are also backing Santa with $10. And Disabled American Veterans Chapter sent $5.

Catholic High Plans Yule Concerts

Lake Michigan Catholic high school has announced Christmas concerts will be presented Tuesday and Wednesday by vocal and instrumental groups. The high school's Little Group under direction of Mrs. Vilma Jornada will present its vocal concert at St. Joseph Catholic church Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. The 15-member group also will be singing at Mercy and Memorial hospitals.

Shoreham nursing home and Gateway rehabilitation center during the holidays. The Lake Michigan Catholic band under direction of Don Swikowski will present its concert at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the high school social hall. A slide presentation will accompany "Silent Night" and "Hark the Herald Angels Sing."

CHORAL GROUP MAKES DEBUT: Shoppers at Fairplain Plaza Monday will be entertained from 7 to 8 p.m. at Holiday Faire by the Midwest Chorale organized by Mr. and Mrs. Mark East, III. Other dates for the group are Dec. 18, Whitcomb Tower, 7 p.m., and Dec. 23, Exchange club room at Benton Harbor Holiday Inn. From left are: Yvonne, Margret

Lakers Swat Bees, Take Arrow Lead

Hot Shooting Earns 68-49 Win

BY PAUL MORGAN
Staff Sports Writer

BRIDGMAN — Coach Doug Hendricks took a gamble and it cost him a share of the Red Arrow conference lead Friday night.

The Bridgman head man used a sagging defense to shut off Lake Michigan Catholic's Bill Frantz but the Lakers overcame it with some good outcourt shooting to smother the Bees 68-49 here and take over first place in the league at 3-0.

The Bees, now 1-2 in the conference and 3-2 overall, went into the locker room at the half down by just 27-26. "I told them that we had to capitalize on our defense and collapse in on Frantz," said Hendricks commented.

The strategy on Frantz worked as the Bees held him to eight points. What Bridgman hadn't counted on was Tom Flood scoring 17 points, George Welch hitting 15 and Steve Gentry notching 14 all from outside.

The Bees' Bob Linke played one of his better games, scoring 13 points to lead his team. The 6-5 center may miss a few games as he severely sprained his ankle in the fourth quarter. Dave Zilke added 11 points for the only other Bee in double figures.

With its offense stymied in the first half, the Lakers gained the advantage with their tough full court press. "Our defense and our press kept us in the ballgame until our offense got in gear," said Catholic's head coach Al Nixon. "We played a great man-toman defense," grinned Nixon. "We've prided ourselves on our defense for the last two years."

One of the items that doomed Bridgman was its failure to convert on the easier inside shots. Although the Bees did make 21 of 51 attempts from the floor for a credible 41 per cent, they missed crucial tips when they really needed them.

Midway through the third quarter with the Lakers up by three, Bridgman had four straight tips miss the hoop. Catholic then spurred with a couple of field goals and eventually led after three quarters 44-36.

"We were trying to get the ball inside in the second half but we couldn't do it," commented Hendricks. "Our timing was off."

"The fact is we weren't playing defense and we weren't hitting," he added.

Nixon had high praise for his team's patience in the latter stages of the game, especially when his squad went to their stalling tactics with 4:20 left in the game. "The kids kept their composure when they went into the four-corner," Nixon said. "We went to it early because we pressed most of the game and needed a breather."

The stall resulted in Bridgman having to foul the Lakers to get the ball back. After making just one of seven tries in the first half, Lake Michigan canned 12 of 18 charity tosses in the final quarter. Gentry was four of four and Flood went three for four in that stretch.

They combined that hot streak at the free throw line by hitting all six field goals the Lakers tried in the last quarter to salt the victory away.

While the Bees hit 41 per cent of their shots, the Lakers made 26 of 54 tries for 48 per cent.

Lake Michigan pulled down 30 rebounds with Frantz and Welch each nabbing seven and Altic five. Bridgman had 41 rebounds with Wolf Wolf getting 14 of them.

Turnovers again hurt the Bees. They committed 20 miscues while the Lakers made 13 mistakes. According to Catholic's charts, they turned nine of Bridgman's turnovers into baskets, a fact that Nixon is very proud of.

Bridgman won the junior varsity tilt 47-36 with the Bees' Phil Ott netting game-high honors with 22 points. Mike Masini notched 12 and Kevin Wheeler had 11 points for the Lakers.

Gamble Paces Gull Lake Shelling Rams Win, Alone On Top

RICHLAND — South Haven took over sole possession of the Wolverine Conference lead with a 77-60 shelling of Gull Lake here Friday night in high school basketball.

The Rams are 5-0 overall, 4-0 in the league and one-half game ahead of idle Three Rivers. Gull Lake slips to an 0-3 conference mark and 1-4 overall.

William Gamble led the onslaught with 23 points, 14 of them coming in the first half. Rick Bus added 15, Nate Goodwin scored 14 and Mike Grimes had 10 for the Rams.

Gull Lake was led by Steve Sprague's 18 points and Jack

Nuyen added nine.

"I felt we played well in parts," said Rams' head coach M.H. White. "They were pressing most of the game and we burned them on the fast break."

With Gamble hitting his base line jump shots, the Rams zoomed out to a 32-21 margin at the half. "We were a little bit lax in the first part of the game," commented White.

The third quarter was more of the same as the Rams led 50-37.

South Haven canned an amazing 30 of 53 floor shots for 57 per cent while the Blue Devils made 29 of 64 tries for 45 per cent. The Rams were led in the shooting department by Gamble, who made 11 of 17 attempts.

Each team had 27 rebounds with Grimes pulling down 10 and Gamble seven. The Rams committed 25 turnovers, their poorest this season White indicated, and Gull Lake made 22.

"There were still some little things wrong," said White. "Like the position on rebounds and some careless turnovers."

"This is also the first game we've played where we didn't have a height advantage," he added.

By giving up just 60 points, South Haven remains the best defensive team with a 51.8 average.

South Haven won the junior varsity game 67-45. Perry Palanca notched 27 points for the Rams while Shelby Gamble had 13 and Leon Cunningham scored 12.

Moeller's Free Throws Save Hawks

HOPKINS — Coach Tom Pelon may have second thoughts the next time he tries a stall in a basketball game.

With about three and a half minutes left and Fennville up by five, Pelon had his team let the air out of the ball. But the Blackhawks blew the lead and it took a pair of Marc Moeller free throws with one second left to give Fennville an 80-79 Allegan-Ottawa conference win over Hopkins here Friday night.

Fennville is now 4-0 this season and 1-0 in the conference. The Blackhawks trail Allendale which is 2-0 in league play with its win Friday over Saugatuck. Hopkins is 1-3 overall and 0-2 in loop games.

Moeller, who scored 15 points in the last quarter and had 34 for the night, put Fennville ahead with 14 seconds left in the game when he hit a pair of free throws to make it 78-77. Mel Arnsman of Hopkins was then fouled on the inbound pass and he sank two charity tosses to give the Vikings a 79-78 lead.

The Blackhawks got the ball down court and Chris Schermer took an 18-footer which hit the back of the rim and bounded to Moeller who was then fouled.

"We had some lapses but I was satisfied with our play," said Pelon. "We moved the ball well."

Even though Hopkins committed 26 turnovers, it stayed right with Fennville but making 31 of 64 floor shots for a sizzling 48 per cent. "Our defense wasn't that bad but they were shooting over us and with men on them and making them," said Pelon.

"Hopkins didn't put a special defense in against Moeller, which kind of surprised me," indicated Pelon. "They just played a 1-2-2 zone and were well aware of him."

Besides Moeller's 34 points, Rudy Alfaro notched 12 points and Jim Scudder had 10.

Hopkins had a balanced scoring attack with Henry Chachulski netting 19, Phil Arndt and Tom Pawloski getting 16, Arnsman 11 and Bill Merchant scoring 10.

Fennville made 35 of 91 shots from the floor for 38 per cent.

Yuletide Ball

BUCHANAN — The Yuletide Ball, sponsored by the Buchanan College club, will be held Saturday, Dec. 20, at the St. Joe Kickers club, Arden, from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Tickets are $15 per couple and may be obtained by contacting Mrs. William Greene or Mrs.

Richard Dougherty. Music will be provided by the Doug Leiter band of Buchanan and refreshments will be provided by the club. Co-chairmen for the holiday event are Mrs. R.W. (Judy) Bellaire and Mrs. Greg (Julie) Gordon.

Proceeds will go to the club's scholarship fund. Since the fund was founded in 1953, 88 students have received loans to attend college. The money is loaned to Buchanan high school graduates without interest and is paid back after the student has graduated and is working.

Churches Plan Special Events

Dr. Wendell G. Johnston, president of Detroit Bible college, Detroit, will be guest speaker for the 11 a.m. and 6 p.m. worship services Sunday, Dec. 14, at NAPIER PARK VIEW BAPTIST CHURCH, Benton Harbor.

Dr. Johnston is a graduate of Bob Jones university and Dallas Theological seminary. He served in the pastorate before becoming academic dean of Washington Bible college, Lanham, Md., in 1964. He has been president of Detroit Bible college since 1968.

Mission No. 2 of HOPEWELL BAPTIST CHURCH, Benton Harbor, will present a program, "Scripture Cake," Sunday, Dec. 14, at 3 p.m. at the church.

The public is invited. Mrs. Ellis Hull of Pilgrim Rest Baptist church, Benton Harbor, will be narrator. A free will offering will be taken.

Pulpit Circle of NEW REBEL BAPTIST CHURCH, Benton Harbor, will sponsor a special program Sunday, Dec. 14, at 3 p.m.

Speakers will be the Rev. John McAfee of Israelite Baptist church, Benton Harbor; the Rev. Fletcher McAfee of Mt. Olive Baptist church, Niles; the Rev. Willard McAfee of Spring Street Baptist church, Muskegon; and the Rev. Richard Wilson of Queen Esther Baptist church, Muskegon.

Several church choirs will participate and soloists will be Mrs. Rosie Hadley of Benton Harbor and Norris Wilburn of Chicago. Mrs. Agnes Wright will be mistress of ceremonies.

A special program, "How Blessed Am I!" written and directed by Mrs. Bertha King, will be presented at NEW PARADISE BAPTIST CHURCH, Benton Harbor, Sunday, Dec. 14, at 7 p.m.

The program will be dedicated to the handicapped and elderly, youth and those in need of prayer.

Mission Circle No. 2 will present a Calendar Holiday Musical tonight at 7 o'clock at PILGRIM REST BAPTIST CHURCH, Benton Harbor.

Participating in the program will be the Rev. Isaac Joseph.

Michael Terrell, Mrs. Marshal Wysinger, Mrs. Mary Williams, Mrs. Velma Taylor, Mrs. Queen McKinis, Mrs. Ethel Hollis and the senior choir.

COLOMA — The "Redeemed," a musical group, will furnish special music for the 6 p.m. worship service Sunday, Dec. 14, at COLOMA BIBLE CHURCH.

Speakers will be Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Brundages, missionaries to the Navajos.

SOUTH HAVEN — FIRST UNITED METHODIST CHURCH, South Haven, will hold a general meeting at 6 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 17.

Following a potluck supper, there will be a program, "The Ghosts of Christmas: Past, Present and Future."

WATERVLIET — THE WA-TERVLIET FREE METHODIST CHURCH will host the Crusader Singers Sunday, Dec. 14, at the church, 619 Paw Paw avenue.

The sextet will be in charge of the 6 p.m. service and the public is invited.

A "Rose Tea" will be held Sunday, Dec. 28, at 5 p.m. at UNITED GRACE SPIRITUAL CHURCH, Benton Harbor.

The public is invited to the event, which is being sponsored by the church pastor, Rev. Channie Williams.

Church Donates Books To Local Libraries

Benton Harbor Seventh-day Adventist church has given 10 volumes to both the Benton Harbor public library and the Maud Preston Palenske Memorial library in St. Joseph.

"These contributions mark the beginning of our observance of the Bicentennial," Pastor C. Raymond Holmes said.

Included in the gifts are books ranging from vegetarian

cooking to perfectionism. Two biographies included are on historical personalities of southwestern Michigan.

They are "John Harvey Kellogg, MD" by Richard W. Schwarz, which describes the life of the man who invented cornflakes, and "Prophecy of Destiny," by Rene Nourbergen, which tells the story of Ellen White, one of the founders of the Seventh-day Adventist church.

Also included is "The Wisdom Seekers," by Emmett K. Vanderveer, which chronicles the history of Andrews university.

In making the presentation, Mrs. Ethel Wise, communications secretary, said the total of libraries in Michigan receiving this gift is 78.

Student Names Omitted

The names of students Dan Deitrich and Pam Lohdits were inadvertently omitted with a photo published in this newspaper Thursday, Dec. 11, promoting the seventh annual Christmas choral concert of St. Joseph public schools.

Also in the photo was William Tower, director.

The concert will be held Monday, Dec. 15, at 7:30 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

More than 250 high school and junior high students will participate. Directors will be Dennis Bowen, Renard Baldwin and Tower.

Participating will be the high school Choral Ensemble, Girls' Glee club and Concert choir, Milton Minstrels and Upton Uptones.

More Women In Clergy

NEW YORK — In spite of strong opposition from traditionalists and some battles that have been almost as rough as early civil rights struggles, more and more women are entering the clergy.

Currently there are 1,500 to 2,000 ordained clergywomen in the United States, reports the December "Seventeen."

The Methodists have about 500 women ministers, the United Congregationalists approximately 350 (they ordained the first woman minister in the United States in 1853) and other denominations such as the Evangelists, Quakers and Pentecostals account for most of the rest.

Ironically, missing from the above list is the First Church of Christ Scientist, founded by a woman — Mary Baker Eddy.

Women who are trying to break into some of the more traditional or orthodox denominations are having a difficult time. For those who have made it, it has been a battle, but they think that attitudes are changing.

The Rev. Deborah Wolfe, black Baptist minister from New Jersey, recalls her uphill experience. "I graduated from Union Theological seminary in 1960, but I wasn't ordained for 20 years. And when I was finally allowed to take my oral examination, 18 ministers showed up to test me. Male candidates face only four, or five." She adds that being ordained doesn't mean your problems stop. Recently she was invited by a male minister to preach at his parish, but although she had been ordained he wouldn't let her stand in the pulpit. She was a woman, so she preached from the floor. But in general she feels accepted, although some women (not men) continue to be a source of resistance.

Dr. Clara Hennings, the only woman Roman Catholic canon lawyer in the world, reports that after she had received a master of arts degree in theology with a straight-A average, the only canon law school in the country had no choice but to admit her. (Canon law is the system of laws established by a church council for administering the church).

"I was regarded with hostility by the other students," she recalls. "They would not talk or eat with me; I got obscene phone calls regularly and three threats on my life."

The Rev. Carter Heyward, an Episcopal minister, was ordained last year along with 10 other women, but two weeks later the ordination was rescinded. "We had been educated and prepared and had four diocesan bishops willing to ordain us. However, the bishop of Pennsylvania later claimed the whole thing was invalid because it was against canon law," she reports. She is hoping this situation will change in 1978 when the Episcopal General Convention meets. Meanwhile four more women were ordained last September and about 200 Episcopal women are in seminaries. Sally Preisand is one of two women rabbis in the entire country, but in the three years since her ordination 15 other women have begun studies to prepare for the rabbinate. Rabbi Preisand experienced little difficulty, either at school or in getting her rabbinical appointment (at the Stephen Wise Free Synagogue). "Of course there were some congregations that wouldn't talk to me and others that wanted me only for public relations reasons," she says. "But here I am in New York City." Being placed in a city area is an achievement, especially for a woman.

Rabbi Preisand spoke in Benton Harbor last year as part of the Jewish Cultural Series at Temple B'nai Shalom, Benton Harbor.

Denim Runs Full Range

Using a theme of "mood indigo," denim clothes from Hong Kong will run the full range from the sublime to the sensational.

The cut and the style will be international and the workmanship equal to the best in the world.

But there is also a clever Oriental touch to each and every one of the coordinates and ensembles in the collection that sets them apart from anything else that might come from Rome, Tokyo, Paris or London.

Couple Wed

COLOMA — Mr. and Mrs. Dale A. Fredricks are making their home at 283 Morrison street, Coloma, following their marriage Dec. 6 at Zion Evangelical and Reformed church, St. Joseph.

The Rev. C.W. Runkel performed the ceremony for the former Mrs. Susan Long Hayes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Long, 318 Coloma avenue, Coloma; and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fredricks, 5021 Little Paw Paw Lake road, Coloma.

The bride wore a beige print empire gown designed with a tiered skirt. She wore a wide brimmed beige hat and carried yellow carnations and baby's breath.

Mrs. Steven Swigart, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Jennifer and Laura Hayes, daughters of the bride, were flower girls.

Serving as best man was Robert Stinemman. Ushers were Walt Fredricks, brother of the groom, and Dennis Marsh.

A reception was held at Galati's restaurant, Harford. The bride is a graduate of Coloma high school and is employed at Sears, Roebuck and Company, Benton Harbor. Her husband, a graduate of Coloma high school, is owner of Fredricks' Arena station, Berrien Springs.

Around the clock with WOMEN

MEMORY MAKING TRADITION

Have A Salt Sculpture Party

Yuletide traditions — that's what the holidays are all about! Keeping the old — like reading the family's favorite story round a crackling fire on Christmas Eve. Or waking up to familiar holiday music.

Creating the new — like an annual salt sculpture party to make original, personalized ornaments for the Christmas tree! It's fun for all ages. Everyone from Grandpa to the toddler can participate. And, even better, you're guaranteed maximum merriment with minimal mess. Just a few steps — and you'll have a selection of family-fashioned Christmas ornaments that will last as long as your memories from making them.

First, plan your work areas like a progressive dinner. Use one spot for making the dough and another for molding or cutting out the pieces. A third area should be set aside for decorating the finished creations. Second, plan in advance for all ages.

In the first area, be sure enough flour, salt and water are available. Each batch of dough will make about two dozen cookie cutter shapes or one holiday wreath. Use a bread board for kneading the dough. Place dough that won't be used immediately into a plastic bag to keep it from drying.

Children can have one table filled with cookie cutters, a few foil-covered cookie sheets and the dough. Adults may want to join the kids in making simple designs — or set aside a separate space to work on more intricate free-form sculptures. Make sure a selection of forks, butter knives or other utensils are available for cutting, shaping and making imprints; nail heads make good holes for string-loops.

Cover the decorating table or floor, for the children with newspapers for easy clean-up. Water color paints work fine and runway splashes are easy to remove from children's clothes, faces and hair. When everyone's through, use spray varnish to protect finished pieces from moisture. Other salt sculpture tips? Have each family member sign their name and date on the back of their creation — memories for the years ahead. Then let everyone hang their finished pieces on the tree.

SALT SCULPTURE DOUGH

Two cups flour (not self-rising)

One cup salt

One cup water

Combine flour and salt in a large flat-bottomed bowl, and mix well with spoon. Next add water (a little at a time) mixing as you pour to form the dough into a ball. Additional water may be needed, depending on the humidity. Take care not to add too much so dough becomes sticky. Knead seven to ten minutes until dough has a smooth, yet firm, consistency. Place dough that will not be used immediately in a plastic bag to keep it from drying.

Place finished pieces on foil-covered cookie sheet and place in 325 to 350 degree oven. Allow to bake one-half hour for each one-fourth-inch of thickness or until golden brown. If sculptures puff up, reduce oven temperature by 50 to 75 degrees and poke place with pin or toothpick to release air.

Brush the piece with egg or milk during baking for a natural brown finish. Or, paint it after it is cooled. Apply a coat of lacquer, varnish or shellac to both sides of each piece to protect it from moisture or humidity.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

THE BIBLE

No. 217. The First Psalm

Moses gave the five books of Law to Israel, and David gave the five books of Psalms to Israel. Hebrew tradition ascribes the composition of all the hymns in the book of Psalms to David. Scholars have debated for centuries whether David wrote all of them or whether or not many were written by others and dedicated to him. Nevertheless, they have served as ritual inspiration and spiritual bulwarks through the ages.

The first Psalm gives us man's rewards for accepting the Law of the Lord: "Blessed is the man that walketh not in the counsel of the ungodly, nor standeth in the way of sinners, nor sitteth in the seat of the scornful: But his delight is in the law of the Lord, and in his law doth he meditate day and night." (Psalms 1:1-2)

"The ungodly are not so; but are like the chaff which the wind driveth away. Therefore the ungodly shall not stand in the judgment, nor sinners in the congregation of the righteous. For the Lord knoweth the way of the righteous: but the way of the ungodly shall perish." (Psalms 1:4-6)

NEW YORK (AP) — Professionally, clergymen have the job of building faith, brotherhood and service among the people, but some of them do some other original building on their own.

They're inventors. History is dotted with clergy who discovered new methods or principles, and some contemporary men of the cloth also work at it, dreaming up new ways of doing things.

"Inventing comes naturally to a clergyman," says Raymond Lee, head of a New York City organization of that name which assists inventors in research and marketing their ideas.

He says that a clergyman's "business is to be a leader, a teacher, a problem solver in the community, and it is these same traits that are pre-conditions of innovations."

As with the bulk of more than 70,000 inventions patented each year in this country, most of the clergy output consists of minor devices, designed to simplify getting things done.

But the inventive contributions of religious professionals remembered in history involve major forward strides, including:

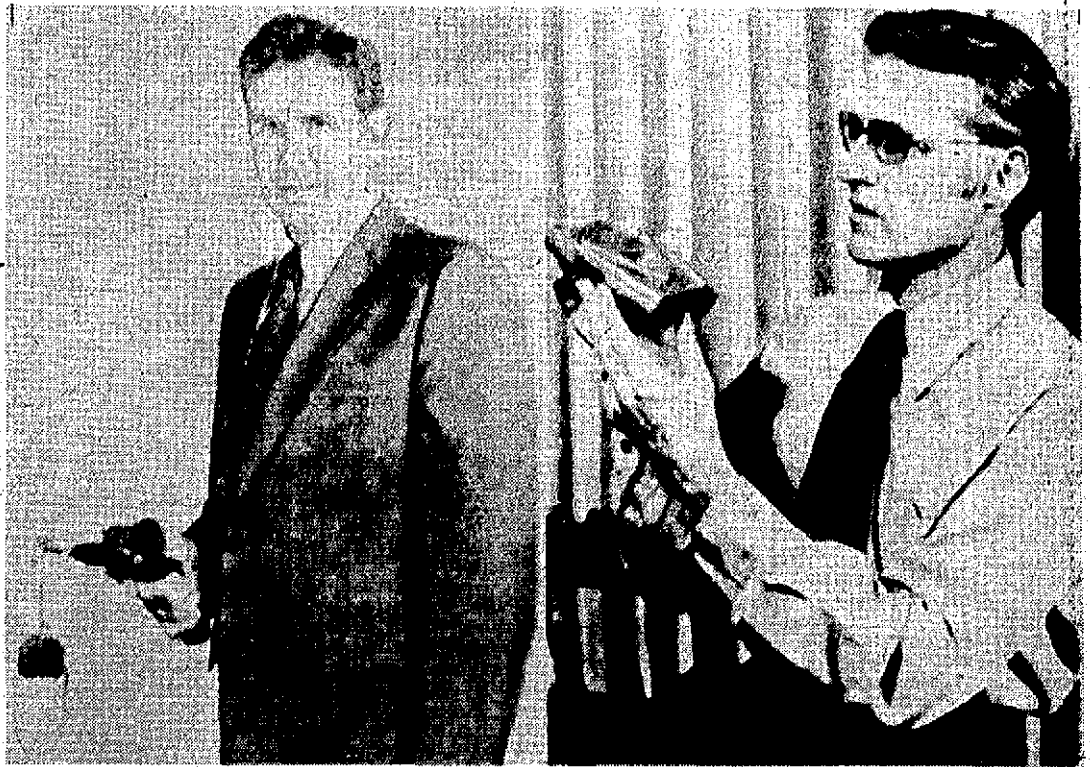

The 15th century Polish priest-astronomer Nicholas Copernicus who first enunciated the principle that the earth and planets move around the sun; the 18th century British chemist-clergyman Joseph Priestley who discovered oxygen and other basic elements; the 19th century Austrian monk, Gregor Mendel, who disclosed the genetic laws of heredity; Sister Elizabeth Kenney, the 20th century American nun who pioneered physiotherapy in treating polio.

Movable type was invented by the 15th century German, Johann Gutenberg, so the Bible could be printed. Most inventions, however, have far less impact, and generally are novel gadgets for doing some common task better or easier. This is the case for clergymen who lately have patented their ideas, a check shows.

Usually their work is to fill

Inventing Natural To Clergy

Same Traits

BUILDERS: Professionally, clergymen have the job of building faith, brotherhood and service among the people, but some of them also do some other building. They're inventors. Among the inventive ones are the Rev. Clyde Whitehead, left, a Southern Baptist pastor from Albermarle, N.C., with his retriever for snagged fishing lures. At right is the Rev. J.E. Ewart, a Prescott, Ariz., United Methodist pastor, who displays a model of his "telescoping" boat that can be back-packed. (AP Wirephoto) some particular need they've encountered personally or in their families.

This was the situation for Rev. E. Keim, of the nondenominational Cornerstone church, Warwick, R.I., whose daughter's car was hit in the rear, bursting and igniting the gas tank and enveloping the car in flames.

The occupants escaped unhurt, but the accident left him "thinking of a way to correct this condition," he says. Although not an engineer, he designed a fireproof gas tank, double-walled, with fire extinguishing liquid between the walls to prevent the fuel from being ignited if the tank is broken.

It was worked out "step by step in prayer," he says. "Whatever the outcome, the Lord gets the glory."

The Rev. Clyde Whitehead, a Southern Baptist pastor of Albermarle, N.C., likes to fish in leisure time, but he doesn't like to lose his lures, which is what kept happening when they snagged in the woods.

After combing sporting goods stores and finding nothing to solve the problem, he designed a lure retriever himself — a weight on a wire bail that slides down an adjacent line to the site of the snag, the weight applying enough force to free the trapped lure without breaking the line.

The Rev. Dr. J. R. Hankins, a Baptist pastor in Columbus, Ohio, has a book-lined study, as do most pastors, but he found that the binding of some of his favorite old volumes were becoming worn by pulling them out by the top of the binding.

He invented an adhesive tab that attaches to the spines of a book and allows it to be pulled out without strain on the binding.

The Rev. J. Ewart, a Prescott, Ariz., United Methodist pastor, to facilitate his fishing hobby, invented a "telescoping" boat packaged in sections small enough to backpack, but that can be readily assembled.

The Rev. Max Noe, of the Bible Standard church, Des Moines, Iowa, patented his automatic fish hook setter, a spring device attached to the line that jerks on it automatically when a fish bites the hook, even if the fisherman is dozing, snagging the fish before it can get away.

Unitas May Watch Record Fall

Tarkenton Near TD Mark

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — While Johnny Unitas sits helpless in the television booth Sunday at Pontiac Stadium, Fran Tarkenton just might replace him as the National Football League's most prolific touchdown passer.

Minnesota quarterback Tarkenton needs one touchdown pass in the Vikings game against the Detroit Lions to tie the NFL record of 290 set by the fabled Unitas. Two TD tosses would give 15-year veteran Tarkenton the mark to himself.

The 84,638 tickets were sold out more than a week ago and so the game will be broadcast locally as well as on national TV — with former Baltimore Colt great Unitas part of the broadcast team.

Chuck Foreman, the Vikings' star running back, can join Tarkenton in the limelight with a good game. He tops the National Conference in rushing (961 yards), scoring (18 TDs) and receiving (62 catches).

He needs only 12 yards to break the club rushing record and just 39 to become the first 1,000-yard rusher in Viking history. His touchdown and receiving totals are already team records.

Tarkenton has already passed Unitas in career completions with 2,888. Should he throw 32 passes against the Lions he'll also pass Unitas' record for attempts, 5,186.

Next year the seldom-injured scrambler could break Unitas' record of 40,239 yards passing, set in his 18 seasons with Baltimore and San Diego. Tarkenton has thrown for 38,468 so far.

While Minnesota, 11-1, clinched the NFC Central Division title a couple weeks ago — and a playoff berth — the Lions have dropped from the playoff picture and assured themselves of their seventh consecutive second-place finish.

Detroit, which won three straight games when Joe Reed took over at quarterback six weeks ago, lost the next three to fall to a 6-6 record.

"Personally, I'm excited about playing the Vikings," said Lions' Coach Rick Forzano. "It's a challenge to our personnel and a challenge to our coaches."

It'll be a challenge, all right. It's been a pretty good challenge the last eight years for Detroit, which has managed to beat Minnesota just once in the last 15 tries. The Vikings took a 25-19 decision earlier this season at Bloomington, Minn.

Detroit's lone triumph in the string was 20-16 last year.

Reed must try to find a way to crack the tough Viking defense, which happens to be ranked first in the NFL. It has allowed just 150 points, third best in the entire NFL.

The Lions' defense, meanwhile, has been pretty good all season. Tackle Herb Orvis, former No. 1 draft choice, has finally come into his own. Forzano said in last week's loss to the Bears, Orvis "played the greatest football game that a defensive tackle played in an NFL game this year."

If the Lions don't beat Minnesota, their only hope of salvaging a .500 record will come in the finale the following Sunday at home against another divisional leader, St. Louis.

Dentzman Tops In Bangor Win

BANGOR — John Dentzman scored 16 points and Ricky Ross added 12 Friday night as Bangor nipped Galesburg - Augusta 55-51 here.

The Vikings trailed 12-8 at the end of the first quarter, but outscored Galesburg 34-19 during the middle two quarters to take a commanding 42-31 edge. From there Bangor simply held off a fourth-quarter challenge from the visitors.

Bangor, now 2-3, hit 24 of 64 from the floor for 38 per cent, while Galesburg found the range on just 18 of 63 for 29 per cent.

The Vikings held a 39-32

rebounding advantage with Ross grabbing 14 for the winners. Skyler Morgan came away with 12.

Kevin Standley led the losers with 19 points and Ted Homan added 12.

Unbeaten Marcellus Routs Lawton 80-57

LAWTON — Unbeaten Marcellus blew past Lawton 80-57 in SAC action here Friday night.

Marcellus, now 2-0 in the league and 3-0 on the season, jumped off to a 24-5 first quarter lead and was never really threatened.

Lonnie Lewis scored 21, Dave Mason 16 and Steve Bradley 12 as Marcellus hit 29 of 68 field goals (43 per cent) and 23 of 37 free throws (63 per cent).

Lawton got 13 points from Dawson Rupp while making 21 of 54 field goals (39 per cent) and 15 of 30 free throws.

Lawton failed to score on its first 11 possessions but didn't give up. "We could have folded our tents and gone home," declared Blue Devil coach Bruce Bendix, "but our kids didn't give up."

After the early cold shooting,

Lawton was hampered the rest of the way by turnovers. The Blue Devils finished with 41, compared to 25 for Marcellus.

Marcellus also posted a 54-47 rebounding edge, with Lewis being a "bear on the boards."

The loss dropped Lawton to 0-2 in the SAC and 0-3 on the season.

Marcellus also won the junior varsity preliminary.

Gobles Uses Press To Strangle Martin

GOBLES — Gobles put on effective press in the second quarter to make up an 14-12 first-quarter deficit and earn a 57-39 win over Martin here Friday night in an Southwestern Athletic Conference clash.

With the press on, the Tigers outscored Martin 45-25 the last three quarters.

Gobles had 10 players find the scoring column as it got plenty of help from its bench. The lone player to crack double figures was Bryan Clement with 10 points. Rob Vandenberg scored 12 and Rook 11 for the losers.

Both teams were cold from the court with Gobles hitting on 25 of 79 shots for 32 per cent and Martin on 14 of 47 for 31 per cent. The hosts dumped in seven of 14 free throws, Martin 11 of 19.

Gobles held a 37-30 edge on the boards with Jeff Price and Jim Hansen both taking down seven caroms.

Gobles is 3-1 overall and 1-1 in SAC play, Martin sinks to 1-2 overall and 1-1 in loop action.

Dutch Down Niles

HOLLAND — Loren Schrotenboer tossed in 18 points and Dennis Lawson added 17 Friday night as Holland handed Niles a 68-56 defeat here.

The Dutch raced away to an early 15-4 lead in the first quarter and were never really headed. Holland led 38-28 at halftime and the closest the Vikings got after that was six.

Niles closed to within 59-53 with 2:24 left before guard Steve Adams fouled out.

Tim Garner led all scorers with 20 for the Vikings. Bill Brenner scored 11 and Adams 10.

Niles hit 24 of 70 from the floor for 34 per cent, while Holland found the range on 25 of 64 for 39 per cent.

The Vikings, now 2-1 in the Big Seven and 2-2 overall, host undefeated St. Joseph next Friday. Holland is 2-1 and 3-1, respectively.

Coach Of Year Title Won By Trenton Mentor

MIDLAND, Mich. (AP) — Trenton football coach Jack Castagnola has been named Michigan Class A coach of the year by the Michigan High School Football Coaches Association.

Trenton, 9-0, finished first in the Michigan Associated Press poll but was not selected to participate in the statewide playoffs.

Bob Lapointe of Class B champion Dearborn Divine Child was selected coach of the year in his division.

Tom Saylor of Hudson was named coach of the year in Class C. His team set a national record of 72 straight victories before losing to Ishpeming in the statewide championship game.

Richard Mettlich of Class D champion Crystal Falls Forest Park won honors in his division.

At a weekend meeting, the coaches also scheduled their fourth annual football clinic for Jan. 23-24 at Troy Athens High School. More than 1,400 coaches are expected to participate.

High-Flying Cass Soars To Fourth Straight Win

CASSOPOLIS — Undefeated Cassopolis got its offense in high gear to race by Edwardsburg 88-58 here Friday night in a Blossman league contest.

The Rangers, now 4-0 this year overall and 2-0 in the league, got their fast break working in the second quarter to outscore the Eddie 24-11 and then coasted the rest of the way to the easy win.

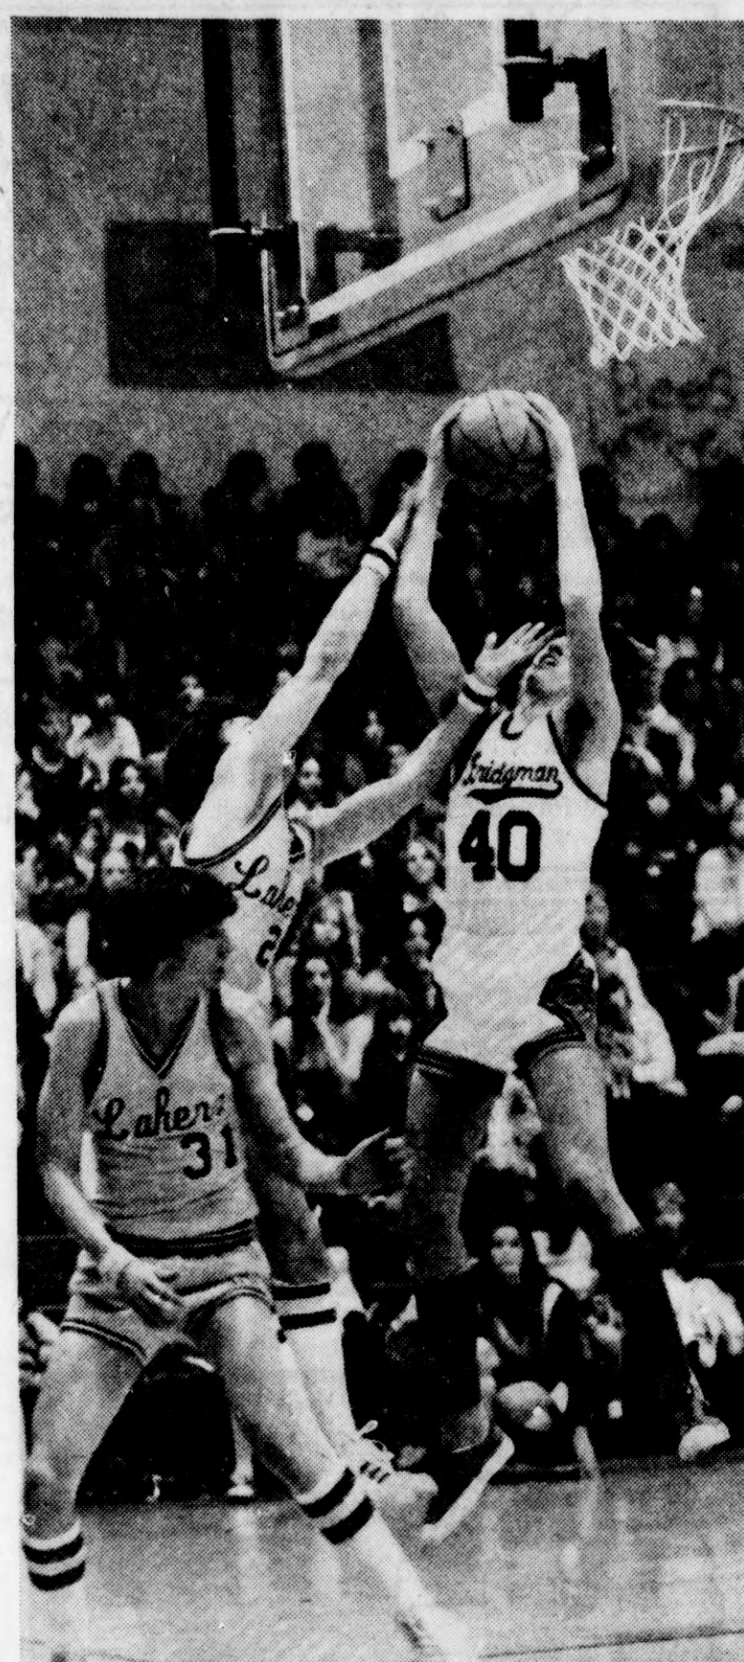

Glen Hawkins, who came off the bench to top all scorers with 19 points, sparked Cass in the second period with six points and seven rebounds.

Gary Young added 14 points for the winners while Alan Vanzant and Harold Nelson had 10 apiece. Steve Barella hit 15 and Steve Staal 14 for Edwardsburg, now 0-5 overall and 0-2 in league action.

Young also pulled down 19 rebounds, 12 the first half. Vanzant had 11 caroms and Hawkins nine as the Rangers held an overwhelming 63-24 margin on the boards.

Paw Paw Falls To Fourth Loss

ALLEGAN — Paw Paw gave Allegan a battle down to the wire but ended up losing a 59-55 Wolverine conference decision here Friday night.

The Redskins are now 0-4 for the season for their worst start since the 56-57 season. Allegan is 3-3 overall and 2-2 in the league.

The Skins tied the game twice in the last period with the last deadlock coming at 53-all at 2:28 left.

Free throws proved the difference as the Redskins held a 25-23 edge in field goals but hit only five of seven free throws compared to 13 of 24 for Allegan.

Kirt LaPine led Paw Paw with 18 points while George Crouse had 10. Four Allegan players reached double digits with John Hoffman canning 14 points, John Webber 13, Brent Cook 12 and Dave Hodge 10.

Paw Paw connected on 32 per cent of its shots, Allegan 34 per cent.

Paw Paw did enjoy a 43-39 rebound margin with Crouse collecting nine rebounds and LaPine and Jim Blake seven each.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Babysitter Short-Changed

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 16-year-old girl who has been reading your column for a long time. I believe you give sound advice. Now I have a problem and I hope you can help me.

I've done babysitting for these people who are friends of my parents. They have four very active children. About four months ago I told the woman I thought I deserved an increase from 50 cents an hour to 75 cents. She said she'd compromise and pay me 60 cents.

I babysat for two other families and received 75 cents an hour from them. I really need the money but decided not to make an issue of it with this first lady because of the family friendship.

Three weeks ago, The Great Compromiser needed a sitter on short notice. I had another commitment. She begged me to find her another sitter. I did. She paid that girl 75 cents an hour. The following week I sat for her and she paid me 60 cents an hour. I am puzzled by her attitude.

I know this woman likes me and so do her children. I always do a good job and am completely reliable. Why won't she pay me 75 cents an hour? Please answer these questions and give me some advice. — Short-Changed

Dear Short: Would you pay a sitter 75 cents an hour if you knew you could get her for 60 cents? Well — this is the way Mrs. Compromiser has it figured.

When you make it clear that you are no longer available at the old price she will either pay the new price or get someone else and pay HER 75 cents an hour.

Home-Made Gifts

Dear Ann Landers: A word before the holidays on a problem that has gripped me for four years running.

Certain members of my family give homemade clothing for gifts at Christmas time. I'm not a snob about homemade gifts. Some of my relatives sew very well. But I hate to receive a gift with a note in the box that says, "Needs only a hem" — or, "All you have to do is fit this around the waist."

Those "last-minute touches" take anywhere from two to ten months. For example, last Christmas my mother-in-law made bedspreads for each of the children. They needed to be shortened "slightly." Almost a year has passed and I still haven't gotten around to it. How much better it would have been had Grandma purchased something. Anything.

Please say a word or two in your column about sending unfinished gifts. Ann, I'm sure this problem is not mine alone. — Finish It Or Don't Send It

Dear F.I.: I'm with you.

ANN LANDERS

Here's my message.

Dear Readers: When you send someone an unfinished gift, you are sending them work. I can't say it any plainer than that.

Likes Reflection

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 15-year-old girl who is worried about becoming an egomaniac.

Whenever I pass a mirror I have to stop and look at myself. When I walk down the street, I often sneak looks at my own reflection in the store windows. Is this normal? I am — Secretly Worried

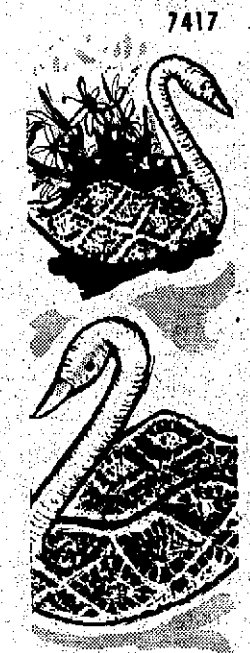

Dear S.W.: There's nothing abnormal about enjoying a quick glimpse at yourself in a mirror or sneaking a look at your reflection in a store window. If you stood for hours admiring yourself, I'd say you had a problem. But "Vanity, thy name is woman," and it shall be ever thus!

Ann Landers discusses teenage drinking — its myths, its realities. Learn the facts by reading "Booze and You — For Teen-Agers Only," by Ann Landers. Send 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

FOR SUNDAY, DEC. 14, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19) One who fails to care for her possessions may try to borrow something today. It won't be returned in the same condition.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) A friend who sometimes does things erratically should be avoided at all cost today. This person could cause you problems.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be careful today not to let the cat out of the bag about something you were told not to repeat.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A small, intimate group would be far more appealing to you today than being caught up in the crush of a crowd.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Some of your views will not be popular with others today. Don't press your points too hard. Don't bring up touchy issues.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you're traveling today be sure your reservations are verified. There's a possibility arrangements could get fouled up.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A friend who has herself in a bit of a financial bind may suddenly make a request for a loan today.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Better discuss your plans today with your mate before making commitments. Your interests aren't on the same wavelength.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22) If you're working on a pet project today and want it realized the way you envision it, screen coworkers with care.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 19) Keep a close eye on your youngsters today. It's possible they could get into something that would create havoc.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) This is one of those days when the last people you'd like to see may suddenly pop in on you, just at dinnertime.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You're likely to be in a very gregarious mood today. Just be sure you give others a chance to get in their two cents' worth, too.

FOR MONDAY, DEC. 15, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be extra careful today in financial dealings. You are susceptible to outside pressures that could cause you loss.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Someone who did a favor for you will seek its return today. Balance what they did for you against what they are requesting.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Problems you become enmeshed in today will probably be of your making. Don't blame someone else for your plight and thus irritate them.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't prevail upon friends to do physical work for you today. Eliminate headaches. Hire a professional.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Curb your enthusiasm before associates about a project you're vitally interested in. They're not necessarily sold on it.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Square pegs don't fit in round holes, though that's the way you want it today. Back off when you find you're putting things in the wrong places.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Keep out of a friend's complex business affairs today. Your simplistic solution may make you the scapegoat they're seeking.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) This is not a good day to try to iron out a problem where money is an issue. Neither party will be happy at the outcome.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22) You'll be a bit irritated today by a friend who'll request aid in a very demeaning manner. Let him fend for himself.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 19) Avoid doing anything socially today where you feel your presence is obligatory. You won't have fun. Others will be aware of it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) There's a good possibility domestic disturbances will erupt today. Keep cool. Don't pull an "I told you so."

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Things that normally wouldn't faze you will irritate you today, particularly if you're around people whose actions have bothered you in the past.

Family Films Tuesday

Opal mining in Australia, Nova Scotia's woodlands, and the pokey marine snail are subjects of movies to be presented for Family Film Night at Maud Preston Palenske Memorial library, St. Joseph, Tuesday, Dec. 16, at 7:30 p.m.

"All You Have to Do Is Dig" visits the "fossackers," both professionals and hobbyists who live in or visit the opal mining towns in Australia. "Blessings on the Woods" is a tribute to the beauty of Nova Scotia's woodlands expressed in poetry and recorded in filmed scenes that convey imagery of each line, and "Castles in the Sea" follows the unusual habits of the pokey but determined marine snail.

A story hour for preschool through second grade children will be held Saturday, Dec. 20, at 11 a.m.

A display of toys dating from 1837 to 1940 will be at the library for the month of December.

New books at the library are "The Private Franklin" by Anne Lopez and Eugenia W. Herbert; "Washington Journal: The Events of 1773-74" by Elizabeth Drew, and "Life with William Randolph Hearst" by Marion Davies.

Why does it seem that the relationship between doctors and patients is so much less friendly than it used to be? I've given some thought to this and I wonder if patients themselves are not responsible.

Mrs. B.N., Ind.

Dear Mrs. N.: There are so many factors in the equation of the doctor-patient relationship that it is almost impossible to examine and understand all of them. What impresses me in my travels around the United States is how consistently good this valuable relationship still is.

Many people recall childhood experiences with their doctors and tend to magnify that relationship in retrospect. Yet when today's interpersonal contacts between doctors and their patients are carefully considered it is surprising how well this mature relationship holds up.

It is true that many physicians are overworked. They do not have the time to make house calls and sit around and chat. These pleasant amenities reduce the doctor's functioning capacity and rob him of the energy he needs for the rest of his patients.

Many people believe that the "family doctor" no longer exists. This is not so. The American Academy of Family Physicians is a remarkable organization — devoting itself to the continued education and training of the family physician. They turn out "specialists" in the field of general medicine. This "specialty" ranks in importance with every other specialty in its contribution to the health of the community.

You suggest an interesting new approach. The complexities of being a patient in this frenetic world make them more anxious and more vulnerable to the slightest variation in the doctor's attitude.

I truly believe that patients can contribute enormously in reaffirming and solidifying the relationship with their doctors, too, need consideration, and understanding that they are pressured and made tense by the many problems they bear.

DR. LESTER COLEMAN has prepared a special booklet entitled "Alcoholism — A Family Disease." It probes this grave problem and offers hopeful advice. For your copy, send 25 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lester L. Coleman, M.D., (Alcoholism booklet), P.O. Box 5178, Grand Central Station, New York City 10017. Please mention the booklet by title.

Officers Locate Missing Vehicles

Benton Harbor police late last night and early this morning recovered an auto and a pickup truck, both reported stolen

FLUSHED LETTER: James P. Hosty Jr., a former Dallas FBI agent now stationed in Kansas City, tells a House Judiciary subcommittee, in Washington Friday, that he personally flushed down the drain a threatening letter from Lee Harvey Oswald. Hosty said he was ordered to destroy the Oswald letter by J. Gordon Shanklin, who at the time was chief of the Dallas FBI office. But Shanklin swore he does not remember seeing the note or ordering it destroyed. (AP Wirephoto)

TODAY In History

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Saturday Dec. 13, the 347th day of 1975. There are 18 days left in the year.
Today's highlight in history:
On this date in 1577, the English navigator Sir Francis Drake began his history-making voyage around the world.
On this date:
In 1781, a day of prayer and thanksgiving was observed in the United States to mark the end of the Revolutionary War.
In 1808, the Spanish city of Madrid fell to the French under Napoleon.
In 1862, during the Civil War, Union troops were defeated by Confederates on Marye's Heights outside Fredericksburg, Va.
In 1918, in World War I, troops of the U.S. 3rd Army crossed the Rhine River at Coblenz, Germany.
In 1944, in the Pacific war, a Japanese suicide plane crashed into the U.S. cruiser "Nashville," killing 138 crewmen.
In 1966, former President Dwight Eisenhower was reported in good condition after surgery for removal of his gall bladder.
Ten years ago: NATO foreign ministers gathered for a semi-annual meeting in Paris with the war in Vietnam the prime topic.
Five years ago: gunners downed a U.S. bomber carrying top secret equipment into Laos.
One year ago: the House gave final approval to a bill curbing strip mining.
Today's birthdays: former Secretary of the Treasury George Shultz is 55 years old. South African Prime Minister John Vorster is 60.
Thought for today: the best way to cheer yourself up is to try to cheer somebody else up — Mark Twain, 1835-1910.
Bicentennial footnote: 200 years ago, the Massachusetts council ordered the seizure of the estates of all loyalists who had taken refuge in Boston or returned to England.

Police said two boys, ages 16 and 15 of Benton Harbor, were arrested at 11:30 p.m. Friday, after officers stopped a 1967 Buick. The boys were petitioned to juvenile court on charges of unlawfully driving away an auto and remanded to their parents.
Police said the auto matched the description of one that was reported stolen Friday evening by Rita Johnson of 529 McAlister avenue, Benton Harbor. The car was reported stolen from the parking lot of Wolf's grocery store, 430 Pipestone street.

There have been no arrests in connection with the pickup truck reported stolen in St. Joseph about 2 a.m. today. It was found in Benton Harbor, after it had struck a tree on Vineyard, near Cedar street.

Police said the truck was abandoned, but its engine was still running when it was discovered by officers on patrol duty about 5 a.m.

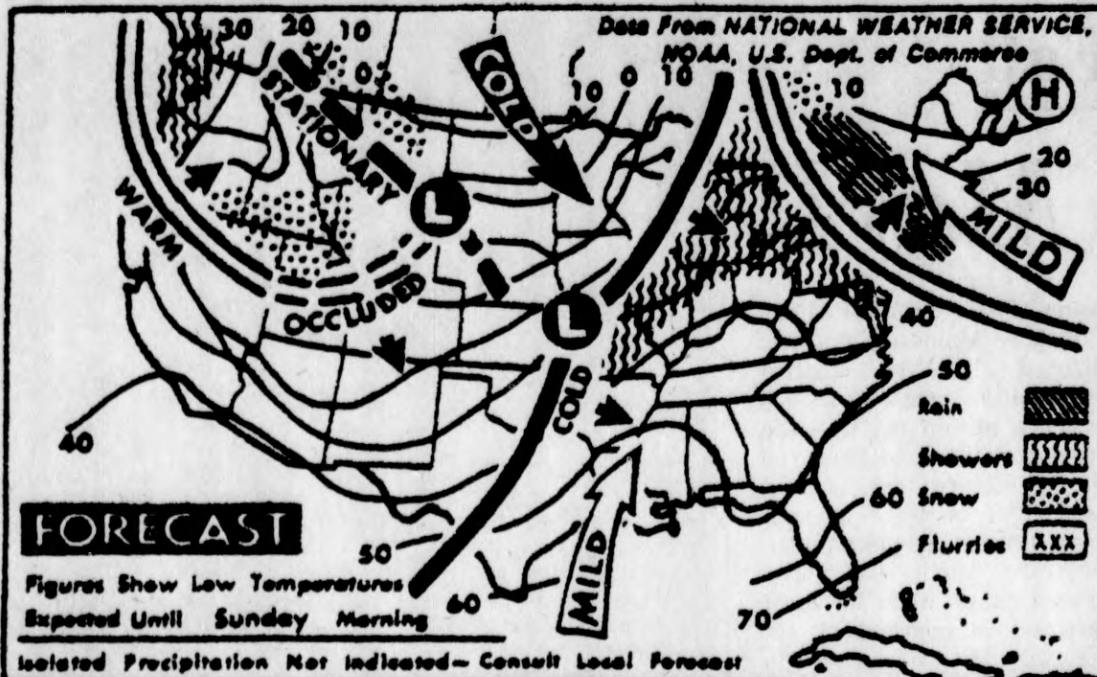

St. Joseph police said the truck was reported as stolen by Glenn Arnold of North Shore Estates, 1565 North US-33, Route 2, Benton Harbor. The truck was parked in downtown St. Joseph, police said.

Linda Sue Walters, 21, of 877 Wauconda avenue, Benton Harbor, told city police at 1:40 a.m. today, a man burned her with a cigarette and stole her purse containing $51, during an altercation at the Ponderosa bar, 426 Territorial road. She was not hospitalized, police said.
Police were told that the man fled the bar with the purse.

NESSIE A MOVIE PROP?
GLASGOW, Scotland (AP) — The latest theory on Nessie, the Loch Ness monster's nickname hereabouts, is that recent photographs purported to be of it may show nothing more than an old movie model, which sank in the lake in late 1960s.

TODAY'S WEATHER MAP: Showers are forecast tonight for parts of the Midwest, the Great Lakes and mid-Atlantic region. Rain is forecast for the Northeast. Scattered areas of snow are forecast from the central to the northern Rockies and showers are forecast for the Northwest. (AP Wirephoto Map)

THIRTY-DAY FORECAST: This is the 30-day outlook for precipitation and temperatures, according to the National Weather Service. (AP Wirephoto Map)

U.S. Could Lose Arms Trade

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Billions of dollars in U.S. defense funds would be spent in Western Europe rather than at home under plans for standardizing weapons being worked out in the North Atlantic alliance. The objective is to make the defense dollars go further and to increase military efficiency. But that could also mean fewer orders and jobs in U.S. industry. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and foreign ministers from the 14 other allies decided Friday, on the final day of their winter meeting, to set up a program intended to make weapons more compatible. For example, they want a British computer finding the range of an enemy plane to be able to transmit the information to a U.S. missile.

Benton Man Injured In 2-Car Crash

A Benton township woman received apparently minor injuries in a two-car collision investigated by Benton township police at Pipestone road and Rackliffe drive, at 5:15 p.m. Friday.

Police said Janet Harding, 29, of 2373 South Glendale road, received bruises but decided to seek her own medical attention. She was reported to be a passenger in an auto driven by Thomas L. Harding, 34, also of 2373 South Glendale. He was unhurt, as was the other driver, Maggie Hankins, 55, of 834 Thresher avenue, Benton Harbor, police reported. Police said Harding was ticketed for failure to yield the right of way.

Moynihan Says He Speaks Up For U.S.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Ambassador Daniel P. Moynihan says when he speaks up on issues such as human rights in the United Nations it's on government orders and not on his own as critics have charged.

"If we have spoken to issues of human rights, we have done so at the order of our government, for the President and secretary of state, not on our own," Moynihan said Friday on receiving the Human Rights Prize of the International League for the Rights of Man.

The remark was taken as a reply to critics who suggest Moynihan is far ahead of U.S. government policy in concern for civil rights abroad. Many diplomats answering Moynihan in U.N. debate have addressed themselves to the American's outspoken style rather than to the issues he has raised.

The ambassador suggested Friday that Americans may have to become more tolerant of governments showing "willingness" to permit basic human liberties — even in contexts not attractive.

This could apply to U.S. allies run by one-party governments that maintain reasonable standards of individual freedom.

"With only two-dozen democracies left in the world," he said, "it is no longer tenable" to measure approval or disapproval of others by traditional standards of democracy.

For the United States itself, however, "it's all or nothing... The alternative is that great totalitarian night," he said.

Moynihan turned the award ceremony in a Manhattan townhouse into an impromptu demonstration of solidarity with Soviet dissidents Sergei Kovalev and Andrei Sakharov.

He told the crowd of about 200 that Kovalev was sentenced Friday to seven years in prison and three years in exile on a conviction of circulating information about persecution of the Lithuanian Catholic Church and that Sakharov, winner of the Nobel Peace Prize, had branded this "a challenge to the conscience of mankind."

"He is not alone — and that matters," Moynihan said, to a burst of applause.

Jerome J. Shestack, the Philadelphia lawyer who heads the International League, a private human rights organization, said that until Moynihan's arrival at the United Nations human rights there were "badly in need of a champion."

Diplomats from Liberia, Costa Rica, Britain, Israel, Canada and Austria attended the ceremony at which Moynihan was given a replica of the ink set used by Thomas Jefferson to sign the Declaration of Independence.

Large T.O. Dosumu Johnson said in a speech that Moynihan was a man afraid neither of speaking the truth nor of losing his job.

Politicians distrust a man who speaks the truth, Johnson said. Turning to Moynihan, he predicted that in time "you will lose your job, but you will reap your reward when men, women and children come up to you and say, 'This was a man.'"

MURDER SUSPECT ARRAIGNED: Steven Maleno, 25, flanked by Philadelphia detectives, is arraigned on charges of murder, attempted murder, conspiracy and assault in slaying of newspaper heir John S. Knight III. Maleno, of south Philadelphia, surrendered to police early Friday, hours after he was named as one of three suspects in the Knight murder. (AP Wirephoto)

FBI Joins Search For Murder Suspect

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The FBI has joined in the search for Salvatore Soli, a convicted drug user with a record of more than 50 arrests who is wanted in the murder of newspaper editor John S. Knight 3rd.

Another man surrendered shortly after police identified the alleged killers Thursday night, and the bullet-riddled body of the third suspect was discovered early Friday at a New Jersey country club.

Knight, 30, was stabbed to death in his expensive downtown apartment Sunday morning, triggering one of the most intensive criminal investigations in the city's history.

Police and FBI agents combed South Philadelphia and southern New Jersey for leads to the whereabouts of Soli, 37. In papers filed with U.S.

Magistrate Tullio G. Leonpurra, police said they had information Soli was staying at motels around Mount Ephraim, N.J., in the general area where the body of John S. Knight 3rd was found.

The magistrate issued warrants for Soli's arrest on charges of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution. That brought the FBI into the case.

The body of Melendez, 20, of South Philadelphia, was discovered about 8:30 a.m. Friday by a golf caddy walking home from the Pine Valley Country Club near Clementon, N.J.

Police said Melendez had been shot once through the head and twice in the chest with a small-caliber weapon. Detectives said the body appeared to have been dumped there several hours before it was found.

GM Asks Pollution Exemption

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — General Motors Corp. is seeking a three-month exemption from state air pollution rules to test a power plant boiler at a plant in Saginaw.

GM wants to begin testing a procedure which the auto maker says could result in a substantial reduction in industrial oil consumption. The test will begin in March and will result in emissions which will exceed state standards, according to the state Air Pollution Control Commission.

The commission will make a decision on GM's request for a "variance" from state emissions standards at its Dec. 15-16 meeting.

The procedure GM intends to test involves mixing pulverized coal with fuel oil for combustion in oil-fired boilers. Proponents say that if successful, boilers could use up to 40 per cent less oil.

Economic Recovery Seen As 'Erratic'

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — "Financial timebombs" left over from two years of recession are likely to make the nation's economic recovery erratic and cut short recovery, a Washington University economist warned Friday.

Prof. Hyman P. Minsky of the St. Louis, Mo. school, said even if major economic disasters are avoided, the nation will experience only a weak improvement because inflation and recession have produced "an era of financial conservatism by corporations and bankers."

"Thus, I look for protracted sluggishness through 1976, with the provision that if some of the financial time bombs go off, we can see a resumption of the sharp decline (of last winter)," he said.

But Minsky warned that continuing problems suffered by large banks in New York City, airlines, and by unstable oil prices leave such forecasts "suspect."

"The recovery is vulnerable to a disturbance from financial markets," he said. "...Public difficulties for a giant bank can induce even more conservative behavior with respect to debt than was experienced in the third quarter of 1975."

Minsky argued that the $70 billion government deficit between October of 1974 and September of 1975 was a most solely responsible for the current economic upswing.

"The recovery rests on big government," he said. "and any attempt to reduce government deficit before the private financial system is robust will lead to a resumption of the decline and increase the likelihood that the financial time bombs will detonate."

"The appellation can be upset by an exposure of financial weaknesses, a spectacular bankruptcy, a premature attempt to bring government expenses in line with revenues or a rise in interest rates. The odds are good that one of more of these will take place."

U-M economist Gardner Ackley, once President Lyndon Johnson's top economic advisor, warned that the nation cannot afford continued unemployment at a level above the worst point in the previous postwar recession.

"If, as some glibly assert, it will be 1980 before the unemployment rate gets down to even 5 per cent, several million of the young workers who will enter the labor force in this half-decade will bear permanent psychological scars," he said.

He suggested realignment of fiscal policy to increase employment even if prices rise somewhat more quickly as a result.

As an alternative, he said the government could go to direct controls, incomes policies, or manpower and public employment policies.

Lawyer Seeks Ban On Carols

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP) — A lawyer who filed suit to stop Christmas caroling in the courthouse says he's no Scrooge. He just thinks it's wrong to make a jury listen to murder testimony and "Joy to the World" at the same time.

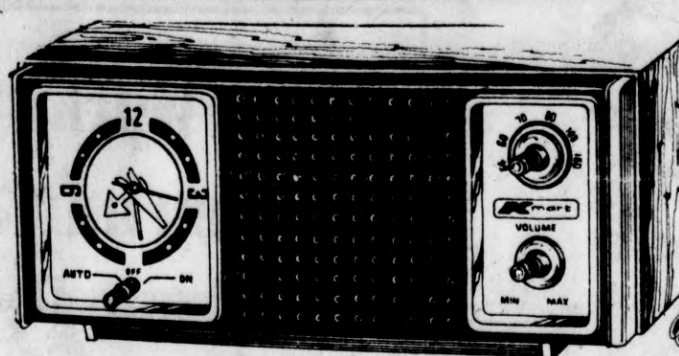

Attorney John Aponick Jr. filed suit in county court Friday, requesting an injunction against the city commissioners who approved the caroling in the courthouse rotunda.

"We want the caroling postponed until after the trials are over, or the trials postponed until the caroling is over," Aponick said.

Scotland Yard: Terror Isn't Over Yet

LONDON (AP) — Scotland Yard warned the public today that the surrender of four Irish gunmen after a six-day siege in a downtown London apartment does not mean an end to terrorist attacks in Britain.

"We have seen an abject surrender, but let no one assume the campaign is over. The IRA may be the first to remind us of this," a spokesman for the Yard said.

Police suspect the gunmen — known to them during the siege only as "Tom," "Mick," "Paddy" and "Z" — are members of an IRA unit responsible for bombings and shootings around London in the last few months in which nine persons died and scores were wounded.

The public was reminded to remain vigilant, especially during Christmas shopping periods, and to be wary of suspicious parcels and especially packages under cars that might prove to be bombs.

The warning referred to the Irish Republican Army which seeks to drive the British from Northern Ireland and unite the British province with the Irish republic to the south.

Police sources said one of the four gunmen was expected to be charged today in the murder of Ross McWhirter, coeditor of "The Guinness Book of World Record."

They said the three others will be charged with bombings and shootings in London's West End.

During the siege police said they believed one of the four was Michael Wilson, accused killer of antiterrorist crusader Ross McWhirter. McWhirter was shot dead on his doorstep Nov. 27 as he was welcoming his wife home.

The four men gave themselves up Friday without resistance after releasing a middle-aged couple they had been holding hostage in one room of the couple's apartment.

The four, armed with four handguns and a rifle, burst into the apartment last Saturday night after fleeing a police ambush.

The hostages, postal inspector

John Matthews, 54, and his wife Sheila, 53, spent the night at University College Hospital. Matthews was said to be remarkably fit, but his wife was described as "very tired."

After the siege authorities refused to confirm whether Wilson was among the four gunmen, but police sources said they expected one would be charged with the murder.

Police said the Matthews couple had behaved in "typical staunch British" fashion during the ordeal and Queen Elizabeth II sent her congratulations.

Released on the balcony of the second-story apartment at 2:15 p.m. during a drizzling rain, Mrs. Matthews, who had been denied fresh food for five days of the siege, asked for a cup of tea.

Her husband was released two hours later.

Whalen Free Despite Order

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — John Whalen will remain free, despite an appeals court order that he be jailed by this Sunday, says a Supreme Court clerk.

Last month the Court of Appeals ordered the $50,000 bond on Whalen, key witness against former Supreme Court Justice John Swainson, be lifted 20 days later, or this Sunday.

The appeals court said Whalen had been free for six years since the original burglary of an Adrian jewelry store, and "enough is enough."

But a Supreme Court clerk said Friday the high court now has jurisdiction over Whalen's case and nothing could be done about putting him in jail unless the Supreme Court decided to.

The Supreme Court is considering Whalen's second appeal of appeals court rulings which have twice upheld his original 1970 burglary conviction.

The first time around, two years ago, Whalen allegedly made a financial deal with then Supreme Court Justice Swainson to have his case heard by the high court. The Supreme Court granted Whalen a new trial, and the case is now back to the Supreme Court again.

Swainson, a former governor, was convicted of perjury in November on Whalen's and others' testimony, though he was found innocent of bribery and conspiracy charges. He resigned from the bench a few days after his conviction.

Whalen's whereabouts are not known, although his attorney said Whalen is under police protection following an alleged arson incident at Whalen's St. Clair Shores home.

Illinois Man Joins Clark Axle Division

BUCHANAN — Thomas M. Fry has been named manager of industrial engineering for Clark Equipment company's Axle Division here, according to Louis Proctor, vice president of manufacturing.

Fry joins the axle division after having served with the Roper Corp. of Bradley, Ill., where he was a project engineer for three years, and in 1971, was named supervisor of industrial engineering.

Prior to that, he spent five years with Owens Brugh company of Iowa City, Iowa as plant manager, and five years with the Industrial Equipment division of John Deere in Moline, Ill. as standards engineer.

He attended General Motors Institute and the University of Iowa. Active in Jaycees and Boy Scouts, Fry is a member of the American Institute of Industrial Engineers, the American Society of Lubricating Engineers, and the Society of Mechanical Engineers.

LMC Auto Maintenance Course Is Designed For Average Driver

"Auto Maintenance for All" a new course instituted by Lake Michigan college's automotive technology department designed to teach men and women auto owners how to perform minor maintenance and repair jobs on their own cars.

The 17-week, two-credit course will meet from 1 to 4 p.m. Fridays beginning Jan. 30. Mail registrations for the course will be accepted through Jan. 14. In-person enrollment in the course can be accomplished during LMC's regular second semester registration on Jan. 21 and 22. Designed for average auto owners and drivers rather than for automotive technology students, the course will emphasize regular maintenance as well as teach the student to perform such functions as chassis and engine lubrication, minor engine tuneup, and other minor repairs for safe and efficient automobile operation. Students will work on their own cars and purchase all parts. The college will furnish the tools and the supervision. The class will be limited to 20 students, according to instructor Sam Laswell.

RADIO WHFB

Wisconsin Synod Sponsors Program

The Lutheran radio program at 9:05 a.m. Sundays on radio station WHFB is sponsored by the Wisconsin Evangelical Lutheran Synod and not the Missouri Synod of the Lutheran Church as reported in the Thursday edition of The Herald-Palladium.

Rev. Ronald Freier, pastor of the Grace Lutheran church, 404

East Glenford road, Lincoln township, explained that the WHFB program is called the "Lutheran Radio Worship" and not the "Lutheran Hour." The former is sponsored by the Wisconsin Synod, and the latter, the Missouri Synod, he said. WHFB will not air the 1975 Lutheran Hour holiday special "Christmas in Nigeria."

COLBY ACCUSES PIKE: CIA Director William Colby, left, appearing before the House Intelligence Committee in Washington Friday, accused Chairman Otis Pike, D-N.Y., of "frightening people" by saying several months ago that U.S. intelligence was incapable of predicting an attack on America. Colby also said U.S. intelligence efforts must not be dismantled in 1975 as U.S. defenses were in the years following World War II. (AP Wirephoto)

Townships Group Sues Founder For $47,000

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Michigan Townships Association has filed a lawsuit against its founder over missing money.

A civil suit was filed Friday in Ingham County Circuit Court seeking repayment of $47,000 in association funds from John Parisi Jr. of Kalamazoo, said Robert Robinson, the group's executive director.

Parisi, 49, served as the association's first executive director for some 20 years until he was fired in March 1975, Robinson said.

"The suit was filed by the board of directors of the association to seek the recovery of more than $47,000 in association funds plus other costs which were found to be missing or inadequately accounted for," Robinson said.

Parisi was unavailable for comment. His wife said he is suffering from heart problems and is unable to work because of poor health.

The suit also asks payment of Parisi's former surety bond with the Auto-Owners Insurance Co. of Lansing and "damages for professional negligence" from the Kalamazoo accounting firm of Siegfried, Crandall, Voss and Egley, which audited the association's books, Robinson said.

He refused to say how or when the association discovered the alleged loss of money.

The case has been assigned to Judge Donald Reitsig. Hearing dates have not been set.

Officials Ponder Next Kidnap Move

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Murder charges can be expected in the kidnaping and knife slaying of a Detroit banker, law enforcement officials from two states agreed Friday.

Three men and a woman have been charged in the kidnaping of James J. Crawford, 25, an assistant branch manager for the National Bank of Detroit.

The men have been charged with conspiracy to commit bank robbery by use of a hostage. The woman has been charged with being an accessory after the fact of kidnaping. They face hearings Dec. 18.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Richard D. DeLois in Detroit said murder charges probably would be filed in Crawford's death but that they would come from Ohio.

Max Marston, sheriff in Licking County where Crawford's bloodstained, knife-slashed body was found Thursday, said murder charges would be filed by his office but he didn't know when or against whom.

The U.S. Attorney's office here said state charges probably would await the outcome of federal legal proceedings against the men in Detroit, where Crawford was kidnaped Dec. 5 as he reported for work.

An affidavit filed by federal officials in Detroit indicated Crawford was marked for death from the time he was abducted. The affidavit in U.S. District Court said an informant told police the kidnapers planned to kill Crawford when they received $250,000 in ransom.

Dutch May Use Force

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands (AP) — Premier Joop den Uyl says he will not rule out the use of force to free 53 hostages held by South Moluccan nationalists in two sieges.

Den Uyl, speaking to reporters late Friday, said "there are no clear prospects for a quick, bloodless end to the sieges" in which four persons have died.

He voiced concern for the health of the hostages, some of whom have been captive for nearly two weeks. He met with top ministers at The Hague into the early hours today.

In his latest offer, the premier promised that The Netherlands would reconsider its stand on the South Moluccan issue after the hostages are released.

FAIR TRADE BILL SIGNED
WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumers will soon be getting a break of more than $2 billion a year in the marketplace on items ranging from liquor to small appliances, according to President Ford and supporters of a law that repeals state "fair trade" statutes.

Angola Not Vietnam, Colby Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — CIA Director William E. Colby, all but confirming that the United States is conducting a paramilitary campaign in Angola, says there is no similarity between U.S. activity in the African nation and involvement in Vietnam.

Colby was quizzed by the House intelligence committee on Friday about reports of U.S. involvement in Angolan strife.

He appeared to confirm U.S. activity in Angola by telling the committee the War Powers Act is not being violated because "paramilitary operations were stricken from" the act.

CIA officials have defined paramilitary operations as U.S. support for forces of other countries short of involving U.S. combat troops. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger had already indicated such support was being supplied to Angolan factions.

Colby said no Americans are involved in fighting in Angola but refused to comment on published reports that the United States has supplied $50 million to Angolan forces through neighboring Zaire.

Colby phrased his comments so that he never specifically confirmed U.S. operations in Angola. But he made it clear they are being conducted.

He said that when the United States sees the Soviet Union "trying to expand its power" it has to decide whether to react. Many times, he said, the United States decides not to react.

But, he said, "when it becomes a clear case of trying to overpower other forces" with Soviet trained, equipped and armed forces and Cuban technical assistance "then you begin to wonder what is the long term view of the Soviet Union's potential role there."

"You can say we can do nothing and it may go away and you might be right. But is it more prudent for the United States to take some modest action or do nothing?"

Colby said there is no similarity between any U.S. action in Angola and American involvement in Vietnam. Angola is a situation where the United States must decide whether to participate in a "modest" way, he said, while Vietnam was a case of "massive military commitment."

Colby refused to comment on reports that the United States is supplying $50 million in aid to Zaire to oppose Angolan forces which Colby said have been trained and equipped by the Soviets and Cubans.

Meanwhile, a senior State Department official said he did not know the exact amount the United States had given to anti-Soviet factions. But he said a report in The New York Times that the United States has spent $25 million and planned to spend another $25 million was more in line with his understanding than a report in The Washington Post $50 million has been spent.

Colby for the first time listed a series of what he called U.S. intelligence successes and acquired Chairman Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y., of "frightening people" with the statement several months ago that U.S. intelligence probably could not predict an attack on America.

Appeal Reversal Asked In Suit

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

A former laboratory technician trainee at St. Joseph Memorial hospital has filed suit in Berrien Circuit court, asking the court to reverse a decision by an appeal board and grant her unemployment benefits.

JUDGE-A-JUDGE: Judge Charles Goff, assigned to the civil division of San Francisco Municipal Court, conducts a pretrial hearing by phone in his office Friday. Goff decided it was "boring and expensive" for lawyers to sit in civil court through long pretrial hearings, so he started conducting them over the telephone last Monday as a one-week experiment. Sitting in his City Hall office, he would have the telephone operator get opposing attorneys on the line for a conference call and then preside over a three-way conversation. (AP Wirephoto)

Asks For Hearing

PAW PAW — Gloria Blanchetti, 34, 3700 South 50th street, Lawrence, demanded preliminary examination on a charge of writing three non-sufficient fund checks within 19 days when arraigned yesterday in Van Buren Seventh district court.

According to the charge, she issued three non-sufficient fund checks totaling $218 between Oct. 31 and Nov. 7 to private individuals.

Mrs. Blanchetti was released on her own recognizance pending a Dec. 23 hearing.

Pailing, of 604 West John Beers road, Stevensville, who also seeks retroactive benefits from the time her employment was terminated.

Cited as defendants were Memorial hospital and the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

The suit seeks the reversal of the employment security appeal board decision, claiming Mrs. Pailing was "accused of misconduct in her performance" but noting no testimony at a hearing supported a finding of misconduct or grounds for denial of benefits.

The suit contends the hearing was held before a state referee in St. Joseph on Feb. 24, 1975, and he ruled Mrs. Pailing was entitled to unemployment benefits. The suit says Memorial appealed that decision, and on Oct. 2 an appeal board ruled in favor of the hospital. Mrs. Pailing claims she asked for a rehearing, which was denied Nov. 21.

A hearing transcript in the suit notes Mrs. Pailing was hired on April 18, 1974, to work in the hospital's laboratory, and was allowed to resign on Sept. 29, 1974.

Hospital officials charged she prepared incorrect reports, mislabeled blood samples, and came up with improper test results, which the hospital claimed was careless and defective work.

Sailboat Delays Satellite Launch

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Launch of a communications satellite, the first in a network linking Alaska and the other 48 states, was delayed briefly while an Air Force helicopter chased a 24-foot sailboat out of the way.

LISTER HILL
Loses Verdict

Alabamian Loses $1.8 Suit Against Clark

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

An Alabamian who became a quadriplegic as the result of an industrial accident lost his bid for $1.8 million in damages from Clark Equipment Co. when a Berrien Circuit court jury found in favor of Clark.

The three man, three woman jury deliberated only 1 hour and 42 minutes yesterday before returning a verdict against Lister Hill, 52, of Mobile, Ala., to cap a seven-day civil trial in Judge Julian Hughes' courtroom.

Hill was injured on Oct. 4, 1963, while unloading cardboard boxes from a boxcar in a Mobile warehouse when a bale fell, hit him on the back, and knocked him to the floor, resulting in paralysis from the neck down.

He claimed he was driving a Clark lift truck, manufactured in 1951, and that Clark was negligent in failing to equip the machine with an overhead protective guard and failing to warn operators that the machine should not be operated in areas where boxes or other goods are stacked high.

Clark during the trial contended the danger should have been obvious, not necessitating a need for a warning. The company also claimed it was the custom of the industry in the early 1950's not to equip lift trucks with a canopy, but that dealers or purchasers would have them installed depending upon the use of the vehicle.

The trial was unusual because the jury was also required to decide whether a statute of limitations had expired before Hill filed suit, which in effect is what the jury ruled in its 5 to 1 decision.

Alabama law, under which the suit was filed, gives a plaintiff one year after an accident in which to file suit, and Hill did not file until 1966. But his attorneys claimed the statute was not applicable because Hill became incompetent from the accident and was incapable of recognizing his legal obligations.

The jury's verdict supported a 1969 decision by Hughes when he found in favor of Clark on the same basis and issued a summary judgment. But Hill appealed to the Michigan Court of Appeals, which sent the case back to Berrien Circuit court and said the issue on the statute of limitations was a question a jury must decide.

Atty. William Buchanan, of Grand Rapids, represented Clark in the trial, while Hill's attorneys were Peter Cincinelli and T.L. Majoros, both of Saginaw, and Joseph Matranga, of Mobile.

Berrien Building Authority Re-Elects And Re-Invests

The Berrien county building authority in a routine quarterly meeting yesterday re-elected the same officers and authorized re-investment of $200,000.

Officers for the building authority, handled of the courthouse in St. Joseph, are: Allen W. Baker, Jr., chairman; Joseph Schulte, vice chairman; George Behner, secretary and County Treasurer William Heyn as treasurer.

Other members of the authority include John E. Steele, Doyle Barkmoler, John Spelman, and James Dittmar.

Members learned a certificate of deposit for $100,000 held by the First National Bank of Waterford comes due Dec. 18, netting interest of $5,915, according to Heyn. He said that will give the authority a cash-on-hand balance of $204,723, and the authority authorized him to re-invest $200,000 for six months at the best interest rate available.

Authority members also set meeting dates for 1976 the same as in previous years, with the authority to meet the second Friday of March, June, September, and December.

South Haven Twp. Projects Worth $79,200

SOUTH HAVEN — Ten permits for projects costing an estimated $79,200 were issued by South Haven township during November, according to James Schnake building inspector.

The largest permit was issued to the Church of Christ, M-43, for a $25,000 sanctuary and garage.

Other permits were issued to Blue-J-Inc., CR-380, addition to house, $3,500; Delores Stultz, Syndicate Park, shed, $200; Henry Hinkle, 74th street, trailer, $2,500; John McKane, 18th avenue, barn, $2,500; Ervin Voisard, Blue Star Memorial highway, addition, $1,500; S & S Construction, CR-380, new home, $23,500; Ethel Langston, M-140, trailer, $4,000; Carol Richards, CR-384, trailer, $4,500; and Hardings Market, M-140, build entrance, $10,000.

Q. — My father is scornful of most of the modern adhesives. He says there is nothing that works as well as the old-fashioned animal glues. Is he right?

A. — Animal glues are probably the oldest types of wood glues. They are still used widely and most can be applied either hot or cold. They have great strength, but are not as moisture resistant as most of the modern adhesives.

Although many adhesives are advertised as all-purpose products, experience with them shows that each is better for a certain purpose, although it must be admitted that some of the new, fairly expensive adhesives come fairly close to having all-purpose characteristics.

As adhesive manufacturers insist, failures with glues and other binding agents occur mostly because they are not used exactly according to the directions.

The best advice that can be given to anyone purchasing an adhesive for a particular purpose is to read the label before buying. Not only should you pay attention to its specific uses, you should heed the instructions as to the manner of use.

Some adhesives are troublesome to prepare and apply, while others require a long time to set and cure.

Select an adhesive which fits your intended time and patience. And be especially careful that, if an adhesive is flammable, volatile or toxic, you are prepared to take the necessary precautions.

Q. — We have a U-shape kitchen which we plan to have remodeled. My wife wants to have an "island" center. Is this practical?

A. — An island in a kitchen adds extra counter and storage space. There should be a fairly large kitchen area won't so that it won't restrict traffic. If your wife handles the cooking chores, why not give her what she wants?

Q. — I took some varnish off an old piece of furniture some years ago and did a good job, using a scraper after the varnish remover had softened the finish. This time, I intend to do the same thing, but the furniture had some carvings on it, and I am sure the scraper will damage them. How do I handle it?

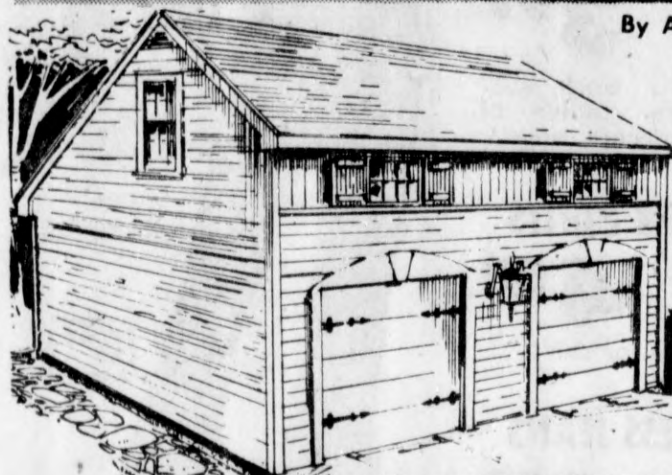

A. — Use a small, old but clean toothbrush. As soon as the old finish starts to wrinkle, rub it with the toothbrush, working very carefully. You may have to repeat the process to get off all the finish, depending on how many coats of varnish there are.

A Home With Planned-In Economy

By AUGUSTUS SUGLIA, Architect

HOUSE DESIGN 5050: Economy's designed into this two-story home: Plumbing (two upstairs baths, main floor lavatory) is stacked; family room and den, which can be a fourth bedroom, are built on a concrete slab. Maximum use is made of space by combining kitchen with dinette, living room with dining area. Note covered porch behind garage. Upper level provides three bedrooms, each with a corner location.

IMPROVEMENT PLAN: A doubly useful two-car garage has a loft that can be utilized for two (10' x 14') rooms, each cross-ventilated by two windows. Center stair at rear leads to this upper area. Exterior has simple lines to blend with most homes. Garage is 24' wide; 23', 10" deep; 18', 9" high.

It's Possible To Add Fireplace

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

You don't need to tear out a wall to acquire a fireplace. Many free-standing fireplaces can be installed easily by do-it-yourselfers and they are usually less expensive than the built-in kind. In addition, they are available in a full range of decorator colors.

Any size room can be accommodated, whereas a built-in fireplace may run into limitations because of structural problems.

For small rooms, there are fireplaces designed to be used in a corner — one occupies only 39 inches. Cozy lodge-type fireplaces go from floor through ceiling or may be suspended from chains. Some fireplaces are hung from walls; others can be erected so they serve two rooms.

In choosing a fireplace you must decide where you want it to go before you begin to shop for one. If it is to be put in a big room you might want one of the round lounge models that are built into drum bases that provide surfaces for accessories. The fire is contained within the circular screen mesh.

Hanging fireplaces hug the wall for another kind of look. A glass-enclosed, cube-type needs a 30-inch clearance with a combustible wall or a 6-inch clearance with a brick wall.

So-called Franklin stoves (few resemble the original) may provide the warmth and beauty of a fireplace as well as cooking conveniences. One manufacturer advertises a Franklin design with a swing-out barbecue grill. A handsome Franklin-type stove of solid cast iron has handcrafted parts, radiates good heat and can be used for cooking.

A good fireplace for a family room might be one that can be placed within a divider to serve two areas.

For most people a fireplace provides an aura of romance, coziness, relaxation. There really isn't enough heat thrown from some fireplaces to make a great difference in saving energy, although many newer units have been designed for greater efficiency in radiating heat, says the Fireplace Institute, which represents 55 manufacturers.

Fireplaces are generally appreciated for atmospheric effects — people feel warmer and happier when they are in a room with one. And some people are mesmerized by the sight of fire as god worshippers were in ancient times.

As Benjamin Franklin observed in his booklet, "An Account of the New Invented Pennsylvania Fireplaces," which has been reprinted for the Bicentennial by the Fireplace Institute, the English "...love the sight of a fire," and would not really accept a heating unit that merely warmed a room. It may also be important to feel the warmth and even to hear the crackle of logs.

New homes usually have fireplaces because the demand is so great, but a house may lack a fireplace though it is suitable in every other respect. Today it is easier to solve that problem either with a standing unit that may require nothing more than a flue through the roof or with a prefabricated one.

The pre-fab built-in is a big assist to the do-it-yourselfer. Some are engineered with everything from a factor-built hearth to chimney components. One can vary the installation to suit one's tastes, adding brick work, stone facing or whatever, but expensive masonry work will not be necessary. Some systems may be set on the existing floor requiring no footings or special supports, and may be used adjacent to wood beams, joists or wall materials.

One of the most innovative of the new factory built-in fireplaces uses a triple wall flue and blowers to bring air from the attic or from outside the attic into the room.

A roof opening is cut, flashing is installed and then a prefabricated chimney of simulated brick can be put up.

One bit of decorating advice for those using free-standing fireplaces: if the wall in the background is faced with a building material — the material should be carried up to the ceiling to avoid the chopped-off look.

Remodeling Tops Construction List For St. Joseph

Permits totaling $10,983 have been issued during the past three weeks by Carl L. Conklin, director of building and inspections for the City of St. Joseph.

Fred Williams, Watervliet, received a $200 permit to move a single car garage at 605 Wayne, owned by Alice Brandt, out of the city. He was also granted a permit to wreck a two-story single family dwelling at 3223 Lake Shore drive, owned by Henry Bittner.

A $6,000 permit went to Robert Rhodes, 1341 Harrison avenue, for exterior and interior remodeling. Roger Brown, 626 Vine street, was issued a $100 permit to install new flooring in kitchen.

Two permits went to Wilbur Wolske, to repair fire damage at 821 Wolcott avenue, owned by Uno Honka, $600, and to replace a window at 1201 Mohawk, owned by Marie Beckman, $200. Jack Mix, 1023 Lake boulevard, was issued an $80 permit to remove part of a porch roof.

King & Smith Roofing company, Benton Harbor, received a $580 permit to repair wind damage to a roof at 3001 Lake Shore drive, owned by Ben Teitel. John Dziekanowski, Buchanan, was issued a permit for $190 to repair a garage roof at 1720 Lakeview, owned by Clarence Hoffer.

A permit with an estimated cost of $750 went to All Season Improvement company, Berrien Springs, to install new siding on a garage at 907 Napier, owned by Walter Nimitz. Dan Jennings, Coloma, was granted a permit, estimated cost of $633, to enclose a porch at 828 Lewis, owned by Roland Yeske. A $300 permit to repair a back porch and install parking pad went to Leroy L. Baugher, 821 Michigan avenue.

Haak Concrete Construction received a $965 permit to replace a drive at 2621 Pixley, owned by Henry Luhnig, and a $185 permit to repair a private sidewalk at 2715 Lakeview avenue, owned by Mrs. A.J. Glaess.

Joseph Lodyga, 1 Ridgeway, received a permit for structural repairs as per inspection notice, $200.

How Many Roof Nails?

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. (AP) — Here's a trivia question for the family handyman: within 500, how many nails would you venture to guess are in the roof over your head?

According to the Home Institute of Certain-Teed Products Corp., you should have guessed the astonishingly high figure of 7,200 to be correct.

"FEATHERING"
NEW YORK (AP) — "Feathering" is a term usually meant to describe how one surface can be sanded to blend with another.

WANTS TO CHANGE PLEA: Sara Jane Moore told a judge in San Francisco Friday she wants to change her plea to guilty on charges of trying to kill President Ford. She declared, "I did willfully and knowingly try to assassinate Gerald R. Ford, President of the United States." (AP Wirephoto)

Judge Orders Mental Tests For Sara

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A psychiatric examination has been ordered this weekend for Sara Jane Moore, who says she "willfully and knowingly" attempted to kill President Ford. Miss Moore, a one-time FBI informant, tried on Friday to change her plea to guilty of the attempted assassination of the President. She said she was ready to answer for her acts.

U.S. District Court Judge Samuel Conti, who must decide whether to accept the new plea, said he wanted to be assured that Miss Moore is mentally competent to give up her constitutional right to a trial. "If you enter this plea of guilty," he told her, "there is a possibility you can be sent to jail for life."

The matronly, middle-aged Miss Moore said she realized the consequences but saw no "reasonably honest and honorable way I can avoid it."

"There comes a point when we each have to answer to ourselves, and it is with our own conscience that we must make peace," she said.

She indicated she had political motivations for firing a gun at Ford as he left a downtown San Francisco hotel Sept. 22. A bystander deflected the gun, and the bullet missed the President.

Reading calmly from a written statement, Miss Moore cited alleged U.S. government involvement in assassination plots against foreign leaders, including Cuban Premier Fidel Castro, Chilean President Salvador Allende and Congolese leader Patrice Lumumba.

"When any government uses assassination, whether of political leaders in other countries or of its own citizens, to put down dissent or to hide its own repressive actions, it must expect that tool to be turned back against it," she said.

"I did willfully and knowingly attempt to murder Gerald R. Ford, the President of the United States. I knew what I was doing, knew it was illegal, had control of my actions and made a conscious and deliberate decision to act as I did.... Now I am ready to answer for my own acts."

Miss Moore, 45, has a long history of mental illness. The judge expressed concern about her present competence as well as her mental state at the time of the alleged offense.

He left open the possibility that the trial, which had been scheduled to begin Monday, might still be held if he refuses to accept the plea.

"You have to live with your actions the rest of your life," the judge told Miss Moore. "And I have to live with this for all of mine."

He appointed Dr. Robert Jack Bardley to examine Miss Moore over the weekend and scheduled an 11 a.m. hearing Monday for Bardley's report.

Bardley, a psychiatrist at the Springfield, Mo., federal medical facility, examined Miss Moore previously and said she was competent to stand trial.

Miss Moore's attorney, Public Defender James Hewitt, who had planned a defense of insanity and diminished capacity for Miss Moore, said he advised against changing her plea.

"It's against my advice," he said. "I didn't want her to do it."

Eye Saver

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Invest $1.50 and save your eyes while hunting, says a state Department of Natural Resources official.

Chances are if you're hunting grouse, pheasant or rabbit this season, your eyes could be injured by buckshot and you could go blind like two hunters did last year, says James R. Walker, recreational safety specialist.

Walker says hunters who are smart will spend $1.50 on a pair of plastic safety glasses, available at sporting goods stores.

City Hall Site For Payments

COLOMA — Mrs. Gladys VanDerveer, Coloma city treasurer, said she will be at the city hall here on Jan. 10 and 24, and again on Feb. 14 to receive tax payments. She said she will be at the office from 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 4 p.m. on the three dates.

According to Mrs. VanDerveer, $348,205 was to be collected with $23,912 to go to schools. The balance would go to the county and a special drain tax.

COLOMA NEED CITED Post Office Push Renewed

COLOMA — City officials here have renewed their efforts to seek a new Coloma post office.

Coloma Mayor Glenn Randall has confirmed the city commission authorized City Clerk Mrs. Patricia Beezley to write letters to State Rep. Bela Kennedy and U.S. Rep. Edward Hutchinson asking them to reopen the case for a new post office, and if needed, push for the approval.

Randall said the need for a new post office providing off-street parking in an area close to the existing building is the only answer to resolving parking and traffic problems at the present site on West Logan street.

Last month the city commission authorized a reduced parking time limit in front of the post office and a parking ban along Federal court alongside the building.

Randall said one suitable site for a new post office would be at the southwest corner of West Logan and West streets west of the present building.

Randall said he feels the chances are very good that Coloma will be approved for a new post office.

A previous effort for a new post office failed in Sept., 1971, when the prospective site for a new building was acquired by a loan association for a permanent branch office.

The existing building was opened in 1957.

Coloma Clerk Asks Public For Opinions

COLOMA — Comments from city residents regarding the existing business hours of the Coloma city hall are being sought by Coloma City Clerk Mrs. Patricia Beezley.

Mrs. Beezley is attempting to see if present hours, 8 a.m. to noon and 1 to 4 p.m., five days a week, are satisfactory. Comments may be mailed to her or called to her office.

U.S. Links Union Loan To Mafia

DETROIT (AP) — Law enforcement sources and records show a $870,000 loan from the Teamsters Central States Pension Fund was made last January to a man the U.S. Justice Department has identified as a top Detroit Mafia figure.

The reputed Mafia figure is Jack W. Tocco. Records show the Teamsters loan went to Tocco and his partners for a tennis club venture in the Macomb County community of Warren.

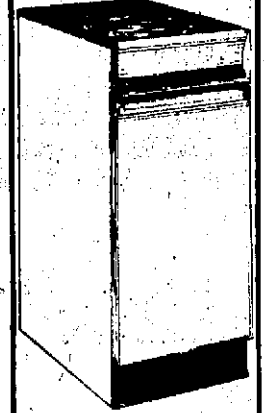

Tocco was named by the U.S. Justice Department as one of the top organized crime figures in Detroit, an allegation that Tocco has strenuously and frequently denied.

Tocco's partners in the tennis club venture are his brother, Anthony; Carlo Licata, an alleged associate of several reputed mob figures and Jack Tocco's brother-in-law; and Sam Barone, of Detroit, records show.

The men's wives also are listed in Macomb County records as co-partners in Warren Tennis properties, the company which acquired the Teamsters loan.

The four men are listed in the same records as officers of the Warren Tennis Club.

Should Be Illegal To Lie, Says Candidate

ATTY. JAMES ELSMAR
Seeks Mart's seat

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP) — An "Independent" Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate says there should be a law against public officials lying.

Birmingham attorney James L. Elsmar, 39, will seek his party's nomination in 1976 for the Senate seat being vacated by retiring Sen. Philip Hart.

"Do you realize that I can't find any specific law preventing government officials from lying to the people?" Elsmar asked.

He said his solution to the Watergate-era problem of official obstruction of justice would be a law forbidding lies by officials.

"If politicians won't vote for a Public Lying Law, then we citizens should give ourselves a Bicentennial present with a constitutional amendment," Elsmar said.

He said he will kick off his campaign with a 10-mile jog in Detroit. The run, he said, will be a symbolic attempt "to shape up the country physically, politically and morally."

It is the Kalamazoo native's second bid for a Senate seat. Elsmar ran in the 1966 Democratic primary as an anti-war candidate but finished far behind former Gov. G. Mennen Williams and former Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh.

Others seeking the Democratic nomination are Congressmen James O'Hara of Ulster and Don Riegle of Flint and state Sen. John Otterbacher of Grand Rapids.

Elsmar said he wants a volunteer staff from Republicans, Independents and Democrats.

"I'm really an independent myself, but feel the Democratic party is closer to the people's interests generally," he said.

Elsmar defined election-year issues as:

—Dangerous government oversteering on welfare.

—Continued unemployment and economic stagnation.

—Government abuse of power.

—Government's attempt to forcefully integrate society through the unreasonable means of school busing.

—And a Kissinger-run foreign policy that seems to make us more insecure than secure.

The University of Michigan law school graduate said he will propose solutions to these problems as the Senate race develops.

Elsmar has held several appointive bar and government appointments in the field of international law and relations, and has served in Michigan Partners for the Alliance of Progress with Latin America.

He and his wife, Janice, who is an officer in Michigan Common Cause, have a son and daughter.

Fatal Fire Believed To Be Arson

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "Everybody was just hanging out their windows, screaming, trying to get out."

Randy Bates, 21, was describing the horror of a deliberately set fire that killed 12 persons early Friday when it roared through an apartment building whose owners had been accused of 98 code violations. Officers said 100 to 125 persons were in the building at the time.

A lawyer for the owners said he believed most of the violations had been corrected.

Firemen sifted through the rubble in the city's Mission District for other possible victims, and homicide detectives pondered the motive of the arsonist who touched off the previous blaze.

Oil, Gas Output To Rise

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Oil and natural gas production in Michigan this year is expected to top a 1939 record by one million barrels, say state Department of Natural Resources geologists.

They expect the record to topple this week, and total production by year's end to reach 24.5 million barrels.

Except in 1939, when about 23.5 barrels came out of Michigan wells, production has never topped 20 million barrels. Last year 18 million barrels were produced, they say.

A barrel holds about 42 gallons.

James S. Lorenz, DNR production specialist, said the fruits of the "oil boom" wellhead price will value about $327 million for 1975, almost twice last year's value of $190 million.

Geologists say 60 per cent of 1975's boom production came from fields that are 425 million years old. Discovered in 1969, the fields run from Ludington on the state's west coast northeast to Gaylord at depths up to 5,000 feet in southeastern Michigan.

The fields once were reefs in ancient seas, the geologists said.

Michigan now produces 10 per cent of the nation's oil and natural gas, up from only one-half of 1 per cent in 1962, they noted.

Michigan's natural gas is used by state utility companies, and most of the oil also is refined here.

Paper Ballot May Return Next Year

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Voting machines now in use in Michigan may not be big enough for the names of all the political parties and candidates in next year's election, a top state official says.

That could lead to the return to paper ballots, according to Bernard Apol, state elections director.

Apol, addressing a Municipal Clerks Institute for city, township and village officials, said there is a "strong possibility" that mechanical and computer operations will be inadequate if new and minor parties nominate enough candidates.

And he said that long lines, unfamiliarity with marking ballots, inexperienced workers and possible miscounting might combine to disenfranchise some Michigan voters.

Fire Hits Buchanan Home Again

BUCHANAN — Fire last night damaged the Ron Brinkley home west of here for the second time this week.

Adam Kuntz, Bertrand township fire chief, said the blaze apparently started in the living room and burned for about an hour before being reported by a passing motorist about 10:30 p.m.

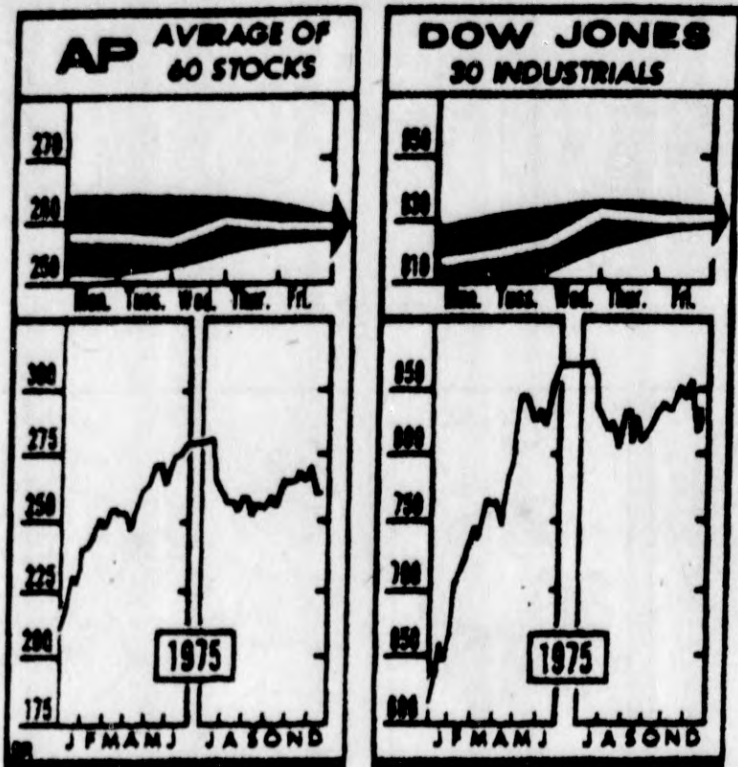

No one was in the house at the time, he said. He said the house and contents were a total loss but did not give a dollar damage estimate.

Firemen were called to the home at 5455 US-12 West last Sunday to put out a fire that started around a kitchen light fixture, Kuntz said.

Yanks' Remains Coming Home

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The remains of two American servicemen shot down over China nearly 10 years ago will be turned over to American authorities Monday by the Chinese and then flown to Thailand, a U.S. military spokesman said today.

The spokesman said the two servicemen were Navy Lt. Commander James L. Buckley of Sioux City, Iowa, and Navy parachute rigger Kenneth W. Pugh of Lancaster, Pa.

INVESTORS' GUIDE Investments Have Many Ingredients

By SAM SHULSKY

Q. You often advise long-term investment in stocks with good earnings records. But I have market losses in stocks which are now earning two and three times what they earned when I first bought them. So —?

A. So — you are seizing on only one investment ingredient as the be-all and end-all of investing. And there is no such single factor — whether it is earnings, dividends, yield, or anything else.

The earning power of a stock is of great importance... but even more so is the marketplace's evaluation of these earnings — are they "solid"? Is there a strong likelihood they will continue to improve? Is the market price of the stock based on actual current financial strength, or on hoped-for "glamor," which may or may not materialize.

Every period of market enthusiasm has still-to-be proven glamor stocks selling at 50 to 75 times earnings (when there were as many as 10 times earnings). So, while earnings are important, the market's evaluation of those earnings are even more important in arriving at the stock's market price.

A detailed study of this evaluation — really the price earnings multiple — over the last 40 years has been made by David Upshaw, technical market analyst for the Stock Exchange firm of Drexel Burnham & Co. He found that fluctuations in this price earnings multiple (a stock selling at 30 and earning $6 per share in the last 12-month period is said to sell at a multiple of five times earnings) contributed more to stock price movements than did earnings changes. This factor Mr. Upshaw calls the "enthusiasm index."

Using the earnings per share of Standard & Poor's 425-stock index and the industrial stock price index, Mr. Upshaw found that in the 156 quarters from the second quarter of 1936 through the first quarter of 1975, stock prices rose in only 93 quarters even though earnings per share rose in 102 quarters, and stock prices fell in 57 quarters even though earnings declined in only 42 quarters.

He found also that price earnings multiples often rise on a quarterly basis during a period when earnings are falling, so that it is possible to observe rather high multiples during the lulls of economic cycles.

"The reason for this apparent contradiction," he explains, "is that stock price changes are attributable to fluctuations in two components — actual and expected changes in company earnings, which is the essence of fundamental research," and the other component, the change in the multiple or the constant revaluation of the price investors are willing to pay for earnings.

"These multiples are influenced by variety of factors, including the rate of change of the money market, the rate of inflation and the level of interest rates. Confidence in the future also plays a role in determination of multiples."

I realize that I am probably adding to the average investor's already high level of confusion about what makes the stock market tick. But I think there can be a positive fallout if I can only get across the idea once again that there are no simple answers to investment success and that dependence upon any one formula — which so many "pop" art financial books are prone to suggest — is an oversimplification which can result in losses.

MR. SHULSKY welcomes written questions, but he will be able to provide answers only through the column.

Juveniles Accused Of Break-Ins

COLOMA — Five juvenile boys from Coloma township were taken into custody last night by township police in connection with two house break-ins last month.

Officer Thomas LaVanday said all five are accused of entering the summer residence of Noel Knutson, 5376 Lakewood point, on two occasions between Nov. 15 and Nov. 29. LaVanday said items reported taken included two rifles, an AM-FM radio, $25 in dimes and a .25 caliber pistol.

He said only a .32 caliber rifle valued at $150 has been recovered.

The youths were petitioned into probate court on charges of breaking and entering and released to the custody of their parents. Arrested were two 15-year-olds, two 14-year-olds and a 13-year-old.

JOURNALIST FREED JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — A South African freelance journalist, Chris Van der Merwe, 27, has been freed after being held captive for six weeks by the Popular Movement (MPLA) in Luanda, Angola, it was reported here today.

Diggers Of Dump 'No Show'

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP) — Although federal authorities have stated in court that they have information which may lead them to the body of former Teamsters boss James R. Hoffa in a landfill here, there's still no word on when digging will begin at "Brother Moscato's Dump."

According to an affidavit filed two days ago in U.S. District Court here, a secret witness has given federal investigators more specific information on where to look for Hoffa's body or the bodies of others in the 60-acre landfill, but sources said there wasn't any digging because federal agents were still studying testimony from the witness for more precise details.

Although there were no law enforcement officials in evidence Friday at the dump, situated beneath the Pulaski Skyway in the heavily industrialized section of Hudson County, scores of newsmen and onlookers gathered to await the arrival of bulldozers and other heavy equipment.

William Spedding, Jersey City director of public works, said he was informed late last week "to be ready to assist in the digging if we are asked." He said the city owns three bulldozers and three back hoes that could be used in excavating at the dump.

Spedding said he had no word in the last two days on plans to begin digging and said he was not worried about problems of methane gas at the site, saying, "It's no big deal. We move earth around everyday. Except for the intrigue of maybe finding Jimmy Hoffa out there, it would be rather boring."

But City Engineer Richard Jenny said methane gas trapped underneath the surface could touch off a fire if pressure is improperly applied.

Jenny said the fact that the landfill has not been actively open for about six years would lessen the potential problems, but he said, "A fire could still start out there."

According to Jenny, the fire hazard could be minimized if "they wet it down while they're pulling dirt up. If care is exercised, then nothing will happen."

Another potential problem, according to Jenny, is the buried contents of the dump. "Let's say there's some chemicals in drums. The barrels may be rotted and if they're moved they may mix with other chemicals."

Interest in the dumping site resurfaced Thursday when Robert C. Stewart, a member of the U.S. Organized Crime Strike Force in Newark, said there were new leads in the case pertaining to the landfill.

"Within the past 24 hours the government has received information from an informant whose information has proved reliable in the past, which should enable the government to focus attention upon a more precise and limited area of the dump," Stewart said in an affidavit used to obtain an extension of a search warrant granted last week.

The warrant gives federal authorities the right to search for the body of Armand Faugno, an reputed underworld figure who disappeared three years ago and had close ties to various persons implicated in the Hoffa disappearance. But sources say Hoffa's body is the real focus of interest in the dump.

Hearings Asked On Drug Charges

Two men accused of delivery of marijuana were among seven people to demand preliminary hearings Friday in Berrien Fifth District court. Eighteen others were sentenced. Demanding examinations were:

David P. Hamstreet, 20, of Grand Rapids, and John C. Potts, 23, of Traverse City, charged with delivery of marijuana Oct. 20 in Benton township. Personal recognizance bonds of $1,000 each were granted. Potts was also sentenced to three days in jail and fine and costs of $200 for driving while license suspended.

David Hall, 30, of 692 Pavone, Benton Harbor, on a charge of larceny of over $100 in cash Nov. 25 at the Milner hotel, Benton Harbor. He put up $1,500 bail and was freed.

Jack D. Pugh, 18, of 1558 Shawnee road, Baroda, accused of assault with a butcher knife against Mary Martin in Baroda township Dec. 10. He did not post $3,000 bond.

James R. Mathieu, 18, of 1901 North Valley View drive, St. Joseph township, charged with larceny of a watch, suitcase and tape player July 23 at the Snowflake motel, St. Joseph township. He was also sentenced to 90 days in jail for filing a false report of an auto accident with police Aug. 1 in Benton township.

Robert Simmons, 33, of 321 Brunson, Benton Harbor, on a charge of assault with intent to commit great bodily harm, less than murder, against Maurice Frisco Dec. 5 in Benton Harbor. He was freed on $2,500 personal recognizance bond.

Mrs. Mary Fitzner Dumke, 24, of 924 Lake, St. Joseph, facing two charges of receiving and concealing stolen property valued over $100 — all of which allegedly belongs to the St. Joseph public schools — Dec. 11 at her residence. Count I charges possession of tools and count II charges possession of three typewriters. Two personal recognizance bonds were granted.

Sentenced were: John H. Lewis, 33, of 149 Ridge road, Berrien Springs, 180 days in jail for conspiracy to commit petty larceny Nov. 13; 90 days in jail for receiving stolen property under $100 Oct. 19; and 90 days in jail for each of three charges of petty larceny. All charges involve different incidents. Because District court sentences are concurrent, he will be jailed for the length of the longest sentence: 180 days.

Percy Lee Smith, 34, of 169 North Winans, Benton Harbor, fine and costs of $90 and two years probation for simple assault against Rose Smith at his residence Oct. 25.

Donald Thomas, 53, of 822 Michigan, St. Joseph, $50 and six months probation for failure to rehabilitate rental property at 1018 and 1020 Market street and 611 Hoyt, St. Joseph.

Joseph A. Riley, 39, of Muskegon, three days in jail and $80 or 15 days in jail total for driving while license suspended Dec. 12 in Sodus township.

Larry D. Hamilton, 19, of 483 Paw Paw, Benton Harbor, $75 and one year probation for possession of marijuana Nov. 6 in Benton Harbor.

Sentenced for the following violations were:

Disorderly person — Jerry D. Clemons, 18, of Riverside, $110 for creating a disturbance; Gus Gipson Jr., 25, of 666 Vineyard, Benton Harbor, $250 or 10 days in jail for failing to support his wife and child.

Receiving and concealing stolen property under $100 — David W. Riippa, 19, of 789 Sheridan, St. Joseph, 90 days in jail, two years probation and restitution of $675; Larry Porter, 22, of 115 Oden, Benton Harbor, 90 days in jail; Terry O. Kyles, 20, of 675 East Vineyard, Benton Harbor, 90 days in jail.

Petty larceny — Ronald L. Coleman, 21, of 298 Pleasant, St. Joseph, and Duane A. Poole, 17, of 1635 Broadway, Benton Harbor, $120 each.

Driving while intoxicated — Donald D. Webb, 19, of Maudlin road, New Buffalo, $150 or 30 days in jail; Edwin C. Musick, 49, of Route 2, Benton Harbor, $500 and two years probation for second offense.

Impaired driving — J.W. Arivett, 39, of 3567 Fieldtree, Benton township, $200; Rick A. Humerick, 24, of 1875 Union, apartment 3-C, Benton township, $151 and six months probation; John E. Guthrie, 34, of Centerville, two days in jail and $200.

PARK FOG GUILTY
SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Former opposition leader and presidential candidate Kim Dae-jung was found guilty today of election law violations and sentenced to one year in prison.

Ford SBA Choice Is Criticized

CHICAGO (AP) — Mitchell Kobelinski, President Ford's nominee to head the Small Business Administration, was an officer of a bank that became involved in improper bank transactions, the Better Government Association says.

J. Terrence Brunner, executive director of the association, a privately financed local investigative agency, charged Thursday that "Mr. Kobelinski was an officer in a bank that engaged in highly improper transactions with public officials."

Coloman Charged With Extortion

A 30-year-old Coloma man has been charged with trying to extort $5 from a 13-year-old Coloma schoolboy.

Arraigned on the extortion charge in Berrien Fifth District court yesterday was Bobby Lee Vermilyer, 20, DeField road, Coloma.

A 14-year-old schoolmate of the reported victim has been petitioned into juvenile court on the same charge, according to District Court Judge John T. Hammon.

The warrant states that Vermilyer "threatened to injure Brian Dings, 13, with intent to extort money" near Becht and North Coloma roads in Coloma township.

Richard Klimaszewski, Coloma township police chief, said the Dings boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Dings, 8724 Johnson road, Coloma, told police he was beaten Tuesday of this week and told to bring $5 to school to avoid another beating.

Coloma township police said the youth reported he was hit in the face and kicked by his assailant. The boy suffered a cut lip and a black eye but did not seek medical attention, police said.

Police said they were summoned to the Dings home after the reported Tuesday beating.

Vermilyer and the 14-year-old were taken into custody yesterday by Coloma township police.

Bond on Vermilyer was set at $2,500.

White Boston Youths Protest

BOSTON (AP) — About 200 youths gathered at South Boston High School early today after a day of protests that began with a white boycott over a federal judge's order to put the racially troubled school into receivership.

The crowd of white youths gathered on the steps of the school shortly after midnight, sang neighborhood songs, set fire to several trash containers in the schoolyard and tossed a few bottles at police. Police sealed off several surrounding streets in the predominantly Irish-American neighborhood but did not move in on the youths. The crowd dispersed about two hours later. No injuries were reported, and police made no arrests.

Deer Season Was 'Safest'

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A state wildlife official says this year's two-week firearm deer hunting season was the safest ever, despite 13 hunting deaths. "Twenty-four gun-related accidents were reported, which means that only about one in every 29,000 hunters was involved in some kind of a shooting accident," said David Jenkins, head of the Department of Natural Resources' Wildlife Division.

"And contrary to some reports that play up the number of fatal hunting accidents, the accident rate per 100,000 deer hunters has been steadily decreasing for over 30 years," he said.

About 700,000 hunters took to the woods last month, he said, twice as many as went out in 1952, the record season for hunting accidents and deaths.

Tax Cut Compromise Offered

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the Senate Finance Committee is proposing a new way out of an impasse between President Ford and Congress over a $17-billion tax cut bill scheduled for Senate action Monday.

Without the tax cuts, the average taxpayer would begin paying $3 to $4.75 more a week in withholding taxes beginning Jan. 1, Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., suggested Friday that Ford drop his demand for a flat $300-billion federal spending ceiling for the fiscal year starting next Oct. 1.

In return, he proposed that Congress make a non-binding commitment to trim federal spending by an amount equal to the $17 billion in the tax cut.

Freeway Extension To Open

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A nine-mile extension of the U.S. 31 freeway north of Muskegon will be opened to traffic two days before Christmas.

The state Highway Commission announced Friday the new section will extend the freeway from a point north of Muskegon to Michigan 20 near New Era in Oceana County. The extension will boost Michigan's freeway network to 1,000 miles.

Sea Search Continues

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Rescuers planned to bring 16 survivors of a sunken Liberian freighter ashore in Norfolk today, as a search continued in the Atlantic Ocean for eight men still missing.

The survivors, South Americans and Greeks, were plucked from the sea off North Carolina's coast Thursday night and Friday and appeared to be in good physical condition, a Coast Guard spokesman said. He said they would be taken to the Public Health Service office in Norfolk for examinations. The Navy cruiser California planned to rendezvous with a Coast Guard cutter this morning to bring the crewmen ashore.

People Move South, West

WASHINGTON (AP) — Economic considerations are the major factor sending thousands of Americans swarming into the South and West, the nation's so-called "Sun Belt," migration experts say.

The government says the flow of people into the southern and western sections of the country has accounted for 85 per cent of U.S. population growth in the past five years. The experts say many of those migrating to the South and West are following jobs as industries relocate in areas where wages are lower, unions are less organized and the general cost-of-living is less.

Cass County Firm Hit By Fire Again

DOWAGIAC — Fire destroyed about half of a corrugated metal office and sales building this morning at the Ausra Farm equipment company about two miles northwest of Dowagiac.

Indian Lake firemen said one wing of the L-shaped building on Yaw Street and California road was completely destroyed and the other half may have been damaged from smoke. Firemen were still on the scene at 8:30 a.m. today and had not made a dollar estimate of the damage. No injuries were reported.

The building belongs to Robert Ausra who lives on the property.

It was the second fire at the firm within a month.

On Nov. 20, fire destroyed a storage barn on the Ausra property filled with farm equipment tires and a used combine, all valued at $45,000. That fire was blamed on faulty wiring.

Firemen said the company office and merchandise were destroyed in this morning's blaze.

Cause of the fire was undetermined this morning, but an investigation was underway.

Firemen said they received the alarm at 6:15 a.m. and by the time they arrived, the building was engulfed in flames. The Sister Lakes fire department sent a tanker truck to assist in extinguishing the blaze, which was under control by 7:30 a.m., firemen said.

Valuable Paintings Found

DETROIT (AP) — Eight of nine stolen paintings valued at a total of $111,000 were found Thursday in East Detroit after police received a phone tip. The paintings were taken Nov. 18 from the Grosse Pointe Farms home of George Simon, an industrialist and power boat enthusiast.

Police reported finding the paintings, wrapped in cloth, near a steel garbage container behind a restaurant. They said the paintings were not damaged, although the frames were chipped.

Freighter Runs Aground

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (AP) — Coast Guard officials said Friday an ocean-going freighter, the 541-foot Ivory Neptune, ran hard aground 45 miles below the Soo Locks near Lime Island. Officials said the ship, bound for Hamburg, Germany, out of Superior, Wis., with nearly 14,000 tons of wheat and sunflower seeds aboard, went aground Thursday night. Efforts to free the ship Friday morning failed. There was no damage to the ship and no crewmen were injured, the Coast Guard said.

Saginaw Children Drown

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — Three Saginaw County children drowned Friday when they fell into icy waters, State Police said. The youngsters were identified as Billy Jo Kelly, 6; his sister, Rachael Renee Kelly, 8; and Nancy Sharon Smith, 6, all of Burt. Officials said the three children and another youngster were playing Friday afternoon on an ice-covered pit behind the Albee Township trailer park where they lived.

LAKE MICHIGAN COLLEGE Police Officers Graduate

Twenty-six police officers from 13 regional law enforcement agencies were graduated Friday from Lake Michigan college's Advanced Police Training program and were awarded certificates signifying successful completion of the five-day series of courses.

The program, federally funded and supervised at LMC by Reese Merrill, assistant coordinator of law enforcement training, provides updated and advanced training without charge to area law enforcement personnel.

The curriculum included police legal matters, interpersonal communications, advanced criminal investigation, and advanced traffic enforcement.

Officers who were graduated and their police departments include: Larry F. Castro, Samuel A. Donoho, John W. Gast and Dean D. Kugle, of the Berrien county sheriff's department; Paul D. Wandt, of the Blissfield police department; Norman E. Bannow, Ronald E. Cruzan, Roger C. Pompey and John Wolff, Jr., of the Cass county sheriff's department.

Others who were graduated include: Robert G. Kelnhofer and Michael A. Whelan of the Covert township police department; Howard N. Clupper and Charles O. Dravis of the Dowagiac police department; Robert W. Wohler, of the Eau Claire police department; and

Kevin M. English, Michael P. Heidenreich, George M. Keller and James V. Padgett, of the Hartford city police department.

Still others who graduated include: William R. Moore, of the Howard township police department; Patrick P. Marlon, of the Ionia police department; Jeffrey D. Shaw, of the Montmorency police department; John H. Norvell, of the Niles city police department; Richard A. Appelget, Robert Farr, and Ronald N. Hojara, of the Niles township police department; and Larry A. Elchberger, of the St. Joseph township police department.

He noted the circuit courts are getting into new types of cases, such as environmental and product liability cases, and many more hearings are needed in criminal cases.

"Our greatest need is to have another circuit judge," Byrns emphasized.

He noted police forces are expanding their manpower, as is the prosecutor's office, and compared the justice system to a bottle. "The bottle is getting bigger and bigger but the neck through which all of this must pass is still the same."

He said that during his five years as presiding judge he's seen an increase in nearly all court-related matters "and there's no relief in sight."

LMC Art Students To Display Works

The artworks of nearly 50 Lake Michigan college art students will be on display in a comprehensive art exhibit open to the public in the LMC library, Dec. 15 through 18.

The exhibit will include works in textiles, clay, oil, water color, woodcuts, intaglio prints, drawings, and design projects developed during the current semester in LMC art classes.

Arranged in the LMC library's central section for easy viewing, the exhibits have been produced under the supervision of the college's full-time and part-time art faculty.

Purpose of the exhibit is to bring before the public the accomplishments of LMC art students and to allow student artists to experience first general recognition for their work.

The exhibit will be on display from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m., Monday through Thursday, and 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Friday, on the LMC Napier avenue campus.

Stadium Rolls Out Red Carpet For 125 Michigan Politicians

By SUSAN AGER

Associated Press Writer

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Though a Pontiac Stadium official says it's not "political," about 125 state politicians will be wined, dined and treated to pro football Sunday as guests of the City of Pontiac and the Stadium Authority.

Harold Cousins, authority chairman, said this week "about 125" of 147 state lawmakers said they'd come to "Legislative Day" at the stadium.

The day will be kicked off with lunch and drinks in the stadium restaurant and capped by a Detroit Lions-Minnesota Vikings National Football League game.

Invitations were sent to all legislators and Oakland County Commissioners and their spouses, said Mayor Wallace Holland.

Officials deny they're lobbying or doing any political favors. But lawmakers' approval this week of a $900,000 state subsidy for the stadium came after a heated fight by some who said the payments subsidize a private business.

A law passed two years ago pledges $24 million more over the next 30 years to the stadium, though legislation is pending to end the payments.

Cousins said the bash "won't be any political hassle. The mayor will probably just get up and welcome them, say, 'Glad you're here, and hope you enjoy our stadium.'"

"We'd just like for them to see the stadium and what it's doing for the state," said Holland. "It's drawn a lot of attention to the state."

So far what the legislature has done for the stadium totals $1.6 million in state payments.

The state Court of Appeals has told the stadium authority it could not spend the money until the court rules on a suit brought by Rep. Dennis Hertel, D-Detroit, whose brother, John, opposed the subsidies in the Senate.

Neither is attending the game and dinner Sunday, secretaries said.

Cousins said the lawmakers won't be treated to anything special in the way of food, drinks or seats.

"They'll get the regular lunch served to all stadium patrons, and their seats are scattered all over the stadium," he said.

Dinner and drinks start at 2 p.m., and the game at 4 p.m.

RESOLUTION TERMINATING PROCEEDINGS

WHEREAS on December 9, 1974, the City Manager made a determination that the roller coaster and fun house at the amusement park at 101 Broad Street, St. Joseph, Michigan, assessed to Drake and Wallace Realty, 1402 Lake Blvd., is dangerous to life, limb or property and has deteriorated to the point where it has become a public nuisance and that said structure is beyond repair and should be torn down and completely removed pursuant to Section 44.06 of the Code of Ordinances of the City of St. Joseph, and

WHEREAS by resolution adopted December 9, 1974, the City Commission acknowledged receipt of the determination of the City Manager, accepted the findings therein contained and set Monday, January 13, 1975, at 7:30 o'clock P.M. in the Commission Chambers in the City Hall as the date, time and place on which the owner might appear before the City Commission and be heard respecting the condition of said roller coaster and fun house, and

WHEREAS by resolution adopted January 13, 1975, further consideration of the matter was postponed until the next regular meeting to be held June 2, 1975, and

WHEREAS by resolution adopted October 13, 1975, further consideration of the matter was postponed until the regular meeting to be held December 1, 1975, and

WHEREAS the Director of Inspections by letter dated November 26, 1975, advised the City Manager that the demolition has been completed pursuant to requirements of the Inspection Department and that all debris was removed and depressions covered and leveled.

THEREFORE RESOLVED that all proceedings concerning the demolition or rehabilitation of the roller coaster and fun house at 101 Broad Street, St. Joseph, Michigan, are hereby terminated.

Commissioner Gast, seconded by Commissioner Gillespie moved approval of the foregoing resolution. Roll call resulted as follows: Yeas: Commissioners Gast, Gillespie, Hanley and Selent. Nays: None. Absent: Commissioner Smith. Motion declared carried and resolution adopted.

Mayor Pro-Tem Hanley reported on the progress of the special financial committee appointed by Mayor Smith to consider financial problems of the City of St. Joseph.

Mayor Pro-Tem Hanley commended the efforts of the City Police Department in capturing three (3) persons involved in the holdup of Green's Jewelers, 315 State Street, St. Joseph, Michigan on Friday, November 28, 1975. The City Attorney was instructed to prepare an appropriate commendation citation for delivery to the Police Department and the officers involved in the arrest.

There being no further business to come before this commission, Commissioner Selent moved to adjourn until Monday, December 10, 1975 at 7:30 P.M.

Deadly Shooting Puts Bears Atop Big Seven Alone

KALAMAZOO — St. Joseph is sitting alone atop the Big Seven standings thanks to some fantastic second half bombing here Friday night.

The Bears, trailing 33-26 at the half, flung in 65 per cent (17 of 26) of their shots in the last half to come from behind and register a thrilling 71-68 victory over Kalamazoo Loy Norrix.

St. Joe, now 2-0 in league play and 5-0 overall, trailed most of the game, and was behind 68-67 on Alan Morehead's bucket with 35 seconds left in the game.

With 17 seconds to go, the Bears had the ball out of bounds under their own basket. Dave Ziebart finally got the ball under the basket and fouled with nine seconds remaining. Ziebart then capped both ends of the one-and-one to give St. Joe a 68-67 edge.

Loy Norrix still had a chance for the winning bucket but a stray pass glanced off of Collier into the hands of Mike Collier, who was immediately fouled. With one second left, Collier calmly sank the one-and-one situation to ice the hectic win.

The Bears, off to their best start since the 1959-60 season, used some uncanny free throw gunning to put away the win. For the night, St. Joe hit 15 of 20 free throws (75 per cent), including 11 of 11 the second half and nine of nine the last quarter.

Loy Norrix, which had three more field goals than the Bears, could only manage six of 12 (50 per cent).

A change of strategy on the part of Bear coach George Gaumer at intermission seemed to spark the visitors in the second half.

"In the first half we played a full court pressing defense but they were just getting too many close in shots as a result. So the second half we went more to the half court. We cut down their inside scoring opportunities somewhat and were more efficient in moving the ball on offense."

"Our team just didn't give up in the second half...we kept our poise. We played good half-court defense and we were moving and passing to get the good shots on offense. I guess we just did what we had to do to win."

Dale Wright, a 6-4 forward, led the Bear second-half rally when he pumped in 21 of his game-high 25 points in the second half. Wright also paced the on-target St. Joe free throw shooting, hitting seven of eight and seven of seven the last half.

Collier contributed 17 points and Henry Follman 13. Follman started in place of starting center Fred Pries, who did not make the trip due to personal problems.

Loy Norrix, now 0-2 in league play, got 16 points from Mike McElrath, 14 from Alan Morehead and 12 from Barry Harris.

The Bears trailed 17-10 after the first period but then ripped off the first seven points of the second period to knot up the game. But then the Knights peeled off 10 points in a row and enjoyed a 33-26 margin at the half.

Norrix kept the lead until the Bears rallied to collect the last eight points of the third quarter and tie the game at 48-48 entering the second half.

The Bears, who scored 45 points in the last half, sank seven of nine shots outcourt and nine of nine free throws in that offensive charge in the last eight minutes.

A key in the game was the ability of Follman and Wright to stay in the game while playing with four fouls.

The Bears amazingly were outboarded 39-23 with Wright hauling away seven caroms. Norrix made 27 floor errors, St. Joe 17.

St. Joe ended with a 48 per cent shooting average on 28 of 58 while Norrix was 57 per cent on 31 of 54.

The Bears return to league action next Friday night at Niles.

Norrix defeated the St. Joseph junior varsity 59-54 with Steve Ziebart netting 14 and Jeff Beal 13 points for the losers, now 0-2.

Big Reds' Rally Topples Tigers Pannell Sparks 83-80 Win

MUSKEGON — Tony Pannell was too much for Benton Harbor to handle here Friday night.

Pannell scored 28 points, including 13 in the fourth quarter, to lead the Muskegon Big Reds to a come-from-behind 83-80 win over Benton Harbor.

Muskegon is now 1-0 in the Lake Michigan Athletic Conference and 2-2 overall. Benton Harbor fell to 0-1 and 1-2, respectively.

The Tigers roared out to a 46-33 halftime lead, then proceeded to blow the edge in the third quarter. The hosts outscored Benton Harbor 24-9 in the third quarter to take the lead which they never relinquished.

"We just went off our game in the third quarter," Tiger coach Earl McKee said. "We just got individualistic and didn't set things up the way we should have."

Only the shooting of Russell Steele kept Benton Harbor in the game at all. Steele hit on 16 of 26 from the floor and finished with 35 points, tops in the area this season.

Bennie Bowers played his best game of the season in the middle, scoring 22 points and pulling down 10 rebounds.

Pannell, who hit 10 of 10 from the floor in the second half, scored the final two baskets of the third quarter to give Muskegon the lead for good at 57-55.

The Big Reds built the lead to 72-61 early in the final quarter before three straight baskets by Steele trimmed the deficit to five.

Muskegon against moved to an 11-point bulge at 80-69 with 1:45 left and Benton Harbor got no closer than the final score after that.

"We just turned the ball over too many times," McKee said. "After we would get the ball, we would turn it right back to Muskegon. We still have to develop that team desire and discipline. We keep hurting ourselves."

Even with the poor third quarter, had the Tigers been able to hit free throws it would have been a different story. Benton Harbor hit just 10 of 20 for the game and missed three key one-and-ones in the fourth quarter.

Muskegon hit on 37 of 70 from the floor for 52 per cent, while the Tigers didn't do badly themselves, connecting on 34 of 71 for 48 per cent.

Benton Harbor finished with a 34-31 rebounding edge with Pannell pulling down 13 for the hosts.

Benton Harbor did win the junior varsity game, nipping Muskegon 66-64 in overtime.

Soph Busby Keys Bucks

Unbeaten Buchanan Roms To Win Over Coloma

By JACK WALKDEN
Staff Sports Writer

BUCHANAN — Gerald Busby is "quickly coming" of age in Buchanan's basketball picture.

Though just a sophomore, the 6-3½ Busby played with all the skill of a senior here Friday night. Busby tossed in 15 points, pulled down 15 rebounds and blocked three shots to help Buchanan roar past Coloma 79-58 before a near-capacity throng of about 1,500 fans.

The win was the fourth without a loss for the Bucks, including two in Blossomland play. Coloma fell to 0-2 and 0-4, respectively.

Busby dominated play both offensively and defensively in the first half. Using his catlike moves and long arms, the young forward scored 13 points and pulled down 13 rebounds in the first 16 minutes as Buchanan moved to a 35-18 halftime bulge.

It was his defensive play on Comet standout Gregg Woodward which caught the eye of Buck coach Bill Wilson. Woodward, averaging 19.3 points per game, was held to just eight by Busby and needed 16 shots for his four field goals.

"Gerald's anticipation both offensively and defensively was just fantastic," Wilson said. "He did an outstanding job defensively on Woodward."

"I've been hoping Mike (Gerald's older brother) would be able to come in and play good defense on the opponent's top forward. In the second half, he too did a strong job on (Joe) Jones."

Jones was virtually the entire Comet offense in a miserable first half. The 6-6 guard tossed in 14 of the 18 Comet points. An eight for 41 shooting eye did Coloma in.

In the second half, Mike Busby helped put the lid on Jones' scoring punch, holding him to only eight more points for a game total of 22.

Ken Garrett, the 6-6 Buck center, played his usual superb game in the middle, scoring 22 points and grabbing 17 rebounds. Walt Vanderbush had 18 points for Buchanan.

Buchanan really was never in any trouble in the game after racing to a 10-3 lead in the first four minutes. But the Bucks were unable to shake the pesky Comets until late in the third quarter.

Still leading by the 15-point

Jager, Mason Spark Lancers To First Win

'Tall' Lakeshore Edges Dowagiac

By JOHN VANDEN HEED
Sports Editor

DOWAGIAC — The Lakeshore Lancers are walking tall again today.

With the tall talents of 6-4 Tom Jager and 6-7 Mike Mason combining for 28 points and 35 rebounds, Lakeshore tripped Dowagiac 57-56 here Friday night in Blossomland action.

It wasn't an artistic accomplishment for the Lancers, who blew a 17-point lead, made 27 turnovers and hit on just 32 per cent of their free throws, but after a 0-3 season start, it was a welcomed win.

"It was a hard way to get the first win," commented Lakeshore coach Lloyd MacTavish afterwards. "We still have a long way to go."

Both teams had plenty of chances to win the game. Jager put the Lancers ahead for good at 55-54 with a pair of free throws with 3:20 remaining and Larry Toth added a two-pointer at the 2:13 mark. But after Dowagiac narrowed the count to the final 57-56 margin on a basket by Dave Sprague at the 2:02 mark, there was no scoring the rest of the way as both teams were guilty of numerous turnovers and missed free throws.

"It looked there for awhile that it was going to be a game of giveaway," added MacTavish. "I thought our inexperience was going to hurt us again."

Dowagiac coach Norm Schuring felt about the same way. "We set up four different plays in the last 1½ minutes and I don't think we got a shot off," he explained. "It was a nightmare. All the things they taught me in coaching class didn't happen out there."

Obviously, Dowagiac also had its share of shortcomings. The Chiefs made just 22 per cent of their free throws and just 31 per cent from the floor.

Oran Danzy was Dowagiac's only double figures scorer with 14 as Dowagiac made 26 of 63 field goals and four of 18 free throws.

Lakeshore got 19 points from

Jager and 10 from Mason was swishing an excellent 25 of 50 from the floor but only seven of 22 charities.

Dowagiac, now 1-1 in the Blossomland and overall, stayed in the game by outrebounding Lakeshore 48-46 — including 14 by 6-7 Bob Waalkes — while making just 13 turnovers. Lakeshore got 22 rebounds from Jager, including 20 off the defensive boards, and 13 from Mason while hiking its records to 1-1 in the conference and 1-3 on the season.

Lakeshore opened the game by moving out to a 16-8 lead and went on to get its first 18 points from Jager and Mason.

In the second quarter, the Lancers reeled off 14 unanswered points for their biggest lead of the night at 34-17. They went on to lead at halftime 38-25.

Lakeshore's halftime edge was greatly based on a 28-16 rebounding advantage. "They like to play Waalkes outside and all we had to do was box him off," explained MacTavish.

That all changed in the second half, when Dowagiac got back into the game with a 32-18 edge.

Tigers Trade Lolich For Staub

MIKEY LOLICH
Whelan's View

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — Mickey Lolich, the winningest left-hander in Detroit Tiger history, has traded uniforms with New York Mets outfielder Rusty Staub, in a deal that took 20 hours to complete.

The trade, completed Friday during the closing hours of the winter baseball meeting, also sent Tiger outfielder Billy Bakwin to the Mets. Detroit received minor league pitcher Billy Laxton along with Staub.

The Tigers and Mets actually agreed on the deal at 2 a.m. Friday, but Lolich exercised his right as a 10-year veteran who had spent more than five years with the Tigers and vetoed the trade.

The Mets, however, refused to give up and kept after Lolich all day until they convinced the Tigers' pitcher to come to New York.

"We're tickled to death," said Tiger General Manager Jim Campbell about the trade. "We had given up — then it was revived."

"Mickey Lolich has done a fine job for us. It was tough to give up a player of his stature but we felt we had to do it for the overall good of the ball club."

"We got the one thing we were looking for — a real sound RBI man," Campbell said of Staub. "We got ourselves one hell of a sound ballplayer."

Lolich, who has gone to his cottage near Traverse City, Mich., could not be reached for comment. But his lawyer, Robert Fenton took much of the credit for putting the deal through.

"The deal was dead last night," Fenton said Friday. "And I don't mind saying I put it back together."

Fenton acted as the middle man between Lolich and the Mets.

"Both clubs had struck out. I asked for a few concessions, and we finally worked it out," Fenton said.

"I realize this was a very traumatic decision for Mickey," the attorney continued. "It's a tremendous emotional adjustment to think that after all these years he'll be playing in a different uniform in a strange city. And he was hurt to think that the Tigers would trade him after all he has done."

"But I think the deal that was worked out will financially be sensational for Mickey, his wife Joyce and their three girls."

The 33-year-old Lolich, three times an American League All-Star in his 12 seasons at Detroit, was 12-12 last season with a 3.77 earned run average. He has a career record of 207-175.

Staub, 31, hit .282 with 19 home runs and a club record of 105 runs batted in with the Mets during 1975. This was Staub's fourth year with the Mets, who acquired him from Montreal on April 6, 1972, for outfielder Ken Singleton, first baseman Mike Jorgensen and shortstop Tim Foli.

Lakers Swat Bees, Take Arrow Lead

Hot Shooting Earns 68-49 Win

BY PAUL MORGAN
Staff Sports Writer

BRIDGMAN — Coach Doug Hendricks took a gamble and it cost him a share of the Red Arrow conference lead Friday night.

The Bridgman head man used a sagging defense to shut off Lake Michigan Catholic's Bill Frantz but the Lakers overcame it with some good outcourt shooting to smother the Bees 68-49 here and take over first place in the league at 5-0.

"The Bees, now 1-2 in the conference and 3-2 overall, went into the locker room at the half down by just 27-26," I told them that we had to capitalize on our defense and collapse in on Frantz," Hendricks continued.

The strategy on Frantz

worked as the Bees held him to eight points. What Bridgman hadn't counted on was Tom Flood scoring 17 points, George Welch hitting 13 and Steve Gentry notching 14 all from outside.

The Bees' Bob Linke played one of his better games, scoring 13 points to lead his team. The 6-5 center may miss a few games as he severely sprained his ankle in the fourth quarter. Davo Zilko added 11 points for the only other Bee in double figures.

With its offense stymied in the first half, the Lakers gained the advantage with their tough full court press. "Our defense and our press kept us in the ballgame until our offense got in gear," said Catholic's head coach Al Nixon. "We played a great man-toman defense," grinned Nixon. "We've prided ourselves on our defense for the last two years."

One of the items that doomed Bridgman was its failure to convert on the easier inside shots. Although the Bees did make 21 of 51 attempts from the floor for a credible 41 per cent, they missed crucial tips when they really needed them.

Midway through the third quarter with the Lakers up by three, Bridgman had four straight tips miss the hoop. Catholic then spurred with a couple of field goals and eventually led after three quarters 44-36.

"We were trying to get the ball inside in the second half but we couldn't do it," commented Hendricks. "Our timing was off."

The fact is, we weren't playing defense and we weren't hitting," he added.

Nixon had high praise for his team's patience in the latter stages of the game, especially when his squad went to their stalling tactics with 4:20 left in the game. "The kids kept their composure when they went into the four-corner," Nixon said. "We went to it early because we pressed most of the game and needed a breather."

The stall resulted in Bridgman having to foul the Lakers to get the ball back. After making just one of seven tries in the first half, Lake Michigan canned 12 of 18 charity tosses in the final quarter. Gentry was four of four and Flood went three for four in that stretch.

They combined that hot streak at the free throw line by hitting all six field goals the Lakers tried in the last quarter to salt the victory away.

While the Bees hit 41 per cent of their shots, the Lakers made 26 of 54 tries for 48 per cent.

Lake Michigan pulled down 30 rebounds with Frantz and Welch each nabbing seven and Altie five. Bridgman had 41 rebounds with Wolf Wolf getting 14 of them.

Turnovers again hurt the Bees. They committed 20 miscues while the Lakers made 13 mistakes. According to Catholic's charts, they turned nine of Bridgman's turnovers into baskets, a fact that Nixon is very proud of.

Bridgman won the junior varsity tilt 47-36 with the Bees' Phil Ott netting game-high honors with 22 points. Mike Masini notched 12 and Kevin Wheeler had 11 points for the Lakers.

Hosbein Tops Berrien Rally

Shamrocks Pull Out Win Over New Buffalo

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Junior Terry Hosbein scored 14 of his 18 points in the fourth quarter here Friday night to spark Berrien Springs to a 63-58 win over New Buffalo.

The win was the second straight for Shamrocks, who are now 2-1 in the Red Arrow race and 3-2 overall. New Buffalo fell to 0-3 and 1-5.

"Hosbein just decided to go inside during the fourth quarter and that was really the difference," Berrien Springs coach Connie Stover said. "We were getting outstuffed until late in the third quarter. Then Terry went inside and did the job."

Sparked by sophomore Jim Wild's 18 points and 14 more from junior Fritz Moss, New Buffalo raced out to a 31-23 halftime lead.

The Shamrocks cut the lead to 46-41 going into the final period and then really went to work. A basket by Hosbein with less than four minutes to play finally gave Berrien the lead at 57-55.

New Buffalo came back to grab one last lead of 58-57 before a technical foul and Hosbein put the game away, basket with 1:15 to play. While scoring a Hosbein was fouled by Moss, who argued vehemently that he also received a technical. Hosbein sank both free throws for a 61-58 lead. The Shamrocks then stalled the clock down to just six seconds before Hosbein wrapped up the scoring with a basket. The win was the second in a row for Stover since returning to the team. The veteran Berrien coach missed the first three Shamrock games after back surgery.

"The kids have been bummed around like an orphan without a home," Stover said of his absence. "I think maybe they adopted me in the second half."

New Buffalo hit on 21 of 42 for 50 per cent, while Berrien connected on 27 of 48 for 56 per cent.

The Shamrocks held a slim 34-32 rebounding edge with center Rick Thiele pulling down 14 to go with his 13 points.

New Buffalo turned the ball over 15 times to 20 for Berrien.

The Shamrocks also won the junior varsity game 77-44. Berrien, now 4-1, was sparked by Mike Shembarger's 22-point effort. Mike Phillips had 12 for the Bisons.

Seattle Duo Nips Pistons

SEATTLE (AP) — Seattle guards Fred Brown and Slick Watts combined for 47 points to lead the Sonics past Detroit 97-85 in a National Basketball Association game Friday night.

Brown scored 27 points including two free throws with six seconds left to clinch the victory. Watts hit 16 points of his 20 points in the third quarter, which ended with the Sonics ahead 77-72.

Detroit guard Archie Clark missed a lay-in with 17 seconds left that would have tied the game.

Piston forward Perry Thomas, in his first NBA game, scored 18 points. His 12 points in the second quarter held Seattle's lead to 50-45 at halftime.

Gamble Paces Gull Lake Shelling

Rams Win, Alone On Top

RICHLAND — South Haven took over sole possession of the Wolverine Conference lead with a 77-60 shelling of Gull Lake here Friday night in high school basketball.

The Rams are 5-0 overall, 4-0 in the league and one-half game ahead of Idle Three Rivers. Gull Lake slips to an 0-3 conference mark and 1-4 overall.

William Gamble led the onslaught with 23 points, 14 of them coming in the first half. Rick Bus added 15. Nate Goodwin scored 14 and Mike Grimes had 10 for the Rams.

Gull Lake was led by Steve Sprague's 18 points and Jack

Nuyen added nine.

"I felt we played well in parts," said Rams' head coach M.H. White. "They were pressing most of the game and we burned them on the fast break."

With Gamble hitting his base line jump shots, the Rams zoomed out to a 32-21 margin at the half. "We were a little bit lax in the first part of the game," commented White.

The third quarter was more of the same as the Rams led 50-37.

South Haven canned an amazing 30 of 53 floor shots for 57 per cent while the Blue Devils made 28 of 64 tries for 45 per cent. The Rams were led in the shooting department by Gamble who made 11 of 17 attempts.

Each team had 27 rebounds with Grimes pulling down 10 and Gamble seven. The Rams committed 25 turnovers, their poorest this season. White indicated, and Gull Lake made 22.

"There were still some little things wrong," said White. "Like the position on rebounds and some careless turnovers."

This is also the first game we've played where we didn't have a height advantage," he added.

By giving up just 60 points, South Haven remains the best defensive team with a 51.8 average.

Moeller's Free Throws Save Hawks

HOPKINS — Coach Tom Pelon may have second thoughts the next time he tries a stall in a basketball game.

With about three and a half minutes left and Fennville up by five, Pelon had his team let the air out of the ball. But the Blackhawks blew the lead and it took a pair of Marc Moeller free throws with one second left to give Fennville an 80-76 Allegan-Ottawa conference win over Hopkins here Friday night.

Fennville is now 4-0 this season and 1-0 in the conference. The Blackhawks trail Allendale which is 2-0 in league play with its win Friday over Saugatuck. Hopkins is 1-3 overall and 0-2 in loop games.

Moeller, who scored 15 points in the last quarter and had 34 for the night, put Fennville ahead with 14 seconds left in the game when he hit a pair of free throws to make it 78-77. Mel Arnsman of Hopkins was then fouled on the inbound pass and he sank two charity tosses to give the Vikings a 79-78 lead.

The Blackhawks got the ball down court and Chris Schermer took an 18-footer which hit the back of the rim and bounded to Moeller who was then fouled.

"We had some lapses but I was satisfied with our play," said Pelon. "We moved the ball well."

Even though Hopkins committed 26 turnovers, it stayed right with Fennville but making 31 of 84 floor shots for a sizzling 48 per cent. "Our defense wasn't that bad but they were shooting over us and with men on them and making them," said Pelon.

"Hopkins didn't put a special defense in against Moeller, which kind of surprised me," indicated Pelon. "They just played a 1-2-2 zone and were well aware of him."

Besides Moeller's 34 points, Rudy Alfaro notched 12 points and Jim Scudder had 10.

Hopkins had a balanced scoring attack with Henry Chachulski netting 19, Phil Arndt and Tom Pawloski get-

Musselman 'Bad Apple' In Minnesota Recruiting Mess

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — A University of Minnesota official says the school has confirmed 138 charges of recruiting violations in the school's basketball program over a four-year period.

"Perhaps the trophy for the worst record will be retired here," said Dr. Stanley Kegler, university vice president. "One person who has been involved in this kind of investigative work for 10 or 12 years told me this is the worst list he's ever seen."

In a related development, a university regent said he feels a lawsuit should be filed against former basketball Coach Bill Musselman.

"The university has been significantly damaged by what appear to be his acts and omissions," said Regent Robert Latz in reference to Musselman. "There ought to be a way to send a message to the coaching fraternity even if there would be no damages."

Latz said Musselman disregarded his contract when he signed a multi-year pact with the now-defunct San Diego Sails of the American Basketball Association (ABA). Musselman now is coach of the Virginia Squires in the ABA.

"The bad apple is out of the barrel," said Regent Lloyd Peterson. "The culprit definitely was Musselman."

Kegler said a supplemental report on another 13 potential violations will be made Monday.

The school has turned up 36 confirmed charges on its own, excluding the 13 potential violations. Of the original list of 113 charges provided by the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) in July, Kegler said the university's investigation partially or totally refuted 41.

The violations involved 98 individuals and 11 "entities" such as booster clubs. One situation concerned an athlete and his family, who may have received up to $5,000 in various handouts.

Kegler said vague promises to prospective athletes turned out to be a major problem for investigators.

"A prospect would ask: 'What about travel home for Thanksgiving, or what if I have an emergency in my family?' The answer would be: 'It'll be taken care of.'"

Other violations included maintenance of a special car by the Athletic Department for exclusive use by athletes in addition to other unauthorized use of automobiles.

"We gave up trying to count the number of instances," said Kegler. "There were numerous violations."

Kegler said he expects the NCAA to rule on possible penalties by mid-January. He said penalties could include reducing the number of full scholarships in basketball from the present maximum of six per year; banning the team from post-season play and preventing the team from playing televised games.

Kegler will take some 1,700 pages of documents compiled by the university at an estimated cost of $30,000 to a meeting next week of the NCAA Infractions Committee in San Diego.

Sox Get Ralph Garr, Clay Carroll Veeck's Trading Rocks Baseball

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — In a wild scene that almost defied description, colorful Bill Veeck, the new owner of the Chicago White Sox, led a last minute trading spree in which such stars as Ralph Garr, Clay Carroll, Mickey Lolich and Rusty Staub changed uniforms.

The first blockbuster deal in the late move to beat the mid-night trading deadline involved the New York Mets, sending power hitting Rusty Staub to the Detroit Tigers for Mickey Lolich, the veteran left-handed pitcher.

The Staub-for-Lolich swap alone was a headliner, but what followed as Veeck and his general manager, Roland Hemond, wheeled and dealt through four trades in less than an hour was mind-boggling.

Get the scene. The 61-year-old Veeck sat in a chair in the lobby of the hotel where the winter baseball meetings were being held. He had a sign alongside him which read, "Open for Business Anytime."

A telephone stood on the table in front of him. Hemond and other Sox aides sat around the table. Veeck sat in that chair more than 12 hours, carrying on negotiations with other club officials. Hotel guests stopped to watch the unusual sight.

"Undoubtedly they (other baseball people) will say I'm making a travesty of trading," Veeck had said earlier. "But the game is fun."

In those final frantic minutes, the White Sox sent outfielder Ken Henderson and pitchers Dick Ruthven and Dan Osborn to the Atlanta Braves for 1974 National League batting champ Ralph Garr and infielder Larvell Blanks. They quickly dispatched Blanks to the Cleveland Indians for second baseman Jack Brohamer.

Before the lines were hot with this news, Veeck and company struck again—twice. The Sox acquired Carroll, long the ace of the bullpen for the World Champion Cincinnati Reds, for left-handed pitcher Rich Hinton and catcher Jeff Sovern.

"The Carroll deal," said Hemond, as a crowd of several dozen hotel guests crowded around a lobby bannister separating them from the Veeck circus, "is subject to the approval of Carroll and his representative."

Under baseball rules, a 10-year veteran who has served five years with the same club can refuse a trade. Carroll as such had that right.

"We have talked with Carroll," Hemond said, "and he referred us to his representative. We called the representative and his telephone was out of order."

Now, Hemond reached for the telephone again. He had seconds left to swing yet another trade. Veeck, concerned about the time left, sent Joe Reichler, special assistant to baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, to telephone Kuhn and asked for a brief extension of the trading deadline.

But the extension wasn't necessary. As the second hand ticked off the final minute, Hemond spoke into the phone.

"Bing, this is Roland. We've got 15 seconds left. It's a deal."

Reichler rushed up, obviously without the extension.

"Did you make the deal, your time is up," said the commissioner's man.

"We just traded shortstop Bee Bee Richard to the St. Louis Cardinals for outfielder Buddy Bradford and pitcher Greg Tarkenton," Hemond said.

This was Hollywood, Fla., but it darn well might have been Hollywood, Calif. The action was right out of a B movie.

Earlier, on one of the busiest trading days in the history of baseball's winter meetings, the World Champion Cincinnati Reds and the American League champion Boston Red Sox made moves to make the rich richer.

The Red Sox sent Roger Moret, a fine young pitcher who won 14 and lost only three games last season and had a lifetime record of 41-18, to the Atlanta Braves for reliever Tom House. House was 7-7 and allowed only two homers in 79 innings of pitching.

The Reds, in addition to moving Carroll for Hinton and Sovern, picked up bench strength with the acquisition of Bob Bailey and Mike Lum, both projected as pinch hitters and utility players. They gave up righthanded pitcher Clay Kirby, 10-5, to Montreal for Bailey and infielder Darrell Chaney to Atlanta for Lum.

Garr, who turned 30 on Friday, slipped from his batting title .353 of 1974 to .278 last year. He had won a $50,000 pay boost to $114,500 in a salary arbitration appeal last winter.

Duluth Stops MSU, Ross

From Associated Press

Minnesota-Duluth killed the proverbial two birds with one stone in Western Collegiate Hockey Association play Friday night.

Toni Milani scored a pair of goals and added two assists as the Bulldogs whipped league-leading Michigan State's 5-2 and in the process wiped out the 78-game scoring string of Spartan All-American Tom Ross.

Michigan ambushed Wisconsin 5-4 in the only other league contest. Michigan Tech picked up a non-conference victory while Colorado College and Denver were defeated.

Tech slammed Lake Superior (Wif.) State 11-1, the U.S. Nationals defeated Denver 6-3 and St. Louis University topped Colorado College 6-1.

Monty Jones, Mike Newton and Curt Giles also scored for Duluth, now 6-7 in the league, while Dave Kelly and Robbie Harris had goals for the Spartans, who are now 9-4 in the WCHA.

Successive goals by Greg Natale snapped a 2-2 tie to help Michigan overwhelm last-place Wisconsin in a game interrupted by a fight. The Wolverines opened up an 8-2 lead in the game, which saw Michigan's Doug Lindskog and Wisconsin's John Suter ejected for their roles in a five-minute brawl during the third period. Both will also be out of Saturday night's game.

Mike Zuke scored five goals and broke Michigan Tech's scoring record by increasing his career total to 103 points. Stu Younger added two goals and three assists to the Tech romp.

A pair of goals by Dan Bolduc led the U.S. Nationals to its victory in Denver. Bob Miller, Dick Lamby, Bob Dubec and Steve Alley also scored for the Nationals while Doug Berry, Paul Hogan and Cal Sandbeck had goals for Denver.

Dan Lawton's two goals helped St. Louis improve its record to 12-5. Rick Pracht, Greg Smith and Jim Warner scored goals for Colorado College, which had a 2-0 lead early in the second period.

"Undoubtedly they (other baseball people) will say I'm

Northwestern Ends Dominican's Reign

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Undefeated Detroit Northwestern continued its winning ways Friday as sisters Helen and Sheila Williams led the Falcons to a 75-69 victory over defending Class A champion Detroit Dominican in the girls state prep basketball semi-finals.

Northwestern will meet Farmington Our Lady of Mercy today in the Class A finals match.

Helen scored 31 points while sister Sheila tossed in 21 to pace the Falcons to their 20th straight victory.

It was a sweet victory for Northwestern who has lost only to Dominican during the last three years.

In other games Friday, Farmington Our Lady defeated Marquette 62-57 in Class A action. Warren Woods dumped Jensen 54-44 and Tecumseh edged West Branch Ogeonaw Heights 56-54 in Class B.

In Class C, Hopkins slipped by Kalamazoo Christian 45-44 and Gladwin whipped Allen Park Cabrini 46-40, while in Class D, Allendale beat Perkins 48-43 and Flint Holy Rosary got by Lake City 62-40.

Farmington trailed until the fourth period before eliminating Marquette. At halftime the Farmington girls trailed by nine points.

Dawn Bryant sank 25 points for West Branch, while Julie Anderson and Melinda Ternek hit 47 each for victorious Tecumseh. Tecumseh takes on Warren Woods in the Class B girls today.

In Class C Hopkins will face Gladwin and in Class D its Allendale versus Flint Holy Rosary.

In 1963 with Houston as a $100,000 bonus baby.

Lolich first came up to the Tigers in 1963, went back to Syracuse late that season, then returned to Detroit to stay.

His best season was in 1971, when he posted a 25-14 record and a 2.92 ERA. The following year, he was 22-14 with a 2.50 ERA, but the highlight of his career came in 1968 when after posting a 17-8 record and leading the Tigers to the American League pennant, he tied the World Series record for most games won with three, against St. Louis. He also hit a home run in that series.

Lolich pitched a total of four innings in All-Star games in 1971-72, compiling an All-Star ERA of 2.25. He also was a member of the All-Star team in 1969, but did not play.

Last summer Lolich became the all-time left-handed strikeout pitcher.

Baldwin, 24, hit .301 in 78 games with Montgomery of the Southern League, .306 in 14 games with Evansville of the American Association and .221 in 30 games with the Tigers last season.

Laxton, a left-hander, was 114 with Tidewater of the International League during the 1975 season.

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR SHEILA MACRAE

Since you were in "The Honeymooners" (my favorite program), can you tell me what kind of a man Jackie Gleason is?—H.R., Pottstown, Pa.

● Modest, extremely intelligent, a marvelous listener who isn't a great talker. People don't realize he has the potential for being a terrific romantic actor, because he's a romantic. He never uses bad language in front of women. He's very aware, and devours books as though they're going out of style. His "King Farouk-Ralph Cramden" image is all wrong. He's rather insecure, especially around women, and behaves like a little boy or a scared child.

FOR DICK CLARK, host of "$10,000 Pyramid"

Why have you never danced on "American Bandstand" or a TV show?—C.S., Salem, Ore.

● I don't know how. I never learned. My first steps on a dance floor were the result of a gift from my neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Murray. The last time I danced was during the era of The Twist. (It was easy. Talent was not required. Just stamina.) I don't dance well enough to do it publicly or regularly. I'm afraid people will look at me and laugh and say, "With all his experience, why isn't he a better dancer?"

FOR CHARLES HIGHAM, author of "Kate"

Do you feel that Americans have an unhealthy interest in the private lives of Hollywood celebrities?—R.T., Calhoun, Ala.

● Not at all. Curiosity is a healthy attitude. The man who is not curious is a numbskull. The fascination with movie stars stems from the fact that the more you get to know them, the "curiouser" they become. The only movie stars who resent exposure are those whose careers consist solely of a powerful self-exploitation, when they don't have a healthy interest in anything but themselves.

FOR ANGIE DICKINSON, star of "Police Woman"

Give us heavyweights a break, and tell us how you keep so slim.—K.S., Fort Smith, Ark.

● Apart from the obvious—keep away from everything highly caloric—I have a marvelous tip for weight control. I brush my teeth as often as I can, because it stops me from feeling hungry, and I have no desire to eat. With me, it's not the eating that's important, it's the taste. I brush four or five times a day with my favorite toothpaste.

FOR O. J. SIMPSON, Buffalo Bills football star

Did you receive some way-out college scholarship offers before you chose Southern California?—Tom Lee, Canton, Ohio

● I sure did. One college offered to build a house for my mother. But the NCAA warned me they were going to check every detail of what I got from the school I chose. At Southern Cal, I got only the standard scholarship allowed by the NCAA—room, board, tuition and laundry. I chose it because it is a fine school with a great football tradition.

FOR JOHN WAYNE, star of "Rooster Cogburn"

What reaction do you get when you see yourself on the late shows?—J.R., Oklahoma City, Okla.

● That I should be asleep.

FOR GAIL BROWN, star of TV's "Another World"

Please settle an argument. Are you related to Karen Black, and is Brown your real name?—J.M., Boise, Idaho

● Yes, Karen and I are sisters. As for the last names, I'm Mrs. Michael Q. Brown, and Karen's first husband was Charles Black. Being Karen's sister is my first claim to fame. My other one is that I live on the site of a Revolutionary War burial ground, and my house is "haunted" by "Lucy and her soldier Lover." June Havoc lived there before we did. She moved out because she didn't like living with ghosts.

FOR ROBERTA FLACK, singer

Did you get where you are through talent or tenacity?—N.S., Anderson, Ind.

● I'm sure about the tenacity part—all black women in show business are potential victims. It's tough for one hanging out there on her own. It takes enormous strength and courage. As for talent, when I was a child, I didn't go for hopscotch or jump rope—I only wanted to play the piano. Without music, I couldn't function. It's the most important thing in the world to me.

FOR MUHAMMAD ALI

Did you find it hard adjusting to show business routine when you did your special?—C.A., Provo, Utah

● No way. When I started I knew nothing about show business. Two days later, when I finished, I knew everything about it.

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

I love Freddie Prinze! Since I can't have him, can you help by telling me something about his wedding? I like to live vicariously!—P.W., Amarillo, Texas

● Freddie's travel agent knew the wedding date before the families of the bride and groom did since he made out all the airline tickets to Las Vegas from L.A. (where Prinze's folks live) and from Jackson Hole, Wyo. (where Kathy's parents live). Freddie's mother, delighted that her son had given up bachelorhood, said she had always wanted a daughter. Freddie's father said, "So, you've finally stopped running around." Jack Albertson, his TV partner and a member of the small wedding party, told his nervous friend: "It's not too late. You can pretend it's a vaudeville skit and disappear." Freddie asked: "Why am I doing this thing?" The wedding took place at Caesars Palace, where Freddie made his nightclub debut. Kathy said she rarely watched Freddie on "Chico and the Man" before she met him.

Unitas May Watch Record Fall

Tarkenton Near TD Mark

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — While Johnny Unitas sits helplessly in the television booth Sunday at Pontiac Stadium, Fran Tarkenton just might replace him as the National Football League's most prolific touchdown passer.

Minnesota quarterback Tarkenton needs one touchdown pass in the Vikings game against the Detroit Lions to tie the NFL record of 280 set by the fabled Unitas. Two TD tosses would give 15-year veteran Tarkenton the mark to himself.

The 94,688 tickets were sold out more than a week ago and so the game will be broadcast locally as well as on national TV — with former Baltimore Colt great Unitas part of the broadcast team.

Chuck Foreman, the Vikings' star running back, can join Tarkenton in the limelight with a good game. He tops the National Conference in rushing (961 yards), scoring (18 TDs) and receiving (82 catches). He needs only 12 yards to break the club rushing record and just 39 to become the first 1,000-yard rusher in Viking history. His touchdown and receiving totals are already team records.

Tarkenton has already passed Unitas in career completions with 2,988. Should he throw 32 passes against the Lions he'll also pass Unitas' record for attempts, 5,188.

Next year the seldom-injured scrambler could break Unitas' record of 40,239 yards passing, set in his 18 seasons with Baltimore and San Diego. Tarkenton has thrown for 38,468 so far.

While Minnesota, 11-1, clinched the NFC Central Division title a couple weeks ago — and a playoff berth — the Lions have dropped from the playoff picture and assured themselves of their seventh consecutive second-place finish.

Detroit, which won three straight games when Joe Reed took over at quarterback six weeks ago, lost the next three to fall to a 6-6 record.

"Personally, I'm excited about playing the Vikings," said Lions' Coach Rick Forzano. "It's a challenge to our personnel and a challenge to our coaches."

It'll be a challenge, all right. It's been a pretty good challenge the last eight years for Detroit, which has managed to beat Minnesota just once in the last 15 tries. The Vikings took a 25-19 decision earlier this season at Bloomington, Minn.

Detroit's lone triumph in the string was 20-16 last year. Reed must try to find a way to crack the tough Viking defense, which happens to be ranked first in the NFL. It has allowed just 150 points, third best in the entire NFL.

The Lions' defense, meanwhile, has been pretty good all season. Tackle Herb Orvis, former No. 1 draft choice, has finally come into his own. Forzano said in last week's loss to the Bears, Orvis "played the greatest football game that a defensive tackle played in an NFL game this year."

If the Lions don't beat Minnesota, their only hope of salvaging a .500 record will come in the finale the following Sunday at home against another divisional leader, St. Louis.

Dentzman Tops In Bangor Win

BANGOR — John Dentzman scored 16 points and Ricky Ross added 12 Friday night as Bangor dipped Galesburg, Augusta 55-51 here.

The Vikings trailed 12-8 at the end of the first quarter, but outscored Galesburg 34-19 during the middle two quarters to take a commanding 42-31 edge. From there Bangor simply held off a fourth-quarter challenge from the visitors.

Bangor, now 2-3, hit 24 of 64 from the floor for 38 per cent, while Galesburg found the range on just 18 of 63 for 29 per cent.

The Vikings held a 39-32

rebounding advantage with Ross grabbing 14 for the winners. Skyler Morgan came away with 12.

Kevin Standley led the losers with 19 points and Ted Homan added 12.

Unbeaten Marcellus Routs Lawton 80-57

LAWTON — Unbeaten Marcellus blew past Lawton 80-57 in SAC action here Friday night.

Marcellus, now 2-0 in the league and 3-0 on the season, jumped off to a 24-5 first quarter lead and was never really threatened.

Lonnie Lewis scored 21, Dave Mason 16 and Steve Bradley 12 as Marcellus hit 29 of 68 field goals (43 per cent) and 23 of 37 free throws (63 per cent).

Lawton got 13 points from Dawson Rupp while making 21 of 54 field goals (39 per cent) and 13 of 30 free throws.

Lawton failed to score on its first 11 possessions but didn't give up. "We could have folded our tents and gone home," declared Blue Devil coach Bruce Bendix, "but our kids didn't give up."

After the early cold shooting,

Lawton was hampered the rest of the way by turnovers. The Blue Devils finished with 41, compared to 25 for Marcellus.

Marcellus also posted a 54-47 rebounding edge, with Lewis being a "bear on the boards."

The loss dropped Lawton to 0-2 in the SAC and 0-3 on the season.

Marcellus also won the junior varsity preliminary.

Gobles Uses Press To Strangle Martin

GOBLES — Gobles put on effective press in the second quarter to make up an 14-12 first-quarter deficit and earn a 57-39 win over Martin here Friday night in an Southwestern Athletic Conference clash.

With the press on, the Tigers outscored Martin 45-25 the last three quarters.

Gobles had 10 players find the scoring column as it got plenty of help from its bench. The lone player to crack double figures was Bryan Clement with 10 points. Rob Vandenberg scored 12 and Rook 11 for the losers.

Both teams were cold from the court with Gobles hitting on 25 of 78 shots for 32 per cent and Martin on 14 of 47 for 31 per cent. The hosts dumped in seven of 14 free throws, Martin 11 of 19.

Gobles held a 37-30 edge on the boards with Jeff Price and Jim Hansen both taking down seven caroms.

Gobles is 3-1 overall and 1-1 in SAC play, Martin sinks to 1-2 overall and 1-1 in loop action.

Dutch Down Niles

HOLLAND — Loren Schrotenboer tossed in 13 points and Dennis Lawson added 17 Friday night as Holland handed Niles a 69-56 defeat here.

The Dutch raced away to an early 15-4 lead in the first quarter and were never really headed. Holland led 38-28 at halftime and the closest the Vikings got after that was six. Niles closed to within 58-53 with 2:24 left before guard Steve Adams fouled out.

Tim Garner led all scorers with 20 for the Vikings. Bill Brenner scored 11 and Adams 10.

Niles hit 24 of 70 from the floor for 34 per cent, while Holland found the range on 25 of 64 for 39 per cent.

The Vikings, now 2-1 in the Big Seven and 2-2 overall, host undefeated St. Joseph next Friday. Holland is 2-1 and 3-1, respectively.

Coach Of Year Title Won By Trenton Mentor

MIDLAND, Mich. (AP) — Trenton football coach Jack Castignola has been named Michigan Class A coach of the year by the Michigan High School Football Coaches Association.

Trenton, 9-0, finished first in the Michigan Associated Press poll but was not selected to participate in the statewide playoffs.

Bob Lapointe of Class B champion Dearborn Divine Child was selected coach of the year in his division.

Toni Saylor of Hudson was named coach of the year in Class C. His team set a national record of 72 straight victories before losing to Ishpeming in the statewide championship game.

Richard Mettlich of Class D champion Crystal Falls Forest Park won honors in his division.

At a weekend meeting, the coaches also scheduled their fourth annual football clinic for Jan. 23-24 at Troy Athens High School. More than 1,400 coaches are expected to participate.

High-Flying Cass Soars To Fourth Straight Win

CASSOPOLIS — Undefeated Cassopolis got its offense in high gear to race by Edwardsburg 89-56 here Friday night in a Blossomland league contest.

The Rangers, now 4-0 this year overall and 2-0 in the league, got their fast break working in the second quarter to outscore the Eddie 24-11 and then coasted the rest of the way to the easy win.

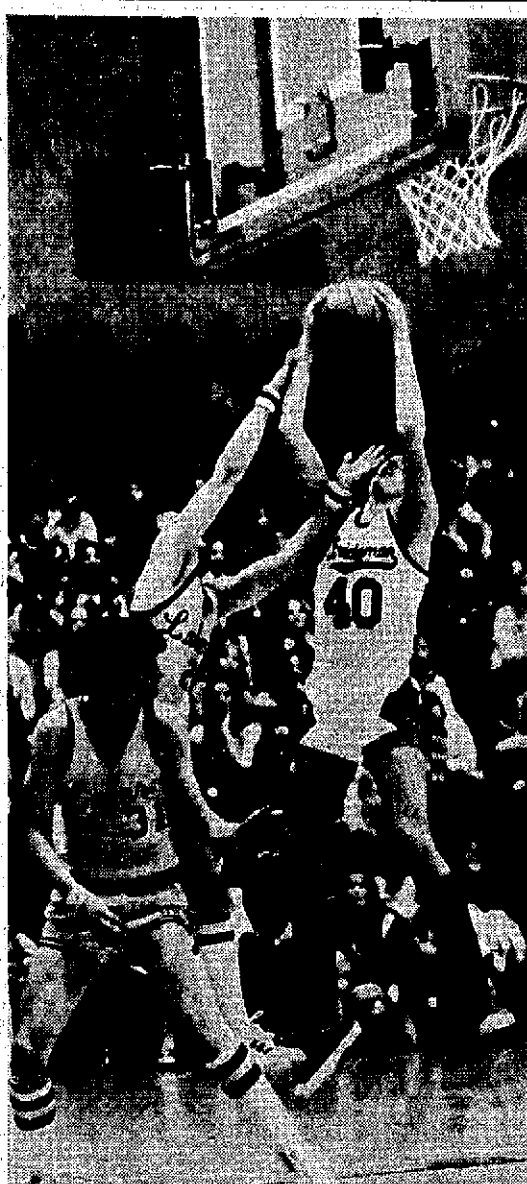

Glen Hawkins, who came off the bench to top all scorers with 19 points, sparked Cass in the second period with six points and seven rebounds.

Gary Young added 14 points for the winners while Alan Vanzant and Harold Nelson had 10 apiece. Steve Barrella hit 15 and Steve Staal 14 for Edwardsburg, now 0-5 overall and 0-2 in league action.

Young also pulled down 19 rebounds, 12 the first half. Vanzant had 11 caroms and Hawkins nine as the Rangers held an overwhelming 63-24 margin on the boards.

Paw Paw Falls To Fourth Loss

ALLEGAN — Paw Paw gave Allegan a battle down to the wire but ended up losing a 59-55 Wolverine conference decision here Friday night.

The Redskins are now 0-4 for the season for their worst start since the 56-57 season. Allegan is 3-3 overall and 2-2 in the league.

The Skins tied the game twice in the last period with the last deadlock coming at 53-all at 2:28 left.

Free throws proved the difference as the Redskins held a 25-23 edge in field goals but hit only five of seven free throws compared to 13 of 24 for Allegan.

Kirt LaPine led Paw Paw with 18 points, while George Crouse had 10. Four Allegan players reached double digits with John Hoffman canning 14 points, John Webber 13, Brent Cook 12 and Dave Hodge 10.

Paw Paw connected on 32 per cent of its shots, Allegan 34 per cent.

Paw Paw did enjoy a 43-39 rebound margin with Crouse collecting nine rebounds and LaPine and Jim Blake seven each.

POLICE ROUNDUP

Officers Locate Missing Vehicles

Benton Harbor police late last night and early this morning recovered an auto and a pickup truck, both reported stolen earlier.

Police said two boys, ages 16 and 15 of Benton Harbor, were arrested at 11:30 p.m. Friday, after officers stopped a 1967 Buick. The boys were petitioned to juvenile court on charges of unlawfully driving away an auto and remanded to their parents.

Police said the auto matched the description of one that was reported stolen Friday evening by Rita Johnson of 529 McAllister avenue, Benton Harbor. The car was reported stolen from the parking lot of Wolf's grocery store, 430 Pipestone street.

FLUSHED LETTER: James P. Hosty Jr., a former Dallas FBI agent now stationed in Kansas City, tells a House Judiciary subcommittee in Washington Friday, that he personally flushed down the drain a threatening letter from Lee Harvey Oswald. Hosty said he was ordered to destroy the Oswald letter by J. Gordon Shanklin, who at the time was chief of the Dallas FBI office. But Shanklin swore he does not remember seeing the note or ordering it destroyed. (AP Wirephoto)

TODAY In History

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Saturday Dec. 13, the 347th day of 1975. There are 18 days left in the year.
Today's highlight in history:
On this date in 1577, the English navigator Sir Francis Drake began his history-making voyage around the world.
On this date:
In 1781, a day of prayer and thanksgiving was observed in the United States to mark the end of the Revolutionary War.
In 1808, the Spanish city of Madrid fell to the French under Napoleon.
In 1862, during the Civil War, Union troops were defeated by Confederates on Marye's Heights outside Fredericksburg, Va.
In 1918, in World War I, troops of the U.S. 3rd Army crossed the Rhine River at Coblenz, Germany.
In 1944, in the Pacific war, a Japanese suicide plane crashed into the U.S. cruiser "Nashville," killing 138 crewmen.
In 1968, former President Dwight Eisenhower was reported in good condition after surgery for removal of his gall bladder.
Ten years ago: NATO foreign ministers gathered for a semi-annual meeting in Paris with the war in Vietnam the prime topic.
Five years ago: gunners downed a U.S. bomber carrying top secret equipment into Laos.
One year ago: the House gave final approval to a bill curbing strip mining.
Today's birthdays: former Secretary of the Treasury George Shultz is 55 years old. South African Prime Minister John Vorster is 80.
Thought for today: the best way to cheer yourself up is to try to cheer somebody else up — Mark Twain, 1835-1910.
Bicentennial footnote: 200 years ago, the Massachusetts council ordered the seizure of the estates of all loyalists who had taken refuge in Boston or returned to England.

TODAY'S WEATHER MAP: Showers are forecast tonight for parts of the Midwest, the Great Lakes and mid-Atlantic region. Rain is forecast for the Northeast. Scattered areas of snow are forecast from the central to the northern Rockies and showers are forecast for the Northwest. (AP Wirephoto Map)

THIRTY-DAY FORECAST: This is the 30-day outlook for precipitation and temperatures, according to the National Weather Service. (AP Wirephoto Map)

U.S. Could Lose Arms Trade

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Billions of dollars in U.S. defense funds would be spent in Western Europe rather than at home under plans for standardizing weapons being worked out in the North Atlantic alliance. The objective is to make the defense dollars go further and to increase military efficiency. But that could also mean fewer orders and jobs in U.S. industry. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and foreign ministers from the 14 other allies decided Friday, on the final day of their winter meeting, to set up a program intended to make weapons more compatible. For example, they want a British computer finding the range of an enemy plane to be able to transmit the information to a U.S. missile.

Benton Man Injured In 2-Car Crash

A Benton township woman received apparently minor injuries in a two-car collision investigated by Benton township police at Pipestone road and Rackliffe drive, at 5:15 p.m. Friday.

Police said Janet Harding, 28, of 2373 South Glendale road, received bruises but decided to seek her own medical attention. She was reported to be a passenger in an auto driven by Thomas L. Harding, 34, also of 2373 South Glendale. He was unhurt, as was the other driver, Maggie Hankins, 55, of 834 Thresher avenue, Benton Harbor, police reported. Police said Harding was ticketed for failure to yield the right of way.

Football's Greatest Runners:

Men Who Know Pick the NFL's Quickest, Strongest—And Hardest to Bring Down

By Larry Bortstein
FAMILY WEEKLY Contributing Editor

The best teams in the National Football League are usually those which dominate the ground game. Last year, pro teams ran the ball four times for every three times they passed it, and the last three winners of the Super Bowl were led by top ballcarriers—Larry Csonka of the Miami Dolphins in 1973 and 1974 and Franco Harris of the Pittsburgh Steelers last January.

The NFL has many outstanding runners, and they fall into different types: sleek and quick, big and powerful, adept at catching passes, expert at blocking. FAMILY WEEKLY wanted to learn which of today's NFL running backs ranked best in the various skills at the position. We asked these great pro players—Matt Snell, Gale Sayers, Lenny Moore and Jim Taylor—to tell us.

MATT SNELL ON THE GREAT BLOCKING BACKS

Former New York Jet Matt Snell set a club career record with 4,285 rushing yards. He was also highly regarded for his ferocious blocking.

"As long as the Jets have a quarterback like Joe Namath, who can't run because of his bad knees, they'll need running backs who are strong blockers. Even if I wasn't interested in blocking, I would have had to become interested or else lose my regular job. Luckily, I had a lot of experience in blocking at Ohio State."

"The Jets' running backs, John Riggins and Emerson Boozer are both excellent blockers, big and strong enough to

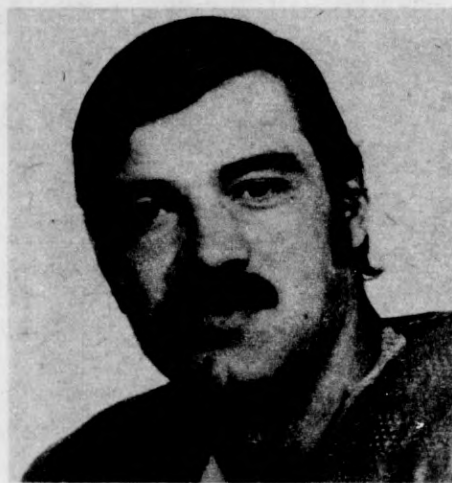

John Riggins

Emerson Boozer

stand up against onrushing linemen and linebackers. But there are other great blockers around, too. O. J. Simpson is great, but his fullback, Jim Braxton, helps him a lot as a blocker and can also carry the ball on plays when the Bills use Simpson as a decoy. Other good, strong backs who block well and are strong ballcarriers are Sam Cunningham of New England

Larry Csonka

O. J. Simpson

Terry Metcalf

Marv Hubbard

"Actually, being able to elude tacklers is more important than speed. A good running back has to be able to give a tackler a leg or an arm to shoot for, then quickly pull it away and keep on moving."—Gale Sayers and Jim Otis of St. Louis. They're not afraid to stick their noses in there and knock somebody down.

"Something else: A running back who has a lot of blocking responsibilities has to be really durable and able to take punishment. He's involved in just about every play. Some running backs, when they're not carrying the ball, can just coast through a play every now and then with no particular problem. But a guy who runs and blocks is always doing one thing or the other on every down."

GALE SAYERS ON THE QUICK ONES

Although he played only seven years, the Chicago Bears' Gale Sayers is considered one of the greatest running backs of all time. He is now assistant athletic director at the University of Kansas.

"I hear people criticize O. J. Simpson

for the same thing they criticized me for—running inside rather than trying to get outside on every play. But O. J. knows—just as I knew—that you have less chance of getting hurt running into the line rather than outside it. When you run straight ahead, you normally fall in two or three seconds, and you usually land on top of somebody. The fall is cushioned. When you run outside, some guy is liable to grab your leg or your arm and twist, and really hurt you. I got my ankle busted when a San Francisco 49er hit me from the side. But the good runners know the quickest way to gain yards is to go inside. It takes too much time to circle the whole line to try to get outside all the time. By the time you get to the sideline, a whole bunch of guys might be there to knock you down.

"Also, running inside, you have an excellent chance to break a long run if you just get past the first line of defense. The fast running backs, like O. J. and Chuck Foreman of Minnesota and Terry Metcalf of St. Louis, can beat any lineman in a one-on-one foot race. It pays for them to go inside because once they're through, they're gone.

"Actually, being able to elude tacklers is more important than speed. A good running back has to be able to give a tackler a leg or an arm to shoot for, then quickly pull it away and keep on moving.

"Also, there's the ability to change directions if a hole gets clogged. The shiftiest runners, like O. J., Foreman and Metcalf, have the ability to change direction so smoothly and surely that the defense is often left frozen in its tracks.

"Another thing the good running backs know is when to turn on full speed. You can't go all out every time you have the ball. There comes a time when you just want to look for a soft spot to fall. But sometimes the good back can lull a defender into thinking he's slowing down or not going full-blast, and then, at the last second, he turns it on and he's far upfield before the defender can react."

LENNY MOORE ON CATCHING AND RUNNING—AND WEAVING

Enshrined in the Pro Football Hall of Fame last August, Lenny Moore starred from 1956 to 1967 with the Baltimore Colts. He excelled at both running back and flanker.

"You've got to keep moving and moving some more in this business. I wasn't the fastest runner or flanker when I played, but I could change speeds quickly and I had good peripheral vision that allowed me to stay out of trouble. I always could catch the ball, and with my speed I could really move it once I caught it. Of course, I had the greatest quarterback of all time throwing it to me—Johnny Unitas—and that helped a lot.

"People used to fault me sometimes because of my high knee action. They said this left me open for a good rap on the

Economic Recovery Seen As 'Erratic'

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — "Financial timebombs" left over from two years of recession are likely to make the nation's economic recovery erratic and cut short recovery, a Washington University economist warned Friday.

Prof. Hyman P. Minsky of the St. Louis, Mo. school, said even if major economic disasters are avoided, the nation will experience only a weak improvement because inflation and recession have produced "an era of financial conservatism" by corporations and bankers.

"Thus, I look for protracted sluggishness through 1976, with the provision that if some of the financial time bombs go off, we can see a resumption of the sharp decline (of last winter)," he said.

But Minsky warned that continuing problems suffered by large banks in New York City, airlines, and by unstable oil prices leave such forecasts suspect.

"The recovery is vulnerable to a disturbance from financial markets," he said. "Public difficulties for a giant bank can induce even more conservative behavior with respect to debt than was experienced in the third quarter of 1975."

Minsky argued that the $70 billion government deficit between October of 1974 and September of 1975 was a most likely cause for the current economic upswing.

"The recovery rests on big government," he said, "and any attempt to reduce government deficit before the private financial system is robust will lead to a resumption of the decline and increase the likelihood that the financial time bombs will detonate."

"The applicability can be upset by an exposure of financial weaknesses, a spectacular bankruptcy, a premature attempt to bring government expenses in line with revenues or a rise in interest rates. The odds are good that one of more of these will take place."

U-M economist Gardner Ackley, once President Lyndon Johnson's top economic advisor, warned that the nation cannot afford continued unemployment at a level above the worst point in the previous postwar recession.

"If, as some glibly assert, it will be 1980 before the unemployment rate gets down to even 4 per cent, several million of the young workers who will enter the labor force in this half-decade will bear permanent psychological scars," he said.

He suggested realignment of fiscal policy to increase employment even if prices rise somewhat more quickly as a result.

As an alternative, he said the government could go to direct controls, incomes policies, or manpower and public employment policies.

Lawyer Seeks Ban On Carols

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP) — A lawyer who filed suit to stop Christmas caroling in the courthouse says he's no Scrooge. He just thinks it's wrong to make a jury listen to murder testimony and "Joy to the World" at the same time.

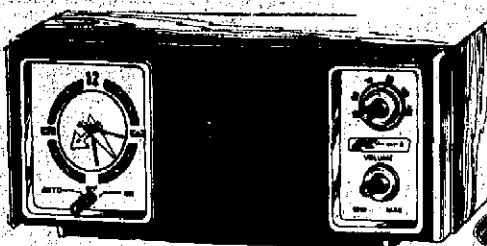

Attorney John Aponick Jr. filed suit in county court Friday, requesting an injunction against the city commissioners who approved the caroling in the courthouse rotunda.

"We want the caroling postponed until after the trials are over, or the trials postponed until the caroling is over," Aponick said.

To Set Spending Lid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is imposing for the first time a binding ceiling on federal spending and a floor on revenues, leaving the government with a projected deficit of $24.1 billion for this fiscal year.

ENVOY'S SON CHARGED FOLKESTONE, England (AP) — The 24-year-old son of the American ambassador to Mexico is being held without bail on a charge of attempting to import 2½ pounds of cocaine into Britain.

knees by a tackler. But I ran like that in the open field when there were no guys near me ready to jump me. When I needed yards close in, I kept my knees low like most other good running backs.

"A guy playing today who reminds me a lot of myself is Terry Metcalf of St. Louis. He's four inches shorter than I was—he's only about 5-10—but he really can catch the ball and move with it once he has it. And he can weave out of heavy traffic in the open field.

"If you're quick and know how to stay out of trouble, I firmly believe you can play in the NFL, no matter what size you are. Mack Herron of the New England Patriots is only 5-4, but he gets a tremendous amount of yardage because he knows how and when to make his moves.

"A running back who can catch the ball is a more complete player than a good runner who's not a good receiver. On the Colts now, there's a great back in Lydell Mitchell. Not only is he capable of running more than 1,000 yards a season, but last year he led the NFL in pass receiving with 72 catches, the most ever caught by a running back. A quarterback in trouble loves to see a good receiver coming out of the backfield as a safety valve receiver or to catch the short sideline pattern. A guy like Mitchell gives a team more flexibility in its offense."

JIM TAYLOR ON STRAIGHT-AHEAD POWER

Fullback Jim Taylor played 10 years in the NFL, and his career total of 8,597 yards is second only to Jim Brown's 12,312.

"I was never afraid to put my head down and run, no matter how many guys I had in front of me. I tried running straight up once. When I got up, my face was all bloodied. I had no real outside speed, but the way we played in Green Bay when I was there was we ran a lot of sweeps which took me to the outside behind a lot of great blocking. But I really like putting my head down and just going straight, hard and low.

"I think Larry Csonka, when he played with the Miami Dolphins, was the best fullback around for sheer straight-ahead power. He could carry the ball for a couple of yards, dragging tacklers along with him, get up, shake himself off; go back to the huddle, and do it all over again on the next play. Since Csonka went over to the Memphis club in the World Football League last year, I haven't seen him as much as I used to. But now that the league has folded, I guess he'll be back in the NFL.

"Oakland has a real good fullback in Marv Hubbard. He's another one of those guys who just gets the ball and plows into the line. I hardly ever got thrown for a loss, and Csonka and Hubbard are like that, too. They also hardly ever fumble.

"The reason why guys like Csonka and Hubbard and John Brockington of Green Bay usually manage to pick up some yardage whenever they carry the ball is their tremendous balance. They can remain on their feet for a long time, with their legs still pumping, before they're finally taken down. Very often, an official will blow the play dead when a guy is still upright because the ballcarrier's not able to move forward any more and everything is at a standstill. Sometimes you're grateful when you're knocked down. You can grab a few seconds of rest before you get up to rejoin the huddle."

LMC Auto Maintenance Course Is Designed For Average Driver

"Auto Maintenance for All" a new course instituted by Lake Michigan college's automotive technology department designed to teach men and women auto owners how to perform minor maintenance and repair jobs on their own cars.

The 17-week, two-credit course will meet from 1 to 4 p.m. Fridays beginning Jan. 30. Mail registrations for the course will be accepted through Jan. 14. In-person enrollment in the course can be accomplished during LMC's regular second semester registration on Jan. 21 and 22.

Designed for average auto owners and drivers rather than for automotive technology students, the course will emphasize regular maintenance as well as teach the student to perform such functions as chassis and engine lubrication, minor engine tuneup, and other minor repairs for safe and efficient automobile operation.

Students will work on their own cars and purchase all parts. The college will furnish the tools and the supervision. The class will be limited to 20 students, according to instructor Sam Laswell.

Wisconsin Synod Sponsors Program

The Lutheran radio program at 8:05 a.m. Sundays on radio station WHFB is sponsored by the Wisconsin Evangelical Lutheran Synod and not the Missouri Synod of the Lutheran Church as reported in the Thursday edition of The Herald-Palladium.

Rev. Ronald Fretter, pastor of the Grace Lutheran church, 404

East Glenford road, Lincoln township, explained that the WHFB program is called the "Lutheran Radio Worship" and not the "Lutheran Hour." The former is sponsored by the Wisconsin Synod, and the latter, the Missouri Synod, he said. WHFB will not air the 1975 Lutheran Hour holiday special "Christmas in Nigeria."

PSYCHOLOGISTS say money can't really buy happiness. If people spend a lot they're labeled showoffs, and if they don't they're called stingy! Map-Reading: Have you ever been to Ohio, Pa.; Ohio, Iowa; Ohio, Neb.; Dink, W. Va.; or D'In, Miss.? The Ruling planet of Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) is Jupiter, the lucky day is Thursday and the lucky number is three. Unlikely Actions: Taking it on the chin, losing one's marbles, getting away from it all, buttering someone up, washing one's dirty linen in public and losing one's shirt. If you fall in love at first sight, you're likely to be one who believes in horoscopes, according to two Toronto university psychologists.

Handwriting Tip: Capital letters that are written very small, disclose a simplicity of taste and a great deal of modesty. Item for a Lull-in-Conversation: "Scientists say that people are usually less efficient in fog than in fair weather." Those Laws: Couples in Abiquaque must not neck during court proceedings.

ANTHONY QUINN was telling friends at Caesars Palace how he keeps in condition. "I keep an old suit handy. The day that suit is tight on me, I start to exercise." Overworked Expression: "You've gotta be kidding." Famous Last Words: "I can promise you one thing - I'll never interfere in our children's lives once they get married." There's a new restaurant-nightclub in New York called "Applause" where the waitresses are all actresses, singers or models. It's a great spot for girl-watchers! Bantam has paperback of four major new films. (See the movie - now read the book!) Dream interpreters say if you dream of someone with a smiling face, it signifies pleasant new friends and financial gains. Beauty Hint: To slim a too-round or fat face, use dark blusher or darker foundation beneath cheekbones and on temples.

KITCHEN-SNOOPING: Did you ever try garnishing your soup with salted popcorn? It's a tasty improvement (Mrs. B's kitchen). Chill and wash fresh fruit or vegetables by putting them in a colander in the sink filled with cold water. Let stand awhile (NY's Stage Deli). Cabbage always has a better taste when several slices of apple are added to the cooking pot (Stratton's, Forest Hills).

SMATTERING OF SIGNS: The Cancer type will go to great lengths to protect, defend and provide for his home and family. The typical Arian is geared to go after whatever he wants, no matter how rough the going may get. Pisces people take a lot out of themselves emotionally by trying to please everyone.

COVERT — The Van Buren Democratic committee will meet here Wednesday, Dec. 17, at 8 p.m. in the Van Buren United Civic center on East Lake street. Leah Beunison, committee chairman, said the group will discuss a 1976 membership drive and an affirmative action program.

Russian Attacks UN Resolution

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Nobel Peace Prize winner Andrei Sakharov says the U.N. General Assembly resolution classifying Zionism as a form of racism "dealt the prestige of the United Nations a hard blow. All impartial persons know that Zionism is the ideology of a national rebirth of the Jewish people... and that this ideology is not directed against any other people," the fighter for human rights in the Soviet Union said in the lecture the Peace Prize winner gives every year.

Some "Tricks" That Break Bad Habits

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. Overcoming procrastination is easy once you understand what makes it tick.
2. There are scientifically tested ways to break most bad habits.
3. If you break your child of the habit of studying while sprawled out on the floor or bed, he'll make better grades.
4. Many people are habitually plagued by trains of thought that produce anxiety. There is a True or False? The more a bad habit is repeated, the harder it is to break.

(See number 5.)

habit-breaking technique designed to stop these thoughts.

5. The more a bad habit is repeated, the harder it is to break.

ANSWERS

1. True. Professor William J. Knaus, of the Institute for Advanced Study in Rational Psychotherapy, has made an intensive study of procrastination and how to overcome it. Everybody, he points out, procrastinates at least part of the time. This is usually accompanied by feelings of guilt and hopelessness. "A sense of being overwhelmed is common to procrastinators," he finds. "They constantly see a mountain of work before them and believe that all their work is of equally high priority." Professor Knaus's studies show that anybody can break this habit simply by performing tasks just as soon as they are thought of. "The delayer should persuade himself to at least start the task for a short period of time, say five minutes. At the end of the interval he may give himself the option of stopping or continuing." Normally, it was found, the decision is to continue.

2. True. One method devised by behavior specialists is the "dissatisfaction transfer," which removes any satisfaction gained from the habit, rendering it unattractive. A Hofstra University study cites an example of a 33-year-old nail-biter whose "dissatisfier" was contributing money to an organization she strongly disliked. Result: "Nail-biting was discontinued."

3. False. There are some things which look like bad habits that aren't. In studies conducted at the University of California, the grade-point average of students working at their desks was the same as that of students who preferred studying sprawled out on their beds.

4. True. The technique is reported as follows: The subject is asked to shut his eyes and to verbalize a typical unwelcome thought sequence. Suddenly the therapist shouts, "Stop!" This is repeated several times, and attention is drawn to the fact that the thoughts actually do stop each time. The subject is then told that he can stop his thoughts by saying "Stop" subvocally. With practice, many patients reported themselves free of these thoughts within a few days.

5. False. Psychological studies have demonstrated a novel method for breaking habits, known as "the negative practice" technique. This consists of deliberate repetition of the undesirable habit. It was found, for example, that the habitual mistyping of certain words ("hte" instead of "the," etc.), or habitual errors made in piano playing, can be quickly eliminated by deliberately making the mistake several times.

A Christmas Garland of Scrumptious Gifts

This Christmas, why not renew an old tradition and make something yourself to give special friends and relatives? Here is a delicious and imaginative collection of ideas of things to make as a Christmas remembrance with a personal touch—from you.

WINTER STRAWBERRIES

- 1½ cups grated walnuts*
- 1½ cups grated coconut*
- 3 pkgs. (3-oz. size) strawberry gelatin
- 1 can (14 ozs.) sweetened condensed milk
- 1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
- ½ cup red-colored sugar
- Green spearmint leaves

1. Combine walnuts, coconut, gelatin, condensed milk and vanilla in medium bowl. Work until smoothly mixed. Form into a ball and chill for at least 1 hour.
2. Shape chilled mixture into strawberries, using 1 tablespoon of mixture for each strawberry. Chill again.
3. Roll strawberries in red sugar. Cut stems from spearmint leaves; insert stem in each strawberry. Refrigerate in airtight container until ready to serve.

Makes 45 candies

*Use electric blender or chop very fine.

VINARTERTA

(Icelandic Layer Cake With Prune Filling)

Prune Filling

- 2 lbs. dried prunes
- 3 cups water
- 1 cup sugar
- ½ cup liquid from cooked prunes
- ¼ teaspoon ground cardamom
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract

1. Combine prunes and water in 3-qt. saucepan. Heat until mixture comes to boil. Reduce heat, cover and simmer for 20 minutes, or until prunes are very soft.
2. Drain prunes; reserve ½ cup liquid. Allow to cool.
3. Remove pits and grind or chop prunes very fine.
4. Combine prunes, sugar, prune liquid, cardamom and salt in 2-qt. saucepan. Stirring constantly, cook uncovered for 10 minutes, until mixture has consistency of thick jam.
5. Stir in lemon juice and vanilla. Allow to cool.

Makes 1 qt.

Cake Layers

- 1 cup butter or margarine
- 1½ cups sugar
- 2 large eggs
- 2 teaspoons pure vanilla extract
- 4 cups unsifted all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder

- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ cup light cream or milk
- Prune filling (see recipe above)
- Confectioners' Icing
- Candied cherries and mixed fruits, nuts (optional)

1. Preheat oven to 350°F. Grease 2 (9-inch) cake pans. Line each with round of waxed paper.
2. In large bowl, with electric mixer, beat butter until creamy. Gradually add sugar; beat hard until mixture becomes light.
3. Beat in eggs one at a time. Add vanilla.
4. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Blend into creamed mixture alternately with light cream.
5. Form dough into smooth ball. Divide evenly into 8 parts.
6. Press a portion of dough into bottom of each pan in a thin, even layer.
7. Bake for 10 to 12 minutes, or until edges are lightly browned. Allow to cool, then turn onto wire racks to cool completely.

8. Repeat process until 8 layers are baked.
9. Spread 7 of the layers with about ½ cup prune filling. Stack layers together. Top with remaining layer.
10. Cover cake and let stand 24 hours. (This makes cake easier to cut.)
11. Spread top of cake with icing (see recipe below) or confectioners' sugar. Decorate with candied cherries, nuts and bits of candied fruit if desired.

Makes 12 to 16 servings

Confectioners' Icing

- 1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar
- 3½ teaspoons light cream or milk
- ¼ teaspoon pure vanilla extract

Combine confectioners' sugar, light cream and vanilla until smooth to make thin glaze frosting. Spread on top layer of Vinarterta.

Makes 1 cup

South Haven Twp. Projects Worth $79,200

SOUTH HAVEN — Ten permits for projects costing an estimated $79,200 were issued by South Haven township during November, according to James Schnake building inspector.

The largest permit was issued to the Church of Christ, M-43, for a $25,000 sanctuary and garage.

Other permits were issued to Blue-J-Inc., CR-380, addition to house, $3,500; Delores Stultz, Syndicate Park, shed, $200; Henry Hinkle, 74th street, trailer, $2,500; John McKane, 18th avenue, barn, $2,500; Ervin Volsard, Blue Star Memorial highway, addition, $1,500; S & S Construction, CR-380, new home, $23,500; Ethel Langston, M-140, trailer, $4,000; Carol Richards, CR-384, trailer, $4,500; and Hardings Market, M-140, build entrance, $10,000.

Here's the Answer

Q. — My father is scornful of most of the modern adhesives. He says there is nothing that works as well as the old-fashioned animal glues. Is he right?

A. — Animal glues are probably the oldest types of wood glues. They are still used widely and most can be applied either hot or cold. They have great strength, but are not as moisture resistant as most of the modern adhesives.

Although many adhesives are advertised as all-purpose products, experience with them shows that each is better for a certain purpose, although it must be admitted that some of the new, fairly expensive adhesives come fairly close to having all-purpose characteristics.

As adhesive manufacturers insist, failures with glues and other binding agents occur mostly because they are not used exactly according to the directions.

The best advice that can be given to anyone purchasing an adhesive for a particular purpose is to read the label before buying. Not only should you pay attention to its specific uses, you should heed the instructions as to the manner of use.

Some adhesives are troublesome to prepare and apply, while others require a long time to set and cure.

Select an adhesive which fits your intended time and patience. And be especially careful that, if an adhesive is flammable, volatile or toxic, you are prepared to take the necessary precautions.

Q. — We have a U-shape kitchen which we plan to have remodeled. My wife wants to have an "island" center. Is this practical?

A. — An island in a kitchen adds extra counter and storage space. There should be a fairly large kitchen area, not so that it won't restrict traffic. If your wife handles the cooking chores, why not give her what she wants?

Q. — I took some varnish off an old piece of furniture some years ago and did a good job, using a scraper after the varnish remover had softened the finish. This time, I intend to do the same thing, but the furniture had some carvings on it, and I am sure the scraper will damage them. How do I handle it?

A. — Use a small, old but clean toothbrush. As soon as the old finish starts to wrinkle, rub it with the toothbrush, working very carefully. You may have to repeat the process to get off all the finish, depending on how many coats of varnish there are.

A Home With Planned-In Economy

By AUGUSTUS SUGLIA, Architect

HOUSE DESIGN 5050: Economy's designed into this two-story home. Plumbing (two upstairs baths, main floor lavatory) is stacked; family room and den, which can be a fourth bedroom, are built on a concrete slab. Maximum use is made of space by combining kitchen with dinette, living room with dining area. Note covered porch behind garage. Upper level provides three bedrooms, each with a corner location.

IMPROVEMENT PLAN: A doubly useful two-car garage has a loft that can be utilized for two (10' x 14') rooms, each cross-ventilated by two windows. Center stair at rear leads to this upper area. Exterior has simple lines to blend with most homes. Garage is 24' wide; 23' 10" deep; 18' 9" high.

Remodeling Tops Construction List For St. Joseph

Permits totaling $10,983 have been issued during the past three weeks by Carl L. Conklin, director of building and inspections for the City of St. Joseph.

Fred Williams, Watervliet, received a $200 permit to move a single car garage at 606 Wayne, owned by Alice Brandt, out of the city. He was also granted a permit to wreck a two-story single family dwelling at 3223 Lake Shore drive, owned by Henry Blitner.

A $4,000 permit went to Robert Rhodes, 1341 Harrison avenue, for exterior and interior remodeling. Roger Brown, 628 Vine street, was issued a $100 permit to install new flooring in kitchen.

Two permits went to Wilbur Wolske, to repair fire damage at 821 Wolcott avenue, owned by Uno Honka, $600, and to replace a window at 1201 Mohawk, owned by Marie Beckman, $200.

Jack Mix, 1023 Lake Boulevard, was issued an $80 permit to remove part of a porch roof.

King & Smith Roofing company, Benton Harbor, received a $580 permit to repair wind damage to a roof at 3001 Lake Shore drive, owned by Ben Teitel.

John Dziekanowski, Buchanan, was issued a permit for $190 to repair a garage roof at 1720 Lakeview, owned by Clarence Hoffer.

A permit with an estimated cost of $750 went to All Season Improvement company, Berrien Springs, to install new siding on a garage at 907 Napier, owned by Walter Nimtz. Dan Jennings, Coloma, was granted a permit, estimated cost of $433, to enclose a porch at 828 Lewis, owned by Roland Yeske. A $300 permit to repair a back porch and install parking pad went to Leroy L. Baugher, 821 Michigan avenue.

Haak Concrete Construction received a $965 permit to replace a drive at 2821 Pixley, owned by Henry Luhnig, and a $185 permit to repair a private sidewalk at 2715 Lakeview avenue, owned by Mrs. A.J. Glaess.

Joseph Lodyga, 1 Ridgeway, received a permit for structural repairs as per inspection notice, $200.

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. (AP) — Here's a trivia question for the family handyman: within 500, how many nails would you venture to guess are in the roof over your head?

According to the Home Institute of Certain-teed Products Corp., you should have guessed the astonishingly high figure of 7,200 to be correct.

"FEATHERING" NEW YORK (AP) — "Feathering" is a term usually meant to describe how one surface can be sanded to blend with another.

How Many Roof Nails?

It's Possible To Add Fireplace

By VIVIAN BROWN AP News Service Writer

You don't need to tear out a wall to acquire a fireplace. Many free-standing fireplaces can be installed easily by do-it-yourselfers and they are usually less expensive than the built-in kind. In addition, they are available in a full range of decorative colors.

Any size room can be accommodated, whereas a built-in fireplace may run into limitations because of structural problems.

For small rooms, there are fireplaces designed to be used in a corner — one occupies only 38 inches. Cozy lodge-type fireplaces go from floor through ceiling or may be suspended from chains. Some fireplaces are hung from walls; others can be erected so they serve two rooms.

In choosing a fireplace you must decide where you want it to go before you begin to shop for one. If it is to be put in a big room you might want one of the round lounge models that are built into drum bases that provide surfaces for accessories. The fire is contained within the circular screen mesh.

Hanging fireplaces hug the wall for another kind of look. A glass-enclosed, cube-type needs a 30-inch clearance with a combustible wall or a 6-inch clearance with a brick wall.

So-called Franklin stoves (few resemble the original) may provide the warmth and beauty of a fireplace as well as cooking conveniences. One manufacturer advertises a Franklin design with a swing-out barbecue grill. A handsome Franklin-type stove of solid cast iron has handcrafted parts, radiates good heat and can be used for cooking.

A good fireplace for a family room might be one that can be placed within a divider to serve two areas.

For most people a fireplace provides an aura of romance, coziness, relaxation. There really isn't enough heat thrown from some fireplaces to make a great difference in saving energy, although many newer units have been designed for greater efficiency in radiating heat, says the Fireplace Institute, which represents 55 manufacturers.

Fireplaces are generally appreciated for atmospheric effects — people feel warmer and happier when they are in a room with one. And some people are mesmerized by the sight of fire as god worshippers were in ancient times.

As Benjamin Franklin observed in his booklet, "An Account of the New Invented Pennsylvania Fireplaces," which has been reprinted for the Bicentennial by the Fireplace Institute, the English "... love the sight of a fire," and would not really accept a heating unit that merely warmed a room. It may also be important to feel the warmth and even to hear the crackle of logs.

New homes usually have fireplaces because the demand is so great, but a house may lack a fireplace though it is suitable in every other respect. Today it is easier to solve that problem either with a standing unit that may require nothing more than a flue through the roof or with a prefabricated one.

The prefab built-in is a big assist to the do-it-yourselfer. Some are engineered with everything from a factor-built hearth to chimney components. One can vary the installation to suit one's tastes, adding brick work, stone facing or whatever, but expensive masonry work will not be necessary. Some systems may be set on the existing floor requiring no footings or special supports, and may be used adjacent to wood beams, joists or wall materials.

One of the most innovative of the new factory built-in fireplaces uses a triple wall flue and blowers to bring air from the attic or from outside the attic into the room.

A roof opening is cut, flashing is installed and then a prefabricated chimney of simulated brick can be put up.

One bit of decorating advice for those using free-standing fireplaces: if the wall in the background is faced with a building material — the material should be carried up to the ceiling to avoid the chopped-off look.

BAKLAVA
(A Traditional Greek Pastry)

- 4 cups walnuts, finely chopped or ground
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon ground nutmeg
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
- 1 lb. filo pastry sheets*
- 1 cup butter, melted
- Honey Syrup

1. Preheat oven to 325°F. Lightly grease a 9 x 13 x 2-inch pan.
2. Mix ground walnuts with sugar, spices and lemon rind in medium bowl.
3. Cut filo sheets to fit pan. Keep filo sheets moist and flexible by covering with damp cloth.
4. Brush 12 filo sheets lightly with melted butter and place in bottom of pan.
5. Spread 1 cup of walnut mixture over top

- sheet. Cover with 4 sheets of filo after brushing each with butter. Then repeat layers.
6. Make top layer with 8 sheets of filo after brushing each with remaining butter.
7. With small, sharp knife, cut lengthwise through first layer to make strips 1 1/2 inches wide. Then make diagonal cuts 2 inches apart in top layer to form diamonds.
8. Bake on rack above center of oven for 1 hour, until well browned.
9. Remove from oven and cut through the first cuts, cutting to the bottom of pan.
10. Spread top with cold Honey Syrup (see recipe below). Let stand until completely cold before removing from pan. Makes 2 dozen slices

*Editor's Note: Filo sheets can be found in refrigerated or freezer section of supermarket or specialty food store.

Honey Syrup

- 1 cup honey
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup water
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice

1. Combine honey, sugar and water in small saucepan. Heat, stirring, until sugar dissolves.
2. Remove from heat and stir in lemon juice. Cool thoroughly before using. Makes 1 1/2 cups

QUICK LIVER PATE

- 1 pkg. (8 ozs.) cream cheese, room temperature
- 1 pkg. (8 ozs.) liverwurst sausage, chopped
- 2 tablespoons dry sherry
- 1 teaspoon mustard, preferably Dijon
- 1 tablespoon parsley, finely chopped
- 1/4 teaspoon basil leaves, finely crumbled
- Paraffin

1. In large bowl, with electric mixer, blend cream cheese with liverwurst until smooth.
2. Add sherry, mustard, parsley and basil. Beat until very smooth.
3. Pack into attractive crock. Seal surface with melted paraffin. Allow to cool, then refrigerate. Makes 2 cups

NUT 'N' CANDY CHRISTMAS WREATH

- Cellophane or plastic film
- 2 lbs. mixed nuts, unshelled (walnuts, almonds, peanuts, Brazil nuts, etc.)
- 1 lb. gumdrops
- 1 roll wire (No. 28)
- Heavy cardboard, cut in 9-inch diameter circle
- 1 roll ribbon

1. Cut squares of cellophane about 2 inches larger than nut or gumdrop.
2. Wrap each tightly with cellophane, twisting gathered edges into "tail." Fasten each tail with a 6-inch length of wire. Continue until all are wrapped.
3. Form nut clusters and candy clusters by twisting wire stems of 5 or 6 wrapped nuts or candies together.
4. Start wreath by fastening a 20-inch length of wire to candy or nut cluster. Stick wire through cardboard and wrap it around cardboard to fasten securely. Wire clusters of nuts and candies in this way to form wreath. Wire clusters randomly, or create your own special pattern.
5. Trim with ribbon bow. Attach long ribbon for hanging wreath. Or to use as a centerpiece, place large candle (about 12 inches high, 3 inches wide) in center of wreath. Makes 1 wreath

USES EXACT SAME PRINCIPLE AS UNITS ADVERTISED ON T.V. FOR $7.95 AND $9.95

AT LAST—the ingenious easy new physical fitness system, to help you: lose inches and pounds, improve the shape of your body, increase your sex appeal and feel and look years younger—and at the lowest price offered in the United States.

An Easy, Proven System That Takes Just Minutes A Day

It's easy—because you exercise while you lie on your back and do just 3 basic routines. And yet you exercise and tone every muscle in your arms, legs, abdomen, waist, back, neck and tummy—all the important, problem spots that you want to help keep trim, firm and beautiful.

We recommend you start at a moderate 2 to 3 minutes a day. You'll soon find that you want to increase this to 4, 5 and up to 15 minutes at a time. But, and this is important, you do it at your own pace and you find it easier and easier to exercise for longer periods. The rhythmic movements you use are so simple that any child of 5 can master them in one minute, because all you do is lift and bend your arms and legs and the "Figure Trimmer" won't let you make a mistake. A simple, fully illustrated instruction booklet for the basic exercises is included.

Use "The Figure Trimmer" Anywhere

Yes, use it in your bedroom, living room, office, even while you're away from home (it's so compact, it folds to fit right in a handbag or attache case and weighs only a mere 10 ounces). You never have to miss your regular exercise... use it anywhere you can lie down. Simply attach to bedpost, door-knob, etc., and it's ready to use.

To Help Weight Loss...

We recommend a moderate and sensible temporary 15 to 20% reduction in your normal food intake (while still eating exactly the same kinds of delicious foods you normally eat and like). We don't send you any fad or crash diet, because your own doctor will tell you that these are harmful. We suggest you continue this moderation until you reach desired weight loss. After that, just eat normally and continue exercises to feel and look better and younger.

Important Note:

Dear Reader,

Don't be confused: The competitive exerciser models you've seen on T.V. and in magazines for $7.95 and $9.95 work on exactly the same principal and in the same way as ours. By a special purchase from a manufacturer, we've been able to break the price wide open and offer "The Figure Trimmer" at this amazing low price!

Ironclad Guarantee

Our guarantee is simple. You must within 14 days see and feel your body toned up and feeling great—and look and feel years younger, or simply return unit for a prompt and complete refund. Mail order coupon today; you'll be glad you did.

They'll Do It Every Time

Airline To Get Millions A Day

WASHINGTON (AP) — An industry strike insurance plan will bring United Airlines between $2 million and $3 million a day from its competitors as long as the airline remains strikebound. But workers eligible for $40 a week strike benefits will be cut off Jan. 1, their union said.

United, the nation's largest domestic air carrier, has canceled all flights until Dec. 24 due to the walkout last weekend by 16,500 machinists.

Bake a holiday gift.

And bring back the feeling of an old-fashioned Christmas.

Give these delicious, home-baked Christmas cookies to someone special. But don't give away the secret ingredient, Karo Syrup. It's Karo that makes them so rich in good old-fashioned flavor, so crisp and tender. Karo makes cookies brown up smooth and even. Makes the different flavors come through richer, truer, fresher-tasting. No wonder these Karo Christmas Cookies bring back warm memories of a real old-fashioned Christmas.

Oil, Gas Output To Rise

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Oil and natural gas production in Michigan this year is expected to top a 1959 record by one million barrels, say state Department of Natural Resources geologists.

They expect the record to topple this week, and total production by year's end to reach 24.5 million barrels.

Except in 1959, when about 23.5 barrels came out of Michigan wells, production has never topped 20 million barrels. Last year 18 million barrels were produced, they say.

A barrel holds about 42 gallons.

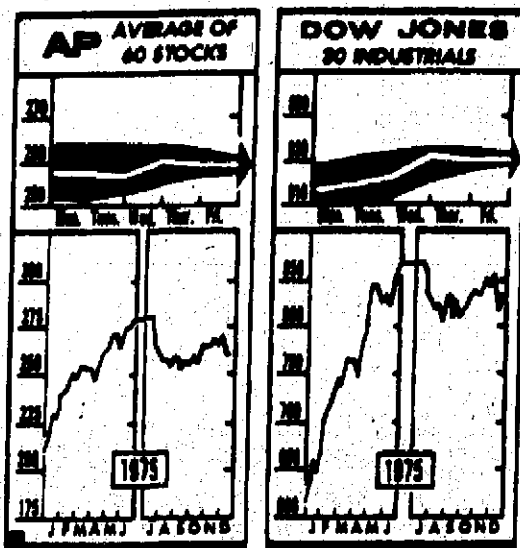

James S. Lorenz, DNR production specialist, said the "oil boom" will value about $277 million for 1975, almost twice last year's value of $190 million.

Geologists say 60 per cent of 1975's boom production came from fields that are 425 million years old. Discovered in 1960, the fields run from Ludington on the state's west coast northeast to Gaylord at depths up to 5,000 feet in southeastern Michigan.

The fields once were reefs in ancient seas, the geologists said.

Michigan now produces 10 per cent of the nation's oil and natural gas, up from only one-half of 1 per cent in 1962, they noted.

Michigan's natural gas is used by state utility companies, and most of the oil also is refined here.

ON THE RISE: The Dow Jones industrial average closed at 832.81 Friday, up 14.01 from the week prior. The Associated Press average closed at 260.9, marking an increase of 1.9 over the same period. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

INVESTORS' GUIDE

Investments Have Many Ingredients

By SAM SHULSKY

Q. You often advise long-term investment in stocks with good earnings records. But I have market losses in stocks which are now earning two and three times what they earned when I first bought them. So —?

A. So — you are seizing on only one investment ingredient as the be-all and end-all of investing. And there is no such single factor — whether it is earnings, dividends, yield, or anything else.

The earning power of a stock is of great importance, but even more so is the marketplace's evaluation of these earnings — are they "solid"? Is there a strong likelihood they will continue to improve? Is the market price of the stock based on actual current financial strength, or on hopes for "glamour," which may or may not materialize.

Every period of market enthusiasm has still-to-be proven glamour stocks selling at 50 to 75 times earnings (when there were any earnings at all) while A.T.&T. and General Motors were selling for 8 and 10 times earnings. So, while earnings are important, the market's evaluation of those earnings are even more important in arriving at the stock's market price.

A detailed study of this evaluation — really the price earnings multiple — over the last 40 years has been made by David Upshaw, technical market analyst for the Stock Exchange firm of Drexel Burnham & Co. He found that fluctuations in this price earnings multiple (a stock selling at 30 and earning $6 per share in the last 12-month period is said to sell at a multiple of five times earnings) contributed more to stock price movements than did earnings changes. This factor Mr. Upshaw calls the "enthusiasm index."

Using the earnings per share of Standard & Poor's 425-stock index and the industrial stock price index, Mr. Upshaw found that in the 156 quarters from the second quarter of 1930 through the first quarter of 1975, stock prices rose in only 93 quarters even though earnings per share rose in 102 quarters, and stock prices fell in 57 quarters even though earnings declined in only 42 quarters.

He found also that price earnings multiples often rise on a quarterly basis during a period when earnings are falling, so that it is possible to observe rather high multiples during the lull of economic cycles.

"The reason for this apparent contradiction," he explains, "is that stock price changes are attributable to fluctuations in two components — actual and expected changes in company earnings, which is the essence of fundamental research, and the other component, the change in the multiple or the constant revaluation of the price investors are willing to pay for earnings.

"These multiples are influenced by variety of factors, including the rate of change of the money market, the rate of inflation and the level of interest rates. Confidence in the future also plays a role in determination of multiples."

I realize that I am probably adding to the average investor's already high level of confusion about what makes the stock market tick. But I think there can be a positive fallout if I can only get across the idea once again that there are no simple answers to investment success and that dependence upon any one formula — which so many "pop" art financial books are prone to suggest — is an oversimplification which can result in losses.

Juveniles Accused Of Break-Ins

COLOMA — Five juvenile boys from Coloma township were taken into custody last night by township police in connection with two house break-ins last month.

Officer Thomas LaVanway said all five are accused of entering the summer residence of Noel Kintson, 5370 Lakewood Point, on two occasions between Nov. 15 and Nov. 29. LaVanway said items reported taken included two rifles, an AM-FM radio, $25 in dimes and a .25 caliber pistol.

He said only a .32 caliber rifle valued at $150 has been recovered.

The youths were petitioned into probate court on charges of breaking and entering and released to the custody of their parents. Arrested were two 15-year-olds, two 14-year-olds and a 13-year-old.

Hearings Asked On Drug Charges

Two men accused of delivery of marijuana were among seven people to demand preliminary hearings Friday in Berrien Fifth District court. Eighteen others were sentenced. Demanding examinations were:

David P. Hamstreet, 20, of Grand Rapids, and John C. Potts, 23, of Traverse City, charged with delivery of marijuana Oct. 20 in Benton township. Personal recognition bonds of $1,000 each were granted. Potts was also sentenced to three days in jail and fine and costs of $200 for driving while license suspended.

David Hall, 30, of 602 Payne, Benton Harbor, on a charge of larceny of over $100 in cash Nov. 23 at the Miller hotel, Benton Harbor. He put up $1,500 bail and was freed.

Jack D. Paugh, 18, of 1588 Shawnee road, Baroda, accused of assault with a butcher knife against Mary Martin in Baroda township Dec. 10. He did not post $3,000 bond.

James R. Mathieu, 18, of 1901 North Valley View drive, St. Joseph township, charged with larceny of a watch, suitcase and tape player July 23 at the Snowflake motel, St. Joseph township. He was also sentenced to 90 days in jail for filing a false report of an auto accident with police Aug. 1 in Benton township.

Robert Simmons, 33, of 321 Brunson, Benton Harbor, on a charge of assault with intent to commit great bodily harm, less than murder, against Maurice Frisco Dec. 5 in Benton Harbor. He was freed on $2,500 personal recognition bond.

Mrs. Mary Fitzer-Dumke, 24, of 924 Lake, St. Joseph, facing two charges of receiving and concealing stolen property valued over $100—all of which allegedly belongs to the St. Joseph public schools—Dec. 11 at her residence. Count I charges possession of tools and count II charges possession of three typewriters. Two personal recognition bonds were granted.

Sentenced were: John H. Lewis, 33, of 149 Ridge road, Berrien Springs, 180 days in jail for conspiracy to commit petty larceny Nov. 13; 90 days in jail for receiving stolen property under $100 Oct. 19; and 90 days in jail for each of three charges of petty larceny. All charges involve different incidents. Because District court sentences are concurrent, he will be jailed for the length of the longest sentence: 180 days.

Percy Lee Smith, 34, of 100 North Winans, Benton Harbor, fine and costs of $60 and two years probation for simple assault against Rose Smith at his residence Oct. 25.

Donald Thomas, 53, of 622 Michigan, St. Joseph, $50 and six months probation for failure to rehabilitate rental property at 1018 and 1020 Market street and 611 Hoyt, St. Joseph.

Joseph A. Riley, 28, of Muskegon, three days in jail and $60 or 15 days in jail total for driving while license suspended Dec. 12 in Sodus township.

Larry D. Hamilton, 19, of 463 Paw Paw, Benton Harbor, $75 and one year probation for possession of marijuana Nov. 6 in Benton Harbor.

Sentenced for the following violations were:

Disorderly person — Jerry D. Clemens, 18, of Riverside, $110 for creating a disturbance; Gus Gibson Jr., 25, of 808 Vineyard, Benton Harbor, $250 or 10 days in jail for failing to support his wife and child.

Receiving and concealing stolen property under $100 — David W. Rippl, 19, of 789 Sheridan, St. Joseph, 90 days in jail, two years probation and restitution of $675; Larry Porter, 22, of 115 Oden, Benton Harbor, 90 days in jail; Terry O. Kyles, 20, of 675 East Vineyard, Benton Harbor, 90 days in jail.

Petty larceny — Ronald L. Coleman, 21, of 286 Pleasant, St. Joseph, and Duane A. Poole, 17, of 1825 Broadway, Benton Harbor, $120 each.

Driving while intoxicated — Donald D. Webb, 19, of Maullin road, New Buffalo, $150 or 30 days in jail; Edwin C. Musick, 49, of Route 2, Benton Harbor, $500 and two years probation for second offense.

Ford SBA Choice Is Criticized

CHICAGO (AP) — Mitchell Kobelinski, President Ford's nominee to head the Small Business Administration, was an officer of a bank that became involved in improper bank transactions, the Better Government Association says.

J. Terrence Brunner, executive director of the association, a privately financed local investigative agency, charged Thursday that "Mr. Kobelinski was an officer in a bank that engaged in highly improper transactions with public officials."

"Try My Festive Salad This Christmas!"

Perry Como:

A Celebrity Cooks

By Perry Como

In Conversation with Helen Dorsey

I must tell you a very funny story! I never knew about stuffing a turkey until I got married. My mother didn't stuff turkey. She quartered the bird, then she put it in a pan with potatoes, put in some butter and baked it. The first time my wife, Roselle, came over for Christmas dinner, I told her, "We're going to have turkey and all the trimmings!" She looked at that cut-up bird lying on the table and asked, "Where's the turkey?"

My mother was Italian, of course, and she cooked everything so differently from the way we do here! Her spaghetti even tasted different. She used a lot of fresh ingredients they don't use today. My mother made home-made tomato purée from tomatoes my father grew in the garden. And her parsley was always from the garden—none of this dried stuff you find now.

Roselle is an excellent cook. We have the traditional dinner on Christmas: turkey, sweet potatoes, salads, cranberries and pies (fresh key lime pie, pumpkin chiffon). With grandchildren you've got to have a turkey. I always starve for about a week ahead. I put on weight so easily!

CHRISTMAS RIBBON SALAD

Layer One

- 1 pkg. (3 ozs.) lime-flavored gelatin
- 1 cup hot water
- ¾ cup ginger ale
- 2 tablespoons fresh lemon or lime juice
- 1 can (8 ozs.) crushed pineapple, drained
- 1 red apple, unpeeled and diced
- 1 cup mandarin oranges, well drained

Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Add ginger ale and juice. Pour into 4-qt. glass baking dish or mold. Chill until slightly thickened. Stir in remaining ingredients. Cover, chill until almost firm.

Layer Two

- 1 pkg. (3 ozs.) lime-flavored gelatin
- ½ cup boiling water
- 1 cup chopped walnuts
- 2 cups cottage cheese (cream-style)
- 2 tablespoons mayonnaise
- 1 cup heavy cream, whipped

Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Let cool. Chill in refrigerator until thickened. Stir in remaining ingredients. Pour over first layer and chill until almost firm.

Layer Three

- 1 pkg. (3 ozs.) lime-flavored gelatin
- 1 cup hot water
- ¾ cup ginger ale
- 2 tablespoons fresh lemon or lime juice
- 1 red apple unpeeled and diced
- 1 cup mandarin oranges, well drained
- ½ ripe California avocado, sliced

Proceed as directed in Layer One. Wait until gelatin has thickened before adding apple and oranges. Pour over top two layers. Chill until very firm. Unmold. Garnish with avocado slices and lettuce. Lovely for a Christmas buffet!

Serves 8 to 10

Note: Try raspberry or cherry gelatin with red fruits (cherries, raspberries, cranberries) for one of the layers.

SHOWN ¾ ACTUAL

FROM NEW ZEALAND'S FAMOUS HORTICULTURE RESEARCH GROWERS COMES AMAZING NEWS! WELLINGTON'S RARE-EXOTIC-ASTONISHING TREE TOMATO is now available in the U.S.A.!

And in a newly-developed super-hybrid variety that harvests up to 40 lbs. (hundreds of tomatoes) a year—thousands up to 10 years—FROM ONE TOMATO TREE!

An astonishing South American tomato fruiting tree that gives stunning blossoms for months, blooms yearly even in the North, grows as a tree outdoors and with tropic ease indoors, now is perfected and made available by New Zealand plant scientists, to you in the U.S.A.

South America's luscious tree tomato was discovered by Brazilian Indians; brought to richest, fullest flavor and lushness by Portuguese missionaries; and hybridized to a super-resistant super-easy-to-grow variety.

Who Put All Those Tomatoes In That Itty Bitty Seed

Imagine one seed does produce over 400 lbs. of tomatoes in one lifetime.

And New Zealand's super Tree Tomato is so easy to raise that 80% of normally-planted seeds take. So easy it will grow inside anyplace a philodendron will grow! So easy that outside in actual tests seeds thrown at random in plowed fields, it grew naturally with no human care.

Each seedling grows to 3 or 4 ft. indoors or up to 8 ft. outdoors or you can stop the growth of the tree at any height you wish between 3 and 8 feet. It is super disease-resistant.

Imagine stunning exotic-shaped leaves up to one foot long! Imagine the constant changing show. First the lovely leaves—then a shower of delicate, fragrant flowers—and finally a beautiful array of juicy luscious tomatoes.

A Family Delight

Enjoy delicious, mouth-watering salads, freshest sauces, special jams and deserts—all winter long. See huge hanging clusters of succulent red and plump and juicy tree tomatoes in successive waves month after month.

Accept our introductory offer. Frankly we want everyone who enjoys delicious tomatoes to enjoy this super-hybrid Tree Tomato.

And we are shipping you a full season's supply of these super seeds for $1.19. But the Tree Tomato, up-to-now too rare and difficult to obtain, is in demand. It's first come, first served. Rush your order before midnight tonight as specified in coupon and receive a FREE gift special recipe booklet, yours to keep FREE even if you return seeds on our money back guarantee.

Yes, it's true!—if you join now, you may have any 10 of these records or tapes. And just look at the wide range of recorded entertainment you have to choose from—not only the best and latest from the huge Columbia catalog... but also new releases and old favorites from A&M, ABC/Dunhill, Bell, Epic, MCA, Motown, MGM, Capitol, United Artists, and many, many other labels!

To order your 10 records or tapes just mail the application in an envelope, together with your check or money order for $1.86 as payment (that's $1.00 for your first 10 selections, plus 86¢ to cover shipping and handling). In exchange, you agree to buy 8 more selections (at regular Club prices) in the coming three years... and you may cancel your membership at any time after doing so.

How the Club operates: every four weeks (13 times a year) you'll receive the Club's magazine, which describes the Selection of the Month for each musical interest...plus hundreds of alternates from every field of music. In addition, up to six times a year you may receive offers of Special Selections, usually at a discount off regular prices.

If you wish to receive the Selection of the Month or the Special Selection, you need do nothing—it will be shipped automatically.

If you prefer an alternate selection, or none at all, simply fill in the response card always provided and mail it by the date specified.

You will always have at least 10 days in which to make your decision. If you ever receive any Selection without having had at least 10 days in which to decide, you may return it at our expense, for full credit.

Your own charge account will be opened...the selections you order will be mailed and billed at regular Club prices, which currently are: 8-track tapes and cassettes, $6.98 or $7.98; reel tapes, $7.98; records, $5.98 or $6.98—plus shipping and handling. (Multiple unit sets and Double Selections may be somewhat higher.)

After completing your enrollment agreement (by buying 8 selections within 3 years), you may cancel membership at any time. If you decide to continue, you'll be eligible for our generous money-saving bonus plan. Here, indeed, is the most convenient way possible to acquire the records and tapes you want—at the greatest possible savings! Don't delay—act now!

NOTE: all applications are subject to review and Columbia House reserves the right to reject any application.

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR SHEILA MACRAE

Since you were in "The Honeymooners" (my favorite program), can you tell me what kind of a man Jackie Gleason is?—H.R., Pottstown, Pa.

● Modest, extremely intelligent, a marvelous listener who isn't a great talker. People don't realize he has the potential for being a terrific romantic actor, because he's a romantic. He never uses bad language in front of women. He's very aware, and devours books as though they're going out of style. His "King Farouk-Ralph Cramden" image is all wrong. He's rather insecure, especially around women, and behaves like a little boy or a scared child.

FOR DICK CLARK, host of "$10,000 Pyramid"

Why have you never danced on "American Bandstand" or a TV show?—C.S., Salem, Ore.

● I don't know how. I never learned. My first steps on a dance floor were the result of a gift from my neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Murray. The last time I danced was during the era of The Twist. (It was easy. Talent was not required. Just stamina.) I don't dance well enough to do it publicly or regularly. I'm afraid people will look at me and laugh and say, "With all his experience, why isn't he a better dancer?"

FOR CHARLES HIGHAM, author of "Kate"

Do you feel that Americans have an unhealthy interest in the private lives of Hollywood celebrities?—R.T., Calhoun, Ala.

● Not at all. Curiosity is a healthy attitude. The man who is not curious is a numbskull. The fascination with movie stars stems from the fact that the more you get to know them, the "curiouser" they become. The only movie stars who resent exposure are those whose careers consist solely of a powerful self-exploitation, when they don't have a healthy interest in anything but themselves.

FOR ANGIE DICKINSON, star of "Police Woman"

Give us heavyweights a break, and tell us how you keep so slim.—K.S., Fort Smith, Ark.

● Apart from the obvious—keep away from everything highly caloric—I have a marvelous tip for weight control. I brush my teeth as often as I can, because it stops me from feeling hungry, and I have no desire to eat. With me, it's not the eating that's important, it's the taste. I brush four or five times a day with my favorite toothpaste.

FOR O. J. SIMPSON, Buffalo Bills football star

Did you receive some way-out college scholarship offers before you chose Southern California?—Tom Lee, Canton, Ohio

● I sure did. One college offered to build a house for my mother. But the NCAA warned me they were going to check every detail of what I got from the school I chose. At Southern Cal, I got only the standard scholarship allowed by the NCAA—room, board, tuition and laundry. I chose it because it is a fine school with a great football tradition.

FOR JOHN WAYNE, star of "Rooster Cogburn"

What reaction do you get when you see yourself on the late shows?—J.R., Oklahoma City, Okla.

● That I should be asleep.

FOR GAIL BROWN, star of TV's "Another World"

Please settle an argument: Are you related to Karen Black, and is Brown your real name?—J.M., Boise, Idaho

● Yes, Karen and I are sisters. As for the last names, I'm Mrs. Michael Q. Brown, and Karen's first husband was Charles Black. Being Karen's sister is my first claim to fame. My other one is that I live on the site of a Revolutionary War burial ground, and my house is "haunted" by "Lucy and her soldier lover." June Havoc lived there before we did. She moved out because she didn't like living with ghosts.

FOR ROBERTA FLACK, singer

Did you get where you are through talent or tenacity?—N.S., Anderson, Ind.

● I'm sure about the tenacity part—all black women in show business are potential victims. It's tough for one hanging out there on her own. It takes enormous strength and courage. As for talent, when I was a child, I didn't go for hopscotch or jump rope—I only wanted to play the piano. Without music, I couldn't function. It's the most important thing in the world to me.

FOR MUHAMMAD ALI

Did you find it hard adjusting to show business routine when you did your special?—C.A., Provo, Utah

● No way. When I started I knew nothing about show business. Two days later, when I finished, I knew everything about it.

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

I love Freddie Prince! Since I can't have him, can you help by telling me something about his wedding? I like to live vicariously!—P.W., Amarillo, Texas.

● Freddie's travel agent knew the wedding date before the families of the bride and groom did since he made out all the airline tickets to Las Vegas from L.A. (where Prince's folks live) and from Jackson Hole, Wyo. (where Kathy's parents live). Freddie's mother, delighted that her son had given up bachelorhood, said she had always wanted a daughter. Freddie's father said, "So, you've finally stopped running around." Jack Albertson, his TV partner and a member of the small wedding party, told his nervous friend: "It's not too late. You can pretend it's a vaudeville skit and disappear." Freddie asked: "Why am I doing this thing?" The wedding took place at Caesars Palace, where Freddie made his nightclub debut. Kathy said she rarely watched Freddie on "Chico and the Man" before she met him.

Now—for the first time—an international Jet-Setter reveals the “inside” story:

How The Beautiful People Get Rid Of Both Cellulite And Ordinary Fat— Without Dieting!

Yes, the Beautiful People cannot afford to be fat!

Those stunning, sleekly-slim couples who grace the pages of the fashion magazines and society columns...who spend each new Season in New York and Cannes and Saint Moritz and Saint Tropez...who live surrounded by a horde of admirers and photographers must remain youthful and slim right up to 50...60...70!

And yet they eat lavishly, feasting on exotic cuisines as they travel the globe, but always retaining their fantastic figures.

And, if you were to ask them what they do to maintain their Beautiful People Bodies, the answer would always be the same: “I don’t do ANYTHING; I don’t diet!”

That’s right! The Beautiful People Don’t Diet! They enjoy the finest food in the world and yet the needle on the scale barely moves! How do they do it?

For the first time, Luciana Avedon (former Princess Pignatelli and now the wife of the European cosmetics executive, Burt S. Avedon) reveals the “BEAUTIFUL PEOPLE MIRACLE FORMULA” responsible for all those lusciously svelte figures on the society pages. How they NEVER go on fad diets, NEVER take dangerous amphetamines, diuretics or diet pills, and NEVER give up their favorite foods either! How they simply go right on eating the foods they like—but in a special way that keeps them always fashionably slim, without their having to jump on and off the diet merry-go-round.

To give just a few examples:

One California socialite says: “I always keep my weight fluctuation within two pounds. It’s bad for the face when you go up and down.”

Another stunning fashion leader says: “I weighed more at age 25 than I do now.” (She’s now 37!)

Another says: “Sitting down to nothing but clear soup or health food depresses me; it makes me feel like an invalid.”

And another Italian Beauty confesses: “Take away pasta and I would die!”

But yet they know how to splurge like this without incurring disaster on the scales! They get their food kicks—constantly—but their figures never show it!

They eat the finest food in the world (even the delicacies and “tempters” you’d be horrified to touch), but they do it in a way that never lets them put on more weight than they can simply “peel off” in a few days any time they decide to!

(In fact, these Beautiful People secrets of delicious figure-maintenance are so powerful that, when one young, overweight model was introduced to just one of them, she lost 22 pounds in one month and stayed at that weight from then on! And another young girl, when shown how, lost 20 “impossible” pounds in two short months, even though not a single meal demanded special preparation!)

So, From Now On, Forget About Debilitating Diets! The Beautiful People Don’t Use Them—Why Should You?

Once again, let us emphasize that the Beautiful People think dieting is a “bore.” They eat well—very well—and they are not fat! They wouldn’t think of doing without their favorite foods and the needle on the scale barely changes!

Why then shouldn’t you follow their plan and lose weight—pounds and pounds and pounds of it! The process is the same, even if you start with a 50 pound handicap. And you do it all by yourself (without “fat” doctors, or the group therapy approach of diet clubs.) And yet, (to repeat once again) you do not “sacrifice” the foods you love for a single minute!

Yes, you can still enjoy parties, restaurants, business lunches or dinners, and “super-relaxed” vacations. You can eat all the foods you usually do, and still find the pounds and inches gradually, but permanently, melting off!

Listen, As The Beautiful People Tell You How To:

Condition yourself by developing your own built-in “Fat Radar” so that the minute your weight starts to shoot up, you can shoot it down!

Take off fat while it’s still “soft”...before the body has had a chance to make it part of the muscle structure. Before it marbelizes, as in a fat steak, and becomes even harder to lose!

Make the natural diuretic power of food even MORE effective, so that accumulated tissue water drains out of your body faster and you NEVER get that bloated look!

Lose tons of weight—all in the right places—and NEVER get “scranny” looking in the face. Actually melt unwanted pounds right off your body, and still retain that “youthful” bloom in your face the Beautiful People way!

PLUS...

How to be thin as a model, and still have the energy and stamina of a truck driver!

The Beautiful People’s special “Secret Elimination Diet” that disintoxicates your system...drains out internal poisons...at exactly the same time that you are painlessly losing weight!

The Beautiful People “Easy-Diet Plan”, a permanent part of your life, so that you continue to lose weight for as long as you wish, and yet NEVER feel deprived!

How to prevent your body from automatically “adjusting” to your first massive weight loss, so that it actually prevents you from taking off even more pounds.

What to do if you are a “sandwich fiend” and don’t want to cut them out of your diet.

Why the Beautiful People make sure that they never lose more than 18 pounds at a time.

How they painlessly “retrain their nervous system so that they don’t go on eating binges during an “anxiety attack.”

The most carefully guarded Beautiful People secret: how to lose weight super-fast, purify your body, and heighten your senses to a new state of awareness at exactly the same time!

The hypnotherapy approach to weight loss!

How the Beautiful People lose weight while they are traveling.

How the Beautiful People keep their children from developing unhealthy and fattening eating habits.

What the European Beautiful People do at once when their skin looks bad, they have trouble sleeping, or they are just feeling dreadful.

Why the Beautiful People feel that American men are a “disaster...overweight, over-tobaccoed, over-alcoholized, and under-sexed.” And, what Beautiful People Males “over 30,” do to retain their very special attractiveness.

The Beautiful People “cure” for sporadic over-indulgence. In other words, how to eat your cake, and have a knock-out figure too!

Yes, The Beautiful People Have Been Looking Fabulous For Years THIS Way. Now You’ll Learn How, WITHOUT RISKING A PENNY!

You are just as capable of keeping younger, prettier, slimmer and more attractive as any of the Beautiful People you’ll read about in this book. And once you know their “secrets”, you’ll be well on your way to joining the ranks of all the Beautiful People all over the world, who realize that being beautiful also means being slender. Return the No-Risk Coupon today, and BE A BEAUTIFUL PERSON TOMORROW!

The exquisite authoress: Luciana Avedon, the former Princess Pignatelli.

SPECIAL ADDED BONUS:

How The Beautiful People “Smooth Away” Ugly Cellulite, The EASY Way!

Yes, while these Beautiful People are incredibly slim and supple at all ages—actually glowing with good health—they have also learned how to FREE themselves of ugly and distorting CELLULITE! (Cellulite, as you may know, is “orange peel fat”—the hard lumps of hideous fat that stick to the back of the thighs, knees, arms, buttocks and back. The same ripply fat pockets that cause desperation and unhappiness in thousands of American women who cannot walk down a beach, or up to a husband or lover, without feeling unattractive or just plain ugly!)

This is not ordinary fat, by any means. And it can’t be gotten rid of by ordinary means. Instead, it’s bumpy, hard lumps of toxic material—really a gel-like substance—that become trapped in bubbly, immovable pockets just beneath the skin. It’s found in pencil-slim models and housewives alike. In fact, it’s reputed to disfigure almost 90% of the women in the world! But not the Beautiful People! Why?

BECAUSE OF THESE TWO SIMPLE “CELLULITE CHASERS” THAT YOU CAN USE YOURSELF RIGHT IN YOUR OWN HOME, STARTING IN JUST A FEW MINUTES A DAY!

No, you don’t need fancy doctors, or expensive health spas to be able to bid farewell to these unsightly globules. You can achieve spectacular results simply by following these two simple steps beginning on Page 26:

First, attack the cellulite you’re carrying around right now through this special self-massage treatment designed to break it up and quickly “wash” this figure-distorting mess right out of your body!

Second, follow the unique Anti-Cellulite-Food Program that will actually help your natural circulatory system to rid your body of annoying substances BEFORE they can build up and become IMMOVABLE CHUNKS OF FAT!

Both these Cellulite Fighters are yours, as just one section of this great Beautiful People Over-All Body Beauty Plan...yours to read from cover to cover, entirely at our risk!

Conservatives Take Australia By A Landslide

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Former Labor Prime Minister Gough Whitlam today conceded Australia's national elections today, as returns indicated a landslide victory for Malcolm Fraser's conservative coalition.

Politicians of both parties said Fraser's Liberal party could gain up to a 50-seat majority in the House of Representatives.

Representatives. Labor held a three-seat majority in the last Parliament.

The Australian Broadcasting Commission predicted with 40 per cent of the vote counted that the Liberal-National Country party coalition won 81 seats in the House and the Labor party 36. They reported 10 seats undecided.

Fraser, 45, has been caretaker prime minister since Whitlam was fired a month ago. Conservatives ousted a Labor government in New Zealand on Nov. 29 as the National party registered that country's sharpest political swing in 40 years.

In Sydney, the president of the Australian Labor party, Bob Hawke, said his party suffered "a stunning defeat."

"I think it will be a disaster for government in this country that the majority of Mr. Fraser will be so large," he said.

Counting for the Senate was much slower but early returns indicated an anti-Labor trend there as well.

"We have lost a very great number of seats," Whitlam said in Canberra. "The Liberal party has gained a great number of seats. Let me congratulate them on their success."

But Fraser told reporters in Melbourne: "I don't see this as a victory for the Liberal party. It is a win for Australia."

He said the Conservative coalition parties won because of their policies "to move Australia forward."

Hughes Takes Over As Presiding Judge

Berrien Circuit Judge Chester J. Byrns announced he is stepping down after five consecutive years as presiding judge and Judge Julian E. Hughes will become the new presiding judge.

The appointment is effective immediately, Byrns noted. Hughes, 53, begins his eighth year on the circuit court bench in 1976, and was previously a probate court judge for eight years.

Byrns, who served the longest continuous term as presiding judge since Berrien county became a multi-judge circuit in 1954, said he is stepping down "because it's time for a change and new approaches." Byrns begins his 10th year as a circuit judge next year.

Hughes said "I hope to maintain the high caliber and continue the fine work Judge Byrns has done during his tenure as presiding judge." He added that he felt the prime responsibility of the presiding judge was "to keep the court operating in an efficient manner."

Byrns cited Hughes' "outstanding administrative ability," and Judge William S. White, the other Berrien circuit judge, commented: "Judge Byrns has been a tremendous presiding judge and Judge Hughes will do equally as well."

Hughes received his law degree from the University of Michigan law school in 1949, and was in private practice in the Twin Cities area before being elected to the probate bench in 1956. He was elected circuit judge in 1968, and at one time served as presiding judge for probate courts of Michigan.

He and his wife, Evelyn, have four children, and reside at 176 Higman Park, Benton township. "I appreciate all the help and assistance from court personnel and others who work with the court," Byrns said, adding: "I couldn't have held the job without Judges White and Hughes pulling more than their fair share of the load."

BH Executive Newhouse Dies

Walter F. Newhouse, former president of the defunct Benton Harbor Saranac company, was dead on arrival this morning at Benton Harbor Memorial hospital. He was 83.

Newhouse was president of the firm from February, 1972 until its sale to St. John & Co., a Chicago-based Illinois corporation, in April, 1973.

The Chicago firm operated Saranac until June 22, 1973, when operations were ended. At that time, the firm employed 30 shop workers and 15 white collar workers.

For most of his 78 years, Saranac was one of the Twin Cities' more prosperous manufacturing firms, employing up to 175 people. It was founded in 1895 in St. Joseph.

Mr. Newhouse, who resided at 2180 Ogden avenue, Benton Harbor, was born Jan. 28, 1892, in Menasha, Wis., coming to

Buchanan Holdup Produces 3rd Arrest

By NICK SMITH
Staff Writer

The third and final suspect sought in connection with the Nov. 3 armed robbery of a Buchanan jewelry store was arraigned yesterday in Berrien Fifth District court on charges of armed robbery.

Demanding examination on three counts of armed robbery was Richard "Slim" Rufus Jr., 24, who listed his address as 358 Summit street, Benton Harbor.

Rufus was arrested by Harvey, Ill., police on a Berrien county warrant Wednesday night inside his room at the Harvey, Ill., YMCA, Berrien Metro crime unit officers said.

He waived proceedings for extradition to Michigan, police said.

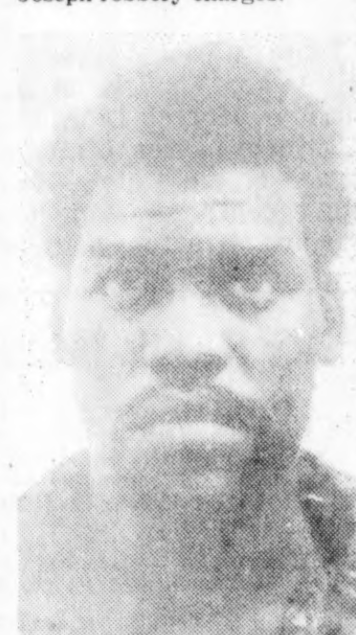

Officers said Rufus is the last suspect sought in connection with the Buchanan holdup.

Rufus and two other men are accused of taking $20,251 in jewels and cash at gunpoint from three people at Rees Jewelry store in Buchanan.

Arrested earlier in connection with the Rees holdup were Roy Moore, 49, of 1870 Council drive, Benton township, and Robert Lee Williams, 34, of Lansing. All three men are currently in the county jail under bonds of $50,000, awaiting preliminary hearings on the charge.

Williams and two women are also charged with a Nov. 28 armed robbery at Green's Jewelry, St. Joseph, during which some $7,630 in cash and jewelry was taken. They are awaiting circuit court arraignment on the St. Joseph robbery charges.

STRONG RECOVERY SEEN FOR MICHIGAN

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Michigan's manufacturing-oriented economy will rebound strongly in 1976, but the state's unemployment rate will dip only slightly, two University of Michigan economists said Friday.

Personal income will rise fairly rapidly for those with jobs, but 13.2 per cent of the labor force will remain unemployed, compared with 13.8 per cent in 1975, the economists said.

Professors Saul Hymans and Harold T. Shapiro said personal income would jump an average 12.7 per cent and total employment will increase 2.9 per cent, equal to about 100,000 jobs.

But they said the hiring increase would be almost entirely offset by the growing number of persons looking for jobs.

"The rate of economic growth is simply not forecast to be rapid enough to make major inroads in reducing the unemployment rate in the next year and a half," they said. "Although we forecast a growth rate more than sufficient to absorb all new entrants into the labor market, we do not foresee enough economic growth to cut deeply into the employment shortfall which has developed in the past two years, and which is disproportionately concentrated in the state of Michigan."

Nearly half the projected employment increase would be in manufacturing they said. The remainder, about 55,000 jobs, will be concentrated mostly in retailing and the government sector, they said.

The economists said 549,000 people would be unemployed next year, down from 560,000 this year, as the work force grows to 4,156,000 from 4,064,000 this year.

The forecast held some encouragement for state officials who faced a series of crises over the past year.

Hymans and Shapiro said personal state income tax revenues would total $1.5 billion in the 12 months ending next June 30, up more than $300 million from the previous year, when tax revenues declined $190 million. Sales tax revenues were forecast at $1.04 billion in the year ending June 30, up $29 million from last year.

"The 12.7 per cent increase which we forecast for Michigan personal income is a fair amount above that which we have forecast for the aggregate economy," the economists said.

"In considerable part, this derives from the fact that the economic rebound is more heavily concentrated in the manufacturing sector in Michigan than is true for the U.S. as a whole, and the manufacturing sector is relatively high in average earnings."

Getting Support From the People You Work With

In his American Management Associations book "How To Get Along With (Almost) Everybody," Elton Reeves points out that many people make the mistake of believing they can overlook their fellow workers, come to a decision, and then expect the situations "to be set in concrete." Reeves suggests five rules to help you get along well with people you work with: 1) Be optimistic. Expect those around you to be women and men of good will. People usually react on the same emotional level that you use in approaching them. 2) Be ready to go a little out of your way to demonstrate your own positive attitude. Offer to lend a hand when one of your co-workers is overloaded. 3) Be sure you pass on all necessary information. This, says Reeves, can do more to tear down or build up your reputation with other people than anything else. 4) Be intellectually honest. This means being careful not to deliberately "misunderstand." It also means that you should avoid gossip where you delicately twist interpretations of what others did or said. 5) Don't expect too much in the way of active friendship. In general, this is a work relationship and all that is necessary is that you go through the day together amiably. Says Reeves, "You will be most successful if you take the attitude that the greatest responsibility for your acceptance or rejection by others rests on your shoulders."

It all started at the old Paramount Theater in New York. When Herbie Mann's parents took him there to see Benny Goodman, he watched in awe throughout the whole show. Shortly after, 9-year-old Herbie got his first clarinet. His parents encouraged him to practice because it kept him off the streets! He kept at it throughout his teens, and began playing other instruments, too. Herbie Mann has now spent over 20 years as a professional jazz musician—most notably as a master of the flute. From 1957 to 1960, he held the No. 1 place in the Down Beat polls. Football's Greatest Runners:

Men Who Know Pick the NFL's Quickest, Strongest—And Hardest to Bring Down

By Larry Bortstein
FAMILY WEEKLY Contributing Editor

The best teams in the National Football League are usually those which dominate the ground game. Last year, pro teams ran the ball four times for every three times they passed it, and the last three winners of the Super Bowl were led by top ballcarriers—Larry Csonka of the Miami Dolphins in 1973 and 1974 and Franco Harris of the Pittsburgh Steelers last January.

The NFL has many outstanding runners, and they fall into different types: sleek and quick, big and powerful, adept at catching passes, expert at blocking. FAMILY WEEKLY wanted to learn which of today's NFL running backs ranked best in the various skills at the position. We asked these great pro players—Matt Snell, Gale Sayers, Lenny Moore and Jim Taylor—to tell us.

MATT SNELL ON THE GREAT BLOCKING BACKS

Former New York Jet Matt Snell set a club career record with 4,265 rushing yards. He was also highly regarded for his ferocious blocking.

"As long as the Jets have a quarterback like Joe Namath, who can't run because of his bad knees, they'll need running backs who are strong blockers. Even if I wasn't interested in blocking, I would have had to become interested or else lose my regular job. Luckily, I had a lot of experience in blocking at Ohio State."

"The Jets' running backs, John Riggins and Emerson Boozer are both excellent blockers, big and strong enough to stand up against onrushing linemen and linebackers. But there are other great blockers around, too. O. J. Simpson is great, but his fullback, Jim Braxton, helps him a lot as a blocker and can also carry the ball on plays when the Bills use Simpson as a decoy. Other good, strong backs who block well and are strong ballcarriers are Sam Cunningham of New England,

John Riggins

Emerson Boozer

Larry Csonka

O. J. Simpson

Terry Metcalf

Marv Hubbard

"Actually, being able to elude tacklers is more important than speed. A good running back has to be able to give a tackler a leg or an arm to shoot for, then quickly pull it away and keep on moving."—Gale Sayers and Jim Otis of St. Louis. They're not afraid to stick their noses in there and knock somebody down.

"Something else: A running back who has a lot of blocking responsibilities has to be really durable and able to take punishment. He's involved in just about every play. Some running backs, when they're not carrying the ball, can just coast through a play every now and then with no particular problem. But a guy who runs and blocks is always doing one thing or the other on every down."

GALE SAYERS ON THE QUICK ONES

Although he played only seven years, the Chicago Bears' Gale Sayers is considered one of the greatest running backs of all time. He is now assistant athletic director at the University of Kansas.

"I hear people criticize O. J. Simpson

for the same thing they criticized me for—running inside rather than trying to get outside on every play. But O. J. knows—just as I knew—that you have less chance of getting hurt running into the line rather than outside it. When you run straight ahead, you normally fall in two or three seconds, and you usually land on top of somebody. The fall is cushioned. When you run outside, some guy is liable to grab your leg or your arm and twist, and really hurt you. I got my ankle busted when a San Francisco 49er hit me from the side. But the good runners know the quickest way to gain yards is to go inside. It takes too much time to circle the whole line to try to get outside all the time. By the time you get to the sideline, a whole bunch of guys might be there to knock you down.

"Also, running inside, you have an excellent chance to break a long run if you just get past the first line of defense. The fast running backs, like O. J. and Chuck Foreman of Minnesota and Terry Metcalf of St. Louis, can beat any lineman in a one-on-one foot race. It pays for them to go inside because once they're through, they're gone.

"Actually, being able to elude tacklers is more important than speed. A good running back has to be able to give a tackler a leg or an arm to shoot for, then quickly pull it away and keep on moving.

"Also, there's the ability to change directions if a hole gets clogged. The shiftest runners, like O. J., Foreman and Metcalf, have the ability to change direction so smoothly and surely that the defense is often left frozen in its tracks.

"Another thing the good running backs know is when to turn on full speed. You can't go all out every time you have the ball. There comes a time when you just want to look for a soft spot to fall. But sometimes the good back can lull a defender into thinking he's slowing down or not going full-blast, and then, at the last second, he turns it on and he's far upfield before the defender can react."

LENNY MOORE ON CATCHING AND RUNNING—AND WEAVING

Enshrined in the Pro Football Hall of Fame last August, Lenny Moore starred from 1956 to 1967 with the Baltimore Colts. He excelled at both running back and flanker.

"You've got to keep moving and moving some more in this business. I wasn't the fastest runner or flanker when I played, but I could change speeds quickly and I had good peripheral vision that allowed me to stay out of trouble. I always could catch the ball, and with my speed I could really move it once I caught it. Of course, I had the greatest quarterback of all time throwing it to me—Johnny Unitas—and that helped a lot.

"People used to fault me sometimes because of my high knee action. They said this left me open for a good rap on the

Put More Than Red Ink Behind Municipal Bonds

Simply to illustrate a point, we are creating a fictitious city of Red Cedar, Michigan, whose governing fathers decided a month ago to issue two species of debt.

One was a $1 million bond issue to pave Red Cedar's streets.

Another was a $1 million development bond program to prompt the Widget Company to locate a plant in town.

The street paving bonds are a general obligation against the community, meaning that all the taxable real estate and personal property within the city limits are security for paying the interest and principal.

The development bond is Widget Company's obligation to pay off. It is issued in the name of Red Cedar merely to qualify as a municipal bond whose interest is not taxable income under the Internal Revenue Code, or if the bond owner resides within the Wolverine state, under the Michigan income tax. It is a fiction in law to obtain a favorable interest rate for the borrower.

The only requirement to put the Red Cedar paving bonds on the market is approval from the Michigan Municipal Finance Commission and a letter from a lawyer or a legal firm that the city has the proper authority to issue the securities. The lawyer's certification is more a practical requirement than an outright legal necessity. Brokers are reluctant to handle a municipal issue unless they have an impressive appearing 40-page document stating that everything is in apple pie order.

Widget Company's development bonds do not require Finance Commission approval since it is not Red Cedar's duty to pay them off. Neither is the lawyer's certification.

However, if the Widget bonds are to be offered to the public as distinguished from a single purchaser, then the broker must prepare a fairly detailed prospectus showing Widget's past history, present financial background, what it plans to do with the proceeds from the bond sale, a background on its top management and it draws down, and so on. The requirement comes close to what a company such as Bendix, Clark Equipment, National-Standard or Whirlpool must disclose before floating a debt program or a stock issue.

The law, though, does not require the city of Red Cedar to participate in any manner, however greatly its municipal policies on taxes, zoning, public safety protection and other matters might affect Widget Company's chances of paying its debts.

Nor does the law require Red Cedar to issue any disclosure on its financial situation or governmental policies when it brings the paving bonds to market; and until this year neither was it necessary to circulate the background on the basically private responsibility as represented by the Widget bonds.

Until New York City hit the financial skids earlier in the year, neither the investment community nor the lawmakers gave much thought to exempting municipal securities from the disclosure demands imposed upon private borrowers. Everyone assumed if a municipal bond issue is within the legal debt ceiling established by state law or local charter it is good as gold.

This is not the sole reason for New York hitting the bottom of the barrel, but it is an important one.

The absence of a disclosure requirement enabled Gotham's city hall to conceal the fact that much of its bonding was really capitalizing its operating deficits. Had the investing public known or suspected that New York was actually stalling current red ink over to a future payment date, it is safe to say it would have rejected the bonds long ago. This would have precipitated New York's crisis sooner, but the descent would not have been as damaging.

How many other local units are in or approaching New York's brink and what is the dollar volume in jeopardy is guesswork. The stock market's somewhat so-so performance in recent months and the erratic patterns taken by the bond market indicate the money people are guessing on the high side.

If our mythical Red Cedar is out in left field with New York, there isn't much that can be done to correct its position overnight.

Preventing the state and local units from following that same treacherous policy should be done by adopting full disclosure.

It would be great if Congress would put Uncle Sam in the same goldfish bowl; but as the slogan would have it, do the possible today and perform the impossible tomorrow.

Twin Cities' 'Overhead' Needs Better Control

Twin Cities "overhead" is making big news. That is to say, the air corridor between Detroit and Chicago — which passes directly over this corner of the state — has been the site recently of some scary events that are attracting national attention.

And rightly so!

Few circumstances will unnerve the highly sophisticated air traffic control system in the United States as much as a reported near-collision in air. When such a rare event happens two or more times in rapid succession, an urgent look by aviation officials is required to find the cause.

That is what is happening in the wake of at least two and possibly more near misses in the vicinity of Detroit and Chicago since the first incident on Thanksgiving eve. Each case involved commercial airliners and in the first incident strong evasive action by one of the pilots resulted in a number of injuries to passengers.

Adding to the confusion over what happened is labor unrest among some traffic controllers. Spokesmen for the Air Traffic Controllers Organization deny that a morale problem among its members has anything to do with the near collisions, contending the problem is in traffic control equipment.

None of which answers the question, what went wrong? Until that question is answered with conviction by Federal Aviation Agency investigators, any and all possible causes must be considered suspect. It won't do to pass off these near-accidents as mere coincidence.

Kazoo Man Awarded $225,000; A Record For Berrien Court

The largest consent judgment in the history of Berrien Circuit court — $225,000 — was entered yesterday on behalf of a Kalamazoo man who lost his wife and two children in a 1973 automobile accident.

Judge William S. White signed the judgment which awards $145,000 to Ronald E. Dobbins and his son, Pierre, with $80,000 for attorney fees and other expenses.

The judgment went against the estate of William Schneider, formerly of Chicago. White noted Dobbins sued for injuries sustained by himself and his son and for loss of companionship of his family, but the suit was not predicated on any economic loss.

The judge noted the judgment was one of the first of any large sum based on injuries and loss of companionship since the advent of no-fault insurance.

Dobbins' wife and children, as well as Schneider, were killed Oct. 14, 1973, in a head-on collision on I-94 in New Buffalo township when Schneider drove in the wrong direction on the freeway.

A consent judgment is one agreed to by parties to the suit without benefit of a trial.

Ex-Executive Asks $2 Million In Lawsuit Against Niles Star

A former executive of the Niles Daily Star newspaper has filed suit in Berrien Circuit court seeking $2 million damages, claiming the company breached a contract with him and forced his resignation because of his age.

The plaintiff, Harold Deadman, 56, and his wife, Madeline, both of Oklahoma, seek a total of $2,050,000 from the Star and Knight-Ridder Sales, Inc.

The suit identifies Deadman

as a former general manager, associate publisher, vice president, publisher, and operational head of the Niles newspaper.

Deadman began work at the Star on Sept. 3, 1968, the suit says, and was dismissed on May 21, 1974 "without notice or cause." The suit claims the defendants refused to honor Deadman's contract, which he claims "was for permanent employment for the working life of Deadman."

The suit claims a breach of contract, and also discrimination because of Deadman's age, and claims he was forced to resign. The suit seeks, in addition to the monetary damages, reinstatement and back pay.

Devine Has Pneumonia

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Actor Andy Devine has been hospitalized with what a hospital spokesman called "a touch of pneumonia."

Devine, 70, has leukemia, and a Hoag Memorial Hospital spokesman said he was taken there Thursday "as a precautionary measure."

Ford Learned It All In Congress

WASHINGTON — There's a great deal of confusion as to why President Ford acts the way he does:

—His off-again, on-again attitude toward financial aid to New York City.

—His strong stand in demanding Congress agree in advance to slash projected federal spending by a specified percentage.

—His repeated vetoes.

—His rapid pardon of former President Nixon.

—His quickie Halloween massacre, in which he fired Defense Secretary James Schlesinger and Central Intelligence chief William Colby without warning.

—His consistent refusal to strike out a la Franklin Roosevelt and John F. Kennedy with national plans to lead us out of the inflation-unemployment wilderness.

To his critics, Mr. Ford is weak, vacillating, uncertain — a feeling apparently shared by many of those queried in public opinion polls.

The fact is, that for better or for worse, Mr. Ford is a prisoner of his experience. As President, he is employing those tactics Congressman Gerald Ford found most profitable in his years as leader of a minority party in the House of Representatives.

Tactic One: Take a strong, hard stand on important issues. Know in your own mind what you will compromise for. But adamantly refuse to concede you're willing to budge. Publicize your stand with all the guns you have. Hold still, eyeball-to-eyeball without blinking until the opposition is willing to concede as much as you've calculated they can and will. Then make your deal.

This is the tactic Mr. Ford has used with New York City.

Estimate: Success. He pushed

New York into greater self-discipline, on paper anyway, than anyone thought possible.

It's the tactic he's using with Congress on the budget for fiscal year 1977.

It's the principle behind his hefty pattern of vetoes of programs he doesn't like and those which he believes cost too much.

Estimate: Mixed. He's knocked out some hefty spending proposals Congress voted, gotten other bills modified to better suit his objectives, but he hasn't succeeded in getting Congress to pass bills of the type he wants in energy, economic stimulation and other major domestic problems.

Most curiously, however, the president has not used this strong stand — until — the — opponent — blinks tactic in dealing with the Soviet Union.

Mr. Ford's quick pardon of Richard Nixon and his ham-handed Halloween firings of Schlesinger and Colby are likewise patterned after strategies Mr. Ford developed in his congressional days.

—The first, that if something distasteful or unpopular has got to be done, do it quickly, even clumsily, but above all do it rapidly. The sooner done, hopefully, the sooner forgotten.

—The second, that if you're in the minority in Congress, to get anywhere at all, the emphasis must be on team play rather than on individual excellence.

Only the majority can afford some division.

And finally, in Congress, Mr. Ford's genius was in reaching a consensus among his own people, when you evolve a consensus or compromise on economic programs, what you have is mush. There's no possibility of agreement on any strong program: each set of advisers has a different theory.

President Nixon Got A Bum Rap

Now that all the skeletons are leaping out of their closets and into the headlines, we are entitled to conclude that Richard Nixon got something of a bum rap. Or, at least, that he was subjected to cruel and unusual punishment.

Misuse of the FBI and the attendant violation of a host of statutes did not originate with Nixon. Such practices go all the way back to FDR, with a uniquely clean interval occurring during the eight years of the Eisenhower Administration.

Indeed, under John Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson, the violations were "incomparably more serious than anything charged in the Congressional Articles of Impeachment or other denunciations of Nixon" — at least that is the conclusion of Noam Chomsky, prominent leftist and scarcely a Nixon fan.

Though it may sound harsh, the following conclusion seems to me inescapable. Since 1972, the media, in league with Congressional Democrats, have been treating the American public to a long-running but fictional production entitled "The Unique Villainy of Richard M. Nixon."

Those so-called investigative reporters, of course, became instant folk-heroes, and Robert Redford, no less, in starring in a movie about the heroic deeds of Bob Woodward and Carl Bernstein. But where were those intrepid investigators when the truth was oozing out about bugging, corruption of Federal agencies, invasion of privacy, and widespread personal harassment under FDR, John F. Kennedy, and Lyndon B. Johnson?

During the Watergate furor, we were treated to a great many leaks damaging to Nixon, curiously enough, some other things somehow did not get leaked.

Ervin Committee minority counsel Fred Thompson, for example, reveals in his book, "At That Point in Time," that John Dean turned over to majority counsel Sam Dush two lengthy memoranda from, William C. Sullivan, former assistant director of the FBI. These never surfaced during the hearings. Ervin and Dash never subpoenaed Sullivan or his colleague, Cartha DeLoach, to sit before the TV cameras and recount the scandals of the Kennedy-Johnson years. All moral indignation has to be focused on Richard Nixon, preparatory to driving him from office. All other information was irrelevant to that goal.

"To my memory," wrote William Sullivan in his memoranda, "the two Administrations which used the FBI most for political purposes were Mr. (Franklin D.) Roosevelt's and Mr. (Lyndon) Johnson's."

President Johnson, however, far exceeded Roosevelt in his use of the FBI for political purposes.

LBJ had Anna Chennault and Spiro Agnew bugged, he bugged the South Vietnamese Embassy, assorted opponents at the 1964 Democratic Convention, and various black politicians. Both Johnson and the Kennedys eavesdropped on Martin Luther King. Of course, none of this could come out until the job of removing Nixon from office had been accomplished.

Due to an enormous media con job, however, Nixon goes into forced exile, while Kennedy rests in Arlington beneath that symbolic eternal flame, and FDR has all but joined the deities on Olympus.

Poetry A Gift?

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) — The author of "Twas the Night Before Christmas" may have written the Christmas poem for his children as a substitute for gifts he was unable to buy.

A descendant of poet Clement Clarke Moore, Lula Moore Hester Averill, 70, said family legend indicates Moore was poor at Christmas in 1822 and could not buy the gifts his children wanted.

So he wrote the poem for them instead, she said.

What in the World!

PETULA CLARK

"Don't go with the crowd"

Did you know Petula Clark was Britain's answer to Shirley Temple as a child and acted in some 20 movies? She told FAMILY WEEKLY: "At age seven I was an established star. My father, who had wanted to be an entertainer, was my manager. My early remembrances are pleasant enough, but sometimes I regret having missed a happy, free childhood. I missed out on a lot of my formal schooling, and when I was in school, I did terribly because of my frequent absences. But, of course, I knew things far beyond my age because of my backstage, liberal upbringing. Perhaps that's why I'll devote myself to redefining education if I ever leave show business. If we want to change anything in the world, we must start with children. If we can't train and educate them properly, we can't do anything well. I'm certain that our leadership would improve if we didn't teach children to go with the crowd. This makes sense when you consider that real fulfillment doesn't come from success, but in having the courage to try new things."

A lawyer talks about modern man's fears: "A strange thing has happened in this century which many attribute to Freud and an overpowering technology—we're devoting ourselves to realism with frightening results. Everyone wants to be 'aware.' Maybe we're too aware. Gerard Nierenberg We've become a nation of chronic complainers. I hear people constantly denouncing the quality of leadership, but that's just not the case. . . . We're more sophisticated, so naturally we expect more and demand more. The end result is that we're left in a state of constant fear. Everyone plays the psychiatrist role—we hand out advice at the drop of a hat, but nobody wants to hear it. This creates a dilemma because not only do our problems remain unsolved, but we don't stimulate creative solutions in others. What's lacking is a little humanism in all this realism." Gerard Nierenberg is the author of "How to Give and Receive Advice" (Simon and Schuster, $6.95).

TY COBB

Demonic or intuitive?

How Ty Cobb, the late Detroit Tigers' outfielder and Hall of Famer, added a new dimension to baseball: "Old-time sportswriters believed there was an element of black magic about Cobb, that he must have had a pact with the devil. Nonsense. What Cobb had was much more useful—a mixture of nerve, imagination and courage in preposterous amounts. He also had a fantastic skill based on psychology and nothing more mysterious than abnormally, almost freakishly fast reactions. Cobb himself claimed another attribute: intuition. For him, batting was a study in psychology. 'It's like the study of crime, the work of a detective as he picks up clues,' Cobb explained. Before his time, the base runner was the natural prey of the team in field. Cobb changed all that. Once he reached first base, the whole infield was on the defensive. Ty's main purpose was to make them throw the ball. He knew that if they juggled it among themselves long enough, in their nervousness they'd throw it away." From "Ty Cobb," by John D. McCallum (Praeger, $8.95).

knees by a tackler. But I ran like that in the open field when there were no guys near me ready to jump me. When I needed yards close in, I kept my knees low like most other good running backs.

"A guy playing today who reminds me a lot of myself is Terry Metcalf of St. Louis. He's four inches shorter than I was—he's only about 5-10—but he really can catch the ball and move with it once he has it. And he can weave out of heavy traffic in the open field.

"If you're quick and know how to stay out of trouble, I firmly believe you can

the line. I hardly ever got thrown for a loss, and Csonka and Hubbard are like that, too. They also hardly ever fumble.

The reason why guys like Csonka and Hubbard and John Brockington of Green Bay usually manage to pick up some yardage whenever they carry the ball is their tremendous balance. They can remain on their feet for a long time, with their legs still pumping, before they're finally taken down. Very often, an official will blow the play dead when a guy is still upright because the ballcarrier's not able to move forward any more and everything is at a standstill. Sometimes you're grateful when you're knocked down. You can grab a few seconds of rest before you get up to rejoin the huddle."

play in the NFL, no matter what size you are. Mack Herron of the New England Patriots is only 5-4, but he gets a tremendous amount of yardage because he knows how and when to make his moves.

"A running back who can catch the ball is a more complete player than a good runner who's not a good receiver. On the Colts now, there's a great back in Lydell Mitchell. Not only is he capable of running more than 1,000 yards a season, but last year he led the NFL in pass receiving with 72 catches, the most ever caught by a running back. A quarterback in trouble loves to see a good receiver coming out of the backfield as a safety valve receiver or to catch the short sideline pattern. A guy like Mitchell gives a team more flexibility in its offense."

JIM TAYLOR ON STRAIGHT-AHEAD POWER

Fullback Jim Taylor played 10 years in the NFL, and his career total of 8,597 yards is second only to Jim Brown's 12,312.

"I was never afraid to put my head down and run, no matter how many guys I had in front of me. I tried running straight up once. When I got up, my face was all bloodied. I had no real outside speed, but the way we played in Green Bay when I was there was we ran a lot of sweeps which took me to the outside behind a lot of great blocking. But I really like putting my head down and just going straight, hard and low.

"I think Larry Csonka, when he played with the Miami Dolphins, was the best fullback around for sheer straight-ahead power. He could carry the ball for a couple of yards, dragging tacklers along with him, get up, shake himself off, go back to the huddle, and do it all over again on the next play. Since Csonka went over to the Memphis club in the World Football League last year, I haven't seen him as much as I used to. But now that the league has folded, I guess he'll be back in the NFL.

"Oakland has a real good fullback in Mary Hubbard. He's another one of those guys who just gets the ball and plows into

Dismissal Of BH School Suit Expansion Asked

By JIM DeLAND
Assistant City Editor

GRAND RAPIDS — U.S. District Judge Noel Fox has given defendants in the Benton Harbor school desegregation suit until Dec. 29 to complete written arguments challenging the most recent complaint filed by the NAACP.

Seven parties named as defendants have filed two separate motions asking that the latest complaint be dismissed entirely and the Michigan Municipal Boundary Commission has also asked to be removed as a defendant in the suit.

The boundary commission, Gov. William Milliken, Attorney General Frank Kelley, Superintendent of Public Instruction John W. Porter and the State Board of Education have filed a joint motion asking Judge Fox to strike the supplemental complaint he permitted the NAACP to file on Sept. 24.

A similar motion has been filed by the Berrien County Intermediate School Board and Interim Superintendent Raymond

Sreboth.

The supplemental complaint by the NAACP added Milliken, Kelley, the boundary commission, the intermediate school board and Sreboth to the list of defendants and detailed new charges that various officials, agencies and surrounding communities had fostered racial isolation of the predominantly black Benton Harbor district.

The motions asking Judge Fox to strike the complaint contend that it is a completely new complaint that should be part of a new suit and that it will delay determination of the 1967 case, which has been sent back to U.S. District Court by the Circuit Court of Appeals.

State officials and agencies listed as defendants also contend that it will be prejudicial toward them since they did not participate in the original trial, which was concluded in 1970.

The boundary commission asks that it be dismissed as a defendant since it has no role in setting school district boundaries. The commission acts on municipal boundary matters.

The boundary commission also asks that Judge Fox abstain from considering it as a defendant pending a decision by the Ingham County Circuit Court on a suit filed by St. Joseph township asking the court to overrule the boundary commission's approval of incorporation of the former Fairplain school district into a city.

Should the circuit court overrule the approval, the motion contends, reasons cited for including the boundary commission as a defendant would no longer be valid.

After reviewing final arguments, Judge Fox can either rule on the motions or call for a hearing to receive further information before handing down a decision.

The NAACP is pressing the 1967 suit on behalf of the original plaintiffs, Mrs. Ruth Berry and her six children and other black parents and children in the Benton Harbor district.

U.S. District Judge Wallace Kent in 1970 ruled that there was no de jure (illegal) segregation in the Benton Harbor district, but the NAACP appealed that decision and the Court of Appeals sent the case back to U.S. District Court last year.

Since the 1970 decision, the case has been expanded to include the transfer of the former Eaman school district from Benton Harbor to Coloma, which was approved by the state board in 1971, and the transfer of three former elementary school districts in Sodus township from Benton Harbor to Eau Claire, which was approved in 1974.

The Sodus transfer was blocked by an injunction issued by Judge Fox, however, and Sodus students have remained in Benton Harbor schools.

The 12 defendants in the case include the Benton Harbor, Coloma and Eau Claire school districts, the Concerned Parents and Taxpayers of Sodus, the Concerned Parents for Hagar Township School District No. 4 (Eaman), the State Board of Education and Dr. Porter, in addition to those added in the supplementary complaint.

Card's Sender Has Time For Thought

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

"Wish you a Merry, Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year" is a frequently expressed sentiment at this time of year. So it was no surprise when Berrien Circuit Judge William S. White read that greeting handwritten on a Christmas card he received.

But the sender did surprise him. The card came from M.C. Woods — who received a 15 to 50 year prison sentence from the judge last summer.

Woods was sentenced for armed robbery stemming from a Feb. 7 holdup at the Scottsdale branch of the Peoples State Bank of St. Joseph. Two bandits fled with some $11,000 but were captured with all the money only seven minutes after the robbery.

"Yes, I was surprised," White said of the unusual Christmas greeting, and added he felt the sentiment was sincere. In sentencing the 24-year-old Woods, of Benton Harbor, White noted: "From what you have told me, you have at least made the first step towards rehabilitation." White recommended Woods be permitted to study to become an X-ray technician while he is in prison.

The printed portion of the card, under which Woods wrote his personal greeting, said: "To wish you a joyous Christmas and happiness throughout the year."

THREE IN BERRIEN DISTRICT COURT

Women Face ADC Fraud Counts

By NICK SMITH
Staff Writer

Three women were arraigned in Berrien Fifth District court yesterday on charges of welfare fraud over $500.

Barbara Coates, 42, of 675 Buss avenue, apartment A, Benton Harbor, waived examination and was bound over to Circuit court.

Juanita Kay Quick, 22, of 1112

Ontario, apartment 7, Niles, pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of welfare fraud under $500, and the felony charge was dismissed.

Alice DeMorrow, 27, of Three

Oaks, demanded preliminary examination on the charge.

The women were all arraigned before District Judge Leo Cook. Their arrests followed investigations by the Office of the Inspector General, state department of social services, and the Berrien prosecutor's welfare unit.

Barbara Coates, between November of 1970 and February of 1973, allegedly received $2,023 in ADC benefits but is accused of failing to report social security benefits she received at the same time. The mother of four children, she was freed on $1,000 personal recognizance bond.

Juanita Quick was sentenced to fine and costs of $150, 18 months probation and restitution of $887.50 for fraud under $500. She pleaded guilty to illegally receiving ADC funds from April 1 to June 30 of this year.

Alice DeMorrow, mother of one child, allegedly received $2,358.50 in ADC funds to which she was not entitled from February of 1972 to June of 1974. She was released on $1,500 personal recognizance bond.

LMC Club Collecting New And Used Toys

"Toys for Tots," a drive to collect new and used playthings for needy youngsters in the Lake Michigan College district has been instituted by LMC's newly-organized Management club.

The drive was given a boost this week by Dr. James L. Lehman, LMC president, who presented three toys, one given for each of his own three children.

Receiving point on the LMC Napier College campus for toys is a large decorated box in front of the college bookstore on the ground floor of the main building.

According to William Baker, business administration instructor and the club's faculty adviser, all persons in the LMC district are asked to bring their contributions of new and used toys to the LMC receiving box on weekdays between 9 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

All toys collected will be turned over to the Salvation Army for distribution to needy families during the holiday season. The drive ends Dec. 19.

St. Joe Beach Grant Hearing On Agenda For Monday Night

A public hearing on an application to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources for $28,500 to improve Tiscornia beach will be held at Monday's St. Joseph city commission meeting, according to City Manager Gerald W. Hepler.

The public hearing is a requirement before applying for the funds, Hepler said. He said the money, if granted, will go for recreational improvements at the beach including restroom facilities and a picnic area.

Also at Monday night's meeting there will be a public hearing on a tax reduction sought by Whirlpool Corp., St. Joseph division, for a new $1.4 million steel slitting operation. The reduction is sought under the Michigan plant rehabilitation and industrial development districts act of 1974 and requires local municipality approval.

Adding Machine Busy In St. Joe

The St. Joseph Area Good Fellow fund took some big strides today.

Santa Claus punched the adding machine to the tune of $204.50, bringing the 1975 total to $1,381.61. The fund is $3,618.39 short of its goal.

But by this time next week everything could be coming up roses. The results of the Lions Newsie sale will be in, and proceeds from the Dec. 19 sale will hopefully put the fund at or near the top.

Today's gifts included a $150 check from Whirlpool Corporation. At the same time as the corporate contribution came $29.50 contributed by employees of the Whirlpool Laundry Group Engineering Services Department.

Good Fellows like Ralph and Carol Robards sent $10, and more good folks like Kathleen and Marie Schram also gave $10. Then there was $5 from the

It Wasn't Santa--Just His Helper

"That wasn't a 'goofy looking Santa' seen on the streets of St. Joseph, it was Santa's helper," said Wayne Ransbottom, manager of the Downtown Merchants Association.

A letter in yesterday's Herald-Palladium from Mrs. John Wenzlaff of Stevensville was critical of the "goofy looking Santa" she and her five-year-old encountered in St. Joseph.

Ransbottom said Santa wasn't scheduled to arrive until yesterday afternoon, but his appearance was postponed because he was stricken with an attack of phlebitis.

"We're hoping he makes a quick recovery and will be able to greet youngsters next week," said Ransbottom.

However, there's no doubt that Santa will be able to make his appointed rounds on Christmas eve.

As for his helper? "There certainly was no intent to deceive children," Ransbottom said.

Catholic High Plans Yule Concerts

Lake Michigan Catholic high school has announced Christmas concerts will be presented Tuesday and Wednesday by vocal and instrumental groups. The high school's Little Group under direction of Mrs. Vilma Jornada will present its vocal concert at St. Joseph Catholic church Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. The 15-member group also will be singing at Mercy and Memorial hospitals,

Shoreham nursing home and Gateway rehabilitation center during the holidays. The Lake Michigan Catholic band under direction of Don Swikowski will present its concert at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the high school social hall. A slide presentation will accompany "Silent Night" and "Hark the Herald Angels Sing."

Monday Musical Boosts BH Fund

The beauty of Monday Musical club's Christmas vespers was transformed in a major gift to the Benton Harbor Area Good Fellow fund today.

The fund received $244.45 from an offering taken last Sunday at the annual vespers sponsored by Monday Musical at First Congregational church, Benton Harbor.

Monday Musical traditionally divides the offering between the Benton Harbor Area and St. Joseph Area Good Fellow funds.

The Benton Harbor fund mounted to a total of $1,914.61, as Santa acknowledged other gifts today.

The student of Benton Harbor seventh-eighth grade center knows at an early age that everyone won't have a happy Christmas unless others help, so they gave $10.

Ralph and Carol Robards put $10 on the line that the Good Fellow fund will be a winner again. Kathleen and Marie

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY By Richard Armour

MEDICINE SHOW

Our medicine chest is no treasure chest,
No jewels therein one seeks,
But it's like a treasure chest in a way—
That is, it is full of antiques.

There are bottles of pills for our long-gone ills,
And potions a little cloudy.
They've been there for years, and we've long forgot
What they're for. They look doubtful and dowdy.

Then why do we save them? Here is my thesis:
In time they'll be sold as museum pieces.

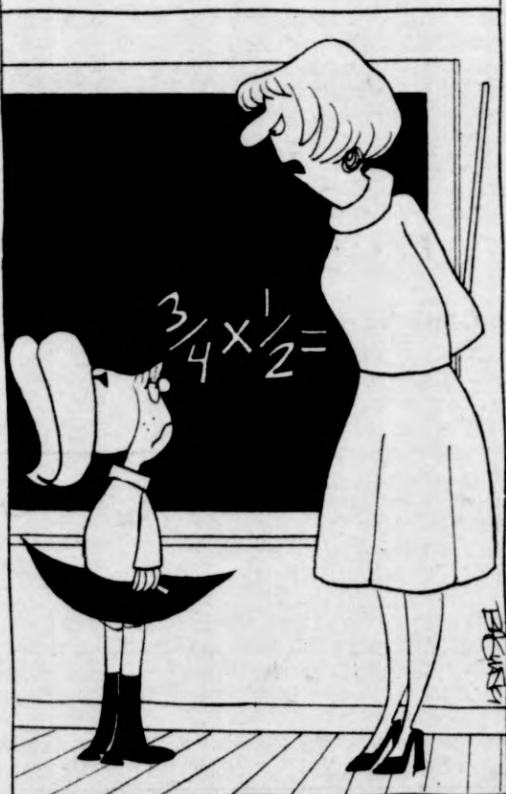

A horse-racing enthusiast reported his latest venture with the nags to a friend. "I went to the track on the eleventh day of the eleventh month," he said, "arriving at 11:00. My son was 11 that day, and the eleventh race showed 11 horses. So I bet all my money on the eleventh horse on the card."

"And he won?" asked the friend.

"No," the sportsman replied sadly. "He came in eleventh."

Some "Tricks" That Break Bad Habits

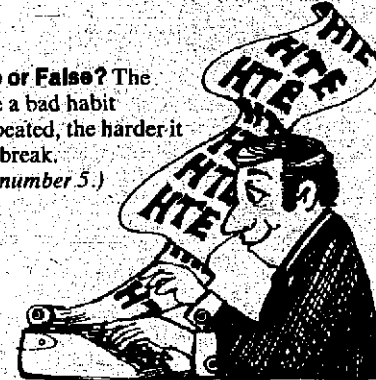

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. Overcoming procrastination is easy once you understand what makes it tick.
2. There are scientifically tested ways to break most bad habits.

3. If you break your child of the habit of studying while sprawled out on the floor or bed, he'll make better grades.
4. Many people are habitually plagued by trains of thought that produce anxiety. There is a True or False? The more a bad habit is repeated, the harder it is to break.

(See number 5.)

habit-breaking technique designed to stop these thoughts.

5. The more a bad habit is repeated, the harder it is to break.

ANSWERS

1. True. Professor William J. Knaus, of the Institute for Advanced Study in Rational Psychotherapy, has made an intensive study of procrastination and how to overcome it. Everybody, he points out, procrastinates at least part of the time. This is usually accompanied by feelings of guilt and hopelessness. "A sense of being overwhelmed is common to procrastinators," he finds. "They constantly see a mountain of work before them and believe that all their work is of equally high priority." Professor Knaus's studies show that anybody can break this habit simply by performing tasks just as soon as they are thought of. "The delayer" should persuade himself to at least start the task for a short period of time, say five minutes. At the end of the interval he may give himself the option of stopping or continuing. Normally, it was found, the decision is to continue.
2. True. One method devised by behavior specialists is the "dissatisfaction transfer," which removes any satisfaction gained from the habit, rendering it unattractive. A Hofstra University study cites an example of a 33-year-old nail-biter whose "dissatisfier" was contributing money to an organization she strongly disliked. Result: "Nail-biting was discontinued."
3. False. There are some things which look like bad habits that aren't. In studies conducted at the University of California, the grade-point average of students working at their desks was the same as that of students who preferred studying sprawled out on their beds.
4. True. The technique is reported as follows: The subject is asked to shut his eyes and to verbalize a typical unwelcome thought sequence. Suddenly the therapist shouts, "Stop!" This is repeated several times, and attention is drawn to the fact that the thoughts actually do stop each time. The subject is then told that he can stop his thoughts by saying "Stop" subvocally. With practice, many patients reported themselves free of these thoughts within a few days.
5. False. Psychological studies have demonstrated a novel method for breaking habits, known as "the negative practice" technique. This consists of deliberate repetition of the undesirable habit. It was found, for example, that the habitual mistyping of certain words ("hte" instead of "the," etc.), or habitual errors made in piano playing, can be quickly eliminated by deliberately making the mistake several times.

The sextet will be in charge of the 6 p.m. service and the public is invited.

A "Rose Tea" will be held Sunday, Dec. 28, at 5 p.m. at UNITED GRACE SPIRITUAL CHURCH, Benton Harbor.

The public is invited to the event, which is being sponsored by the church pastor, Rev. Channie Williams.

Church Donates Books To Local Libraries

Benton Harbor Seventh-day Adventist church has given 10 volumes to both the Benton Harbor public library and the Maud Preston Palenske Memorial library in St. Joseph.

"These contributions mark the beginning of our observance of the Bicentennial," Pastor C. Raymond Holmes, said.

Included in the gifts are books ranging from vegetarian

cooking to perfectionism. Two biographies included are on historical personalities of southwestern Michigan.

They are "John Harvey Kellogg, MD" by Richard W. Schwarz, which describes the life of the man who invented cornflakes, and "Prophet of Destiny," by Rene Noorbergen, which tells the story of Ellen White, one of the founders of the Seventh-day Adventist church.

Also included is "The Wisdom Seekers," by Emmett K. Vanderveer, which chronicles the history of Andrews university.

In making the presentation, Mrs. Ethel Wise, communications secretary, said the total of libraries in Michigan receiving this gift is 78.

Student Names Omitted

The names of students Dan Deitrich and Pam Loikits were inadvertently omitted with a photo published in this newspaper Thursday, Dec. 11, promoting the seventh annual Christmas choral concert of St. Joseph public schools.

Also in the photo was William Tower, director.

The concert will be held Monday, Dec. 15, at 7:30 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

More than 250 high school and junior high students will participate. Directors will be Dennis Bowen, Renard Baldwin and Tower.

Participating will be the high school Choral Ensemble, Girls' Glee club and Concert choir, Milton Minstrels and Upton Uptones.

More Women In Clergy

NEW YORK — In spite of strong opposition from traditionalists and some battles that have been almost as rough as early civil rights struggles, more and more women are entering the clergy.

Currently there are 1,500 to 2,000 ordained clergywomen in the United States, reports the December "Seventeen."

The Methodists have about 500 women ministers, the United Congregationalists approximately 350 (they ordained the first woman minister in the United States in 1853) and other denominations such as the Evangelists, Quakers and Pentecostals account for most of the rest. Ironically, missing from the above list is the First Church of Christ Scientist, founded by a woman — Mary Baker Eddy.

Women who are trying to break into some of the more traditional or orthodox denominations are having a difficult time. For those who have made it, it has been a battle, but they think that attitudes are changing.

The Rev. Deborah Wolfe, black Baptist minister from New Jersey, recalls her uphill experience. "I graduated from Union Theological seminary in 1950, but I wasn't ordained for 20 years. And when I was finally allowed to take my oral examination, 16 ministers showed up to test me. Male candidates face only four or five." She adds that being ordained doesn't mean your problems stop. Recently she was invited by a male minister to preach at his parish, but although she had been ordained he wouldn't let her stand in the pulpit. She was a woman, so she preached from the floor. But in general she feels accepted, although some women (not men) continue to be a source of resistance.

Dr. Clara Hennings, the only woman Roman Catholic canon lawyer in the world, reports that after she had received a master of arts degree in theology with a straight-A average, the only canon law school in the country had no choice but to admit her. (Canon law is the system of laws established by a church council for administering the church.)

"I was regarded with hostility by the other students," she recalls. "They would not talk or eat with me; I got obscene phone calls regularly and three threats on my life."

The Rev. Carter Heyward, an Episcopal minister, was ordained last year along with 10 other women, but two weeks later the ordination was rescinded. "We had been educated and prepared and had four diocesan bishops willing to ordain us. However, the bishop of Pennsylvania later claimed the whole thing was invalid because it was against canon law," she reports. She is hoping this situation will change in 1976 when the Episcopal General Convention meets. Meanwhile four more women were ordained last September and about 200 Episcopal women are in seminaries.

Sally Preisand is one of two women rabbis in the entire country, but in the three years since her ordination 15 other women have begun studies to prepare for the rabbinate. Rabbi Preisand experienced little difficulty, either at school or in getting her rabbinical appointment (at the Stephen Wise Free Synagogue). "Of course there were some congregations that wouldn't talk to me and others that wanted me only for public relations reasons," she says. "But here I am in New York City." Being placed in a city area is an achievement, especially for a woman.

Rabbi Preisand spoke in Benton Harbor last year as part of the Jewish Cultural Series at Temple B'nai Shalom, Benton Harbor.

Couple Wed

COLOMA — Mr. and Mrs. Dale A. Fredricks are making their home at 285 Morrison street, Coloma, following their marriage Dec. 6 at Zion Evangelical and Reformed church, St. Joseph.

The Rev. C.W. Runkel performed the ceremony for the former Mrs. Susan Long Hayes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Long, 319 Coloma avenue, Coloma, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fredricks, 5021 Little Paw Paw Lake road, Coloma.

The bride wore a beige print empire gown designed with a tiered skirt. She wore a wide brimmed beige hat and carried yellow carnations and baby's breath.

Mrs. Steven Swigart, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Jennifer and Laura Hayes, daughters of the bride, were flower girls.

Serving as best man was Robert Stinemar. Ushers were Walt Fredricks, brother of the groom, and Dennis Marsh.

A reception was held at Galati's restaurant, Hartford. The bride is a graduate of Coloma high school and is employed at Sears, Roebuck and Company, Benton Harbor. Her husband, a graduate of Coloma high school, is owner of Fredricks' Arco station, Berrien Springs.

MEMORY MAKING TRADITION

Have A Salt Sculpture Party

Yuletide traditions — that's what the holidays are all about! Keeping the old — like reading the family's favorite story 'round a crackling fire on Christmas Eve. Or waking up to familiar holiday music.

Creating the new — like an annual salt sculpture party to make original, personalized ornaments for the Christmas tree! It's fun for all ages. Everyone from Grandpa to the toddler can participate. And, even better, you're guaranteed maximum merriment with minimal mess.

Just a few steps — and you'll have a selection of family-fashioned Christmas ornaments that will last as long as your memories from making them.

First, plan your work areas like a progressive dinner. Use one spot for making the dough and another for molding or cutting out the pieces. A third area should be set aside for decorating the finished creations. Second, plan in advance for all ages.

In the first area, be sure enough flour, salt and water are available. Each batch of dough will make about two dozen cookie cutter shapes or one holiday wreath. Use a bread board for kneading the dough. Place dough that won't be used immediately into a plastic bag to keep it from drying.

Children can have one table filled with cookie cutters, a few foil-covered cookie sheets and the dough. Adults may want to join the kids in making simple designs — or set aside a separate space to work on more intricate free-form sculptures. Make sure a selection of forks, butter knives or other utensils are available for cutting, shaping and making imprints; nail heads make good holes for string loops.

Cover the decorating table or floor, for the children with newspapers for easy clean-up. Water color paints work fine and runaway splashes are easy to remove from children's clothes, faces and hair.

When everyone's through, use spray varnish to protect finished pieces from moisture. Other salt sculpture tips? Have each family member sign their name and date on the back of their creation — memories for the years ahead. Then let everyone hang their finished pieces on the tree.

SALT SCULPTURE DOUGH

Two cups flour (not self-rising)

One cup salt

One cup water

Combine flour and salt in a large flat-bottomed bowl, and mix well with spoon. Next add water (a little at a time) mixing as you pour to form the dough into a ball. Additional water may be needed, depending on the humidity. Take care not to add too much so dough becomes sticky. Knead seven to ten minutes until dough has a smooth, yet firm, consistency. Place dough that will not be used immediately in a plastic bag to keep it from drying.

Place finished pieces on foil-covered cookie sheet and place in 325 to 350 degree oven. Allow to bake one-half hour for each one-fourth-inch of thickness or until golden brown. If sculptures puff up, reduce oven temperature by 50 to 75 degrees and poke piece with pin or toothpick to release air.

Brush the piece with egg or milk during baking for a natural brown finish. Or, paint it after it is cooled. Apply a coat of lacquer, varnish or shellac to both sides of each piece to protect it from moisture or humidity.

A Christmas Garland of Scrumptious Gifts

WINTER STRAWBERRIES

- 1½ cups grated walnuts*
- 1½ cups grated coconut*
- 3 pkgs. (3-oz. size) strawberry gelatin
- 1 can (14 ozs.) sweetened condensed milk
- 1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
- ½ cup red-colored sugar
- Green spearmint leaves

1. Combine walnuts, coconut, gelatin, condensed milk and vanilla in medium bowl. Work until smoothly mixed. Form into a ball and chill for at least 1 hour.
2. Shape chilled mixture into strawberries, using 1 tablespoon of mixture for each strawberry. Chill again.
3. Roll strawberries in red sugar. Cut stems from spearmint leaves; insert stem in each strawberry. Refrigerate in airtight container until ready to serve. Makes 45 candies

*Use electric blender or chop very fine.

VINARTERTA

(Icelandic Layer Cake With Prune Filling)

Prune Filling

- 2 lbs. dried prunes
- 2 cups water
- 1 cup sugar
- ½ cup liquid from cooked prunes
- ¼ teaspoon ground cardamom
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract

1. Combine prunes and water in 3-qt. saucepan. Heat until mixture comes to boil. Reduce heat, cover and simmer for 20 minutes, or until prunes are very soft.
2. Drain prunes; reserve ½ cup liquid. Allow to cool.
3. Remove pits and grind or chop prunes very fine.
4. Combine prunes, sugar, prune liquid, cardamom and salt in 2-qt. saucepan. Stirring constantly, cook uncovered for 10 minutes, until mixture has consistency of thick jam.
5. Stir in lemon juice and vanilla. Allow to cool. Makes 1 qt.

Cake Layers

- 1 cup butter or margarine
- 1½ cups sugar
- 2 large eggs
- 2 teaspoons pure vanilla extract
- 4 cups unbleached all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder

- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ cup light cream or milk
- Prune filling (see recipe above)
- Confectioners' icing
- Candied cherries and mixed fruits, nuts (optional)

1. Preheat oven to 350°F. Grease 2 (9-inch) cake pans. Line each with round of waxed paper.
2. In large bowl, with electric mixer, beat butter until creamy. Gradually add sugar; beat hard until mixture becomes light.
3. Beat in eggs one at a time. Add vanilla.
4. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Blend into creamed mixture alternately with light cream.
5. Form dough into smooth ball. Divide evenly into 8 parts.
6. Press a portion of dough into bottom of each pan in a thin, even layer.
7. Bake for 10 to 12 minutes, or until edges are lightly browned. Allow to cool, then turn onto wire racks to cool completely.

8. Repeat process until 8 layers are baked.
9. Spread 7 of the layers with about ½ cup prune filling. Stack layers together. Top with remaining layer.
10. Cover cake and let stand 24 hours. (This makes cake easier to cut.)
11. Spread top of cake with icing (see recipe below) or confectioners' sugar. Decorate with candied cherries, nuts and bits of candied fruit if desired. Makes 12 to 16 servings

Confectioners' Icing

- 1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar
- 3½ teaspoons light cream or milk
- ¼ teaspoon pure vanilla extract

Combine confectioners' sugar, light cream and vanilla until smooth to make thin glaze frosting. Spread on top layer of Vinarterta. Makes 1 cup

Trustees are Earl Westcott, Kenneth Sunlin, Max Parker, Ray Laversee and Mrs. Fred Sunlin. Nominations committee includes Mrs. Fred Sunlin and Mrs. Delbert Bassett.

On Christmas Eve there will be two services:

7:00 p.m. - Family Worship will be a warm and expressive service, especially for the children, where the coming of the Lord at Bethlehem long ago and the coming of His presence into our hearts today, will be celebrated.

at 11:00 p.m. - Candlelight Vesper service with Christmas meditation by Dr. George W. Fisk and music presented by our Chancel Choir.

"The Figure Trimmer"

The sensible exerciser that helps both men and women easily slim, firm and beautifully shape their bodies (in just minutes a day)

USES EXACT SAME PRINCIPLE AS UNITS ADVERTISED ON T.V. FOR $7.95 AND $9.95

AT LAST—the ingenious easy new physical fitness system, to help you: lose inches and pounds, improve the shape of your body, increase your sex appeal and feel and look years younger—and at the lowest price offered in the United States.

An Easy, Proven System That Takes Just Minutes A Day

It's easy—because you exercise while you lie on your back and do just 3 basic routines. And yet you exercise and tone every muscle in your arms, legs, abdomen, waist, back, neck and tummy—all the important, problem spots that you want to help keep trim, firm and beautiful.

We recommend you start at a moderate 2 to 3 minutes a day. You'll soon find that you want to increase this to 4, 5 and up to 15 minutes at a time. But, and this is important, you do it at your own pace and you find it easier and easier to exercise for longer periods. The rhythmic movements you use are so simple that any child of 5 can master them in one minute, because all you do is lift and bend your arms and legs and the "Figure Trimmer" won't let you make a mistake. A simple, fully illustrated instruction booklet for the basic exercises is included.

Use "The Figure Trimmer" Anywhere

Yes, use it in your bedroom, living room, office, even while you're away from home (it's so compact, it folds to fit right in a handbag or attache case and weighs only a mere 10 ounces). You never have to miss your regular exercise... use it anywhere you can lie down. Simply attach to bedpost, door-knob, etc., and it's ready to use.

To Help Weight Loss...

We recommend a moderate and sensible temporary 15 to 20% reduction in your normal food intake (while still eating exactly the same kinds of delicious foods you normally eat and like). You don't send any fat or crash diet, because your own doctor will tell you that these are harmful. We suggest you continue this moderation until you reach desired weight loss. After that, just eat normally and continue exercises to feel and look better and younger.

Important Note:

Dear Reader, Don't be confused: The competitive exerciser models you've seen on T.V. and in magazines for $7.95 and $9.95 work on exactly the same principle and in the same way as ours. By a special purchase from a manufacturer, we've been able to break the price wide open and offer "The Figure Trimmer" at this amazing low price!

Ironclad Guarantee

Our guarantee is simple. You must within 14 days see and feel your body toned up and feeling great—and look and feel years younger, or simply return unit for a prompt and complete refund. Mail order coupon today; you'll be glad you did.

sheet. Cover with 4 sheets of filo after brushing each with butter. Then repeat layers.

6. Make top layer with 8 sheets of filo after brushing each with remaining butter.

7. With small, sharp knife, cut lengthwise through first layer to make strips 1 1/2 inches wide. Then make diagonal cuts 2 inches apart in top layer to form diamonds.

8. Bake on rack above center of oven for 1 hour until well browned.

9. Remove from oven and cut through the first cuts, cutting to the bottom of pan.

10. Spread top with cold Honey Syrup (see recipe below). Let stand until completely cold before removing from pan. Makes 2 dozen slices.

*Editor's Note: Filo sheets can be found in refrigerated or freezer section of supermarket or specialty food store.

Honey Syrup

- 1 cup honey
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup water
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice

1. Combine honey, sugar and water in small saucepan. Heat, stirring, until sugar dissolves.

2. Remove from heat and stir in lemon juice. Cool thoroughly before using. Makes 1 1/2 cups.

QUICK LIVER PATE

- 1 pkg. (8 oz.) cream cheese, room temperature
- 1 pkg. (8 oz.) liverwurst sausage, chopped
- 2 tablespoons dry sherry
- 1 teaspoon mustard, preferably Dijon
- 1 tablespoon parsley, finely chopped
- 1/4 teaspoon basil leaves, finely crumbled
- Paraffin

1. In large bowl, with electric mixer, blend cream cheese with liverwurst until smooth.

2. Add sherry, mustard, parsley and basil. Beat until very smooth.

3. Pack into attractive crock. Seal surface with melted paraffin. Allow to cool, then refrigerate. Makes 2 cups.

NUT 'N' CANDY CHRISTMAS WREATH

- Cellophane or plastic film
- 2 lbs. mixed nuts, unshelled (walnuts, almonds, peanuts, Brazil nuts, etc.)
- 1 lb. gumdrops
- 1 roll wire (No. 28)
- Heavy cardboard, cut in 9-inch diameter circle
- 1 roll ribbon

1. Cut squares of cellophane about 2 inches larger than nut or gumdrop.

2. Wrap each tightly with cellophane, twisting gathered edges into "tail." Fasten each tail with a 6-inch length of wire. Continue until all are wrapped.

3. Form nut clusters and candy clusters by twisting wire stems of 5 or 6 wrapped nuts or candies together.

4. Start wreath by fastening a 20-inch length of wire to candy or nut cluster. Stick wire through cardboard and wrap it around cardboard to fasten securely. Wire clusters of nuts and candies in this way to form wreath. Wire clusters randomly, or create your own special pattern.

5. Trim with ribbon bow. Attach long ribbon for hanging wreath. Or to use as a centerpiece, place large candle (about 12 inches high, 3 inches wide) in center of wreath. Makes 1 wreath.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Babysitter Short-Changed

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 16-year-old girl who has been reading your column for a long time. I believe you give sound advice. Now I have a problem and I hope you can help me.

I've done babysitting for these people who are friends of my parents. They have four very active children. About four months ago I told the woman I thought I deserved an increase from 50 cents an hour to 75 cents. She said she'd compromise and pay me 60 cents.

I babysat for two other families and received 75 cents an hour from them. I really need the money but decided not to make an issue of it with this first lady because of the family friendship.

Three weeks ago, The Great Compromiser needed a sitter on short notice. I had another commitment. She begged me to find her another sitter. I did. She paid that girl 75 cents an hour. The following week I sat for her and she paid me 60 cents an hour. I am puzzled by her attitude.

I know this woman likes me and so do her children. I always do a good job and am completely reliable. Why won't she pay me 75 cents an hour? Please answer these questions and give me some advice. — Short-Changed

Dear Short: Would you pay a sitter 75 cents an hour if you knew you could get her for 60 cents? Well — this is the way Mrs. Compromiser has it figured.

When you make it clear that you are no longer available at the old price she will either pay the new price or get someone else and pay HER 75 cents an hour.

Home-Made Gifts

Dear Ann Landers: A word before the holidays on a problem that has gripped me for four years running.

Certain members of my family give homemade clothing for gifts at Christmas time. I'm not a snob about homemade gifts. Some of my relatives sew very well. But I hate to receive a gift with a note in the box that says, "Needs only a hem" — or, "All you have to do is fit this around the waist."

Those "last-minute touches" take anywhere from two to ten months. For example, last Christmas my mother-in-law made bedspreads for each of the children. They needed to be shortened "slightly." Almost a year has passed and I still haven't gotten around to it. How much better it would have been had Grandma purchased something. Anything.

Please say a word or two in your column about sending unfinished gifts. Ann, I'm sure this problem is not mine alone. — Finish It Or Don't Send It

Dear F.I.: I'm with you.

ANN LANDERS

Here's my message. Dear Readers: When you send someone an unfinished gift, you are sending them work. I can't say it any plainer than that.

Likes Reflection

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 15-year-old girl who is worried about becoming an egomaniac.

Whenever I pass a mirror I have to stop and look at myself. When I walk down the street, I often sneak looks at my own reflection in the store windows. Is this normal? I am — Secretly Worried

Dear S.W.: There's nothing abnormal about enjoying a quick glimpse at yourself in a mirror or sneaking a look at your reflection in a store window. If you stood for hours admiring yourself, I'd say you had a problem. But "Vanity, thy name is woman," and it shall be ever thus!

Ann Landers discusses teenage drinking — its myths, its realities. Learn the facts by reading "Booze and You — For Teen-Agers Only," by Ann Landers. Send 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Eau Claire Winter Concert

Dec. 17

EAU CLAIRE — Eau Claire middle school and high school music departments will present their annual winter concert Wednesday, Dec. 17, at 7:30 p.m. in the high school gymnasium.

Admission is free and the public is invited.

Design Mixes With Plastic

Early-American design combines with suds-loving plastic for still more decorative and practical household items!

A bright red or jet black coal scuttle with eagle motif functions as a handy container for magazines, newspapers, fireplace logs or catch-all.

A "little brown jug," in a size large enough to be a wastebasket or storage space for knitting supplies is also available.

FOR SUNDAY, DEC. 14, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19) One who fails to care for her possessions may try to borrow something today. It won't be returned in the same condition.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) A friend who sometimes does things erratically should be avoided at all cost today. This person could cause you problems.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be careful today not to let the cat out of the bag about something you were told not to repeat.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A small, intimate group would be far more appealing to you today than being caught up in the crush of a crowd.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Some of your views will not be popular with others today. Don't press your points too hard. Don't bring up touchy issues.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you're traveling today be sure your reservations are verified. There's a possibility arrangements could get fouled up.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A friend who has herself in a bit of a financial bind may suddenly make a request for a loan today.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Better discuss your plans today with your mate before making commitments. Your interests aren't on the same wavelength.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If you're working on a pet project today and want it realized the way you envision it, screen coworkers with care.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Keep a close eye on your youngsters today. It's possible they could get into something that would create havoc.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) This is one of those days when the last people you'd like to see may suddenly pop in on you, just at dinnertime.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You're likely to be in a very gregarious mood today. Just be sure you give others a chance to get in their two cents' worth, too.

FOR MONDAY, DEC. 15, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be extra careful today in financial dealings. You are susceptible to outside pressures that could cause you loss.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Someone who did a favor for you will seek its return today. Balance what they did for you against what they are requesting.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Problems you become embroiled in today will probably be of your making. Don't blame someone else for your plight and thus irritate them.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't prevail upon friends to do physical work for you today. Eliminate headaches. Hire a professional.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Curb your enthusiasm before associates about a project you're vitally interested in. They're not necessarily sold on it.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Square pegs don't fit in round holes, though that's the way you want it today. Back off when you find you're putting things in the wrong places.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Keep out of a friend's complex business affairs today. Your simplistic solution may make you the scapegoat they're seeking.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) This is not a good day to try to iron out a problem where money is an issue. Neither party will be happy at the outcome.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You'll be a bit irritated today by a friend who'll request aid in a very demeaning manner. Let him fend for himself.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Avoid doing anything socially today where you feel your presence is obligatory. You won't have fun. Others will be aware of it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) There's a good possibility domestic disturbances will erupt today. Keep cool. Don't pull an "I told you so."

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Things that normally wouldn't faze you will irritate you today, particularly if you're around people whose actions have bothered you in the past.

Opening lead — K

By Oswald & James Jacoby

For a few years in the early '30s the laws of contract provided a 2250-point bonus for a vulnerable grand slam and 1500 points for one bid when not vulnerable.

When Olga Hilliard (one of the great women players of that time) picked up the South hand in a rubber bridge game, her first thought was to open with a seven-diamond bid. Her second thought was that if she did that her opponents would bid seven in a major suit and take whatever penalty they might incur.

So Olga just opened two diamonds and continued to rebid in minimums. West bid all the way to five spades and then fell into her trap and doubled her at six.

Olga didn't redouble. That might have let the cat out of the bag. She just passed, ruffed the spade lead, drew trumps and claimed all the tricks. She didn't get the grand slam bonus, but she did get the small slam and rubber bonus, 240 points below the line, 150 honors, and 200 points for the extra trick. A lot better than 300 points for setting seven spades two tricks, doubled.

Family Films Tuesday

Opal mining in Australia, Nova Scotia's woodlands, and the pokey marine snail are subjects of movies to be presented for Family Film Night at Maud Preston Palenske Memorial library, St. Joseph, Tuesday, Dec. 16, at 7:30 p.m.

"All You Have to Do Is Dig" visits the "fossackers," both professionals and hobbyists who live in or visit the opal mining towns in Australia. "Blessings on the Woods" is a tribute to the beauty of Nova Scotia's woodlands expressed in poetry and recorded in filmed scenes that convey imagery of each line, and "Castles in the Sea" follows the unusual habits of the pokey but determined marine snail.

A story hour for preschool through second grade children will be held Saturday, Dec. 20, at 11 a.m.

A display of toys dating from 1837 to 1940 will be at the library for the month of December. New books at the library are "The Private Franklin" by Anne Lopez and Eugenia W. Herbert; "Washington Journal: The Events of 1773-74" by Elizabeth Drew, and "Life with William Randolph Hearst" by Marion Davies.

Ask the Jacobys

An Ohio reader asks us about the late William E. McKenney.

Oswald answers. Bill was a very dear friend. As executive secretary of the ACBL during its formative years he was largely responsible for its great success. He was author of this column until his death in 1949. The McKenney trophy is one of the most valued bridge awards.

(Editor's note: Oswald Jacoby has won it four times.)

Bake a holiday gift.

And bring back the feeling of an old-fashioned Christmas.

Give these delicious, home-baked Christmas cookies to someone special. But don't give away the secret ingredient, Karo Syrup. It's Karo that makes them so rich in good old-fashioned flavor, so crisp and tender. Karo makes cookies brown up smooth and even. Makes the different flavors come through richer, truer, fresher-tasting. No wonder these Karo Christmas Cookies bring back warm memories of a real old-fashioned Christmas.

Make a festive package from any type of box. A shoe box is ideal.

CHERRY DELIGHTS

Mix 1 cup Mazola margarine and ½ cup sugar. Stir in ½ cup KARO light corn syrup, 2 egg yolks and 2½ cups flour. Chill. Roll into 1-inch balls. Dip into slightly beaten egg whites then 2 cups finely chopped nuts. Place on greased baking sheet. Press candied cherry halves into centers. Bake in 325°F. oven 20 minutes. Makes 4 doz.

BROWNIE MOUNDS

Sift 3½ cups sifted flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder and ¼ teaspoon salt. Mix ¾ cup Mazola margarine and 1½ cups sugar. Stir in ¾ cup KARO light corn syrup and 2 eggs. Stir in flour. 6 (1-ounce) squares melted, unsweetened chocolate, 2 teaspoons vanilla and 1½ cups coarsely chopped nuts. Drop by heaping tablespoonfuls onto greased baking sheet. Bake in 350°F. oven 10 to 12 minutes. Makes 4 doz.

DECORATED SPICE COOKIES

Sift 3 cups sifted flour, 2 teaspoons ginger, 1½ teaspoons cinnamon and 1 teaspoon ground cloves. Mix 1 cup Mazola margarine and ½ cup sugar; stir in ½ cup KARO dark corn syrup. Mix in flour. Roll out ⅛-inch thick on floured surface. Cut into shapes. Place on baking sheet. Bake in 350°F. oven about 10 min. Decorate. Makes 8 doz. 2-inch cookies.

PECAN TARTS

Mix ½ cup Mazola margarine and ½ cup sugar. Stir in 2 egg yolks, 1 teaspoon almond extract and 2 cups sifted flour. Press evenly into tiny tart shells or muffin cups. Bake in 400°F. oven 8 to 10 minutes. Bring to boil ½ cup margarine, ¼ cup KARO dark corn syrup and 1 cup confectioners' sugar. Stir in 1 cup chopped pecans. Spoon into shells. Top with pecan halves. Bake in 350°F. oven 5 minutes. Makes 4 doz.

Moynihan Says He Speaks Up For U.S.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Ambassador Daniel P. Moynihan says when he speaks up on issues such as human rights in the United Nations it's on government orders and not on his own as critics have charged.

"If we have spoken to issues of human rights, we have done so at the order of our government, for the President and secretary of state, not on our own," Moynihan said Friday on receiving the Human Rights Prize of the International League for the Rights of Man.

The remark was taken as a reply to critics who suggest Moynihan is far ahead of U.S. government policy in concern for civil rights abroad. Many diplomats answering Moynihan in U.N. debate have addressed themselves to the American's outspoken style rather than to the issues he has raised.

The ambassador suggested Friday that Americans may have to become more tolerant of governments showing "willingness to permit basic human liberties — even in contexts not attractive."

This could apply to U.S. allies run by one-party governments that maintain reasonable standards of individual freedom.

"With only two-dozen democracies left in the world," he said, "it is no longer tenable" to measure approval or disapproval of others by traditional standards of democracy.

For the United States itself, however, "it's all or nothing.... The alternative is that great totalitarian night," he said.

Moynihan turned the award ceremony in a Manhattan townhouse into an impromptu demonstration of solidarity with Soviet dissidents Sergei Kovalev and Andrei Sakharov.

He told the crowd of about 200 that Kovalev was sentenced Friday to seven years in prison and three years in exile on a conviction of circulating information about persecution of the Lithuanian Catholic Church and that Sakharov, winner of the Nobel Peace Prize, had branded this "a challenge to the conscience of mankind."

"He is not alone — and that matters," Moynihan said, to a burst of applause.

Jerome J. Shestack, the Philadelphia lawyer who heads the International League, a private human rights organization, said that until Moynihan's arrival at the United Nations human rights there were "badly in need of a champion."

Diplomats from Liberia, Costa Rica, Britain, Israel, Canada and Austria attended the ceremony at which Moynihan was given a replica of the ink set used by Thomas Jefferson to sign the Declaration of Independence.

Liberian Ambassador-at-

Large T.O. Dosumu Johnson said in a speech that Moynihan was a man afraid neither of speaking the truth nor of losing his job.

Politicians distrust a man who speaks the truth, Johnson said. Turning to Moynihan, he predicted that in time "you will lose your job, but you will reap your reward when men, women and children come up to you and say, 'This was a man.'"

MURDER SUSPECT ARRAIGNED: Steven Maleno, 25, flanked by Philadelphia detectives, is arraigned on charges of murder, attempted murder, conspiracy and assault in slaying of newspaper heir John S. Knight III. Maleno, of south Philadelphia, surrendered to police early Friday, hours after he was named as one of three suspects in the Knight murder. (AP Wirephoto)

FBI Joins Search For Murder Suspect

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The FBI has joined in the search for Salvatore Soli, a convicted drug user with a record of more than 50 arrests who is wanted in the murder of newspaper editor John S. Knight 3rd.

Another man surrendered shortly after police identified the alleged killers Thursday night, and the bullet-riddled body of the third suspect was discovered early Friday at a New Jersey country club.

Knight, 30, was stabbed to death in his expensive downtown apartment Sunday morning, triggering one of the most intensive criminal investigations in the city's history.

Police and FBI agents combed South Philadelphia and southern New Jersey for leads to the whereabouts of Soli, 37. In papers filed with U.S.

Magistrate Tullio G. Leonpurra, police said they had information Soli was staying at motels around Mount Ephraim, N.J., in the general area where the body of Isais "Felix" Melendez, was found.

The magistrate issued warrants for Soli's arrest on charges of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution. That brought the FBI into the case.

The body of Melendez, 20, of South Philadelphia, was discovered about 8:30 a.m. Friday by a golf caddy walking home from the Pine Valley Country Club near Clementon, N.J.

Police said Melendez had been shot once through the head and twice in the chest with a small-caliber weapon. Detectives said the body appeared to have been dumped there several hours before it was found.

GM Asks Pollution Exemption

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — General Motors Corp. is seeking a three-month exemption from state air pollution rules to test a power plant boiler at a plant in Saginaw.

GM wants to begin testing a procedure which the auto maker says could result in a substantial reduction in industrial oil consumption. The test will begin in March and will result in emissions which will exceed state standards, according to the state Air Pollution Control Commission.

The commission will make a decision on GM's request for a "variance" from state emissions standards at its Dec. 15-16 meeting.

The procedure GM intends to test involves mixing pulverized coal with fuel oil for combustion in oil-fired boilers. Proponents say that if successful, boilers could use up to 40 per cent less oil.

Scotland Yard: Terror Isn't Over Yet

HOSTAGE FREED: A hooded gunman stands with Mrs. Sheila Matthews on the balcony of her London, England, flat as she was released as a hostage of the Irish gunmen Friday. The gunmen later surrendered to police. (AP Wirephoto)

LONDON (AP) — Scotland Yard warned the public today that the surrender of four Irish gunmen after a six-day siege in a downtown London apartment does not mean an end to terrorist attacks in Britain.

"We have seen an abject surrender, but let no one assume the campaign is over. The IRA may be the first to remind us of this," a spokesman for the Yard said.

Police suspect the gunmen — known to them during the siege only as "Tom," "Mick," "Paddy" and "Z" — are members of an IRA unit responsible for bombings and shootings around London in the last few months in which nine persons died and scores were wounded.

The public was reminded to remain vigilant, especially during Christmas shopping periods, and to be wary of suspicious parcels and especially packages under cars that might prove to be bombs.

The warning referred to the Irish Republican Army which seeks to drive the British from Northern Ireland and unite the British province with the Irish republic to the south.

Police sources said one of the four gunmen was expected to be charged today in the murder of Ross McWhirter, coeditor of "The Guinness Book of World Record."

They said the three others will be charged with bombings and shootings in London's West End.

During the siege police said they believed one of the four was Michael Wilson, accused killer of antiterrorist crusader Ross McWhirter. McWhirter was shot dead on his doorstep Nov. 27 as he was welcoming his wife home.

The four men gave themselves up Friday without resistance after releasing a middle-aged couple they had been holding hostage in one room of the couple's apartment.

The four, armed with four handguns and a rifle, burst into the apartment last Saturday night after fleeing a police ambush.

The hostages, postal inspector

John Matthews, 54, and his wife Sheila, 53, spent the night at University College Hospital. Matthews was said to be remarkably fit, but his wife was described as "very tired."

After the siege authorities refused to confirm whether Wilson was among the four gunmen, but police sources said they expected one would be charged with the murder.

Police said the Matthews couple had behaved in "typical staunch British" fashion during the ordeal and Queen Elizabeth II sent her congratulations.

Released on the balcony of the second-story apartment at 2:15 p.m. during a drizzling rain, Mrs. Matthews, who had been denied fresh food for five days of the siege, asked for a cup of tea.

Her husband was released two hours later.

The gunmen surrendered shortly afterward, coming out one by one with their heads over their heads.

Santa Claus Will Visit In New Troy, Glendora

NEW TROY — Santa Claus will be at two locations in Weesaw township on Thursday, Dec. 18, according to members of the Weesaw township fire department who are sponsoring his visit. There will be a Santa at New Troy school and also one at Trinity Lutheran church in Glendora. Both visits are from 6 p.m. to 8:30 p.m.

Illinois Man Joins Clark Axle Division

BUCHANAN — Thomas M. Fry has been named manager of industrial engineering for Clark Equipment company's Axle Division here, according to Louis Proctor, vice president of manufacturing.

Fry joins the axle division after having served with the Roper Corp. of Bradley, Ill., where he was a project engineer for three years, and in 1971, was named supervisor of industrial engineering.

Prior to that, he spent five years with Owens Brugh company of Iowa City, Iowa as plant manager, and five years with the Industrial Equipment division of John Deere in Moline, Ill. as standards engineer.

He attended General Motors Institute and the University of Iowa. Active in Jaycees and Boy Scouts, Fry is a member of the American Institute of Industrial Engineers, the American Society of Lubricating Engineers, and the Society of Mechanical Engineers.

Whalen Free Despite Order

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — John Whalen will remain free, despite an appeals court order that he be jailed by this Sunday, says a Supreme Court clerk.

Last month the Court of Appeals ordered the $50,000 bond on Whalen, key witness against former Supreme Court Justice John Swainson, be lifted 20 days later, or this Sunday.

The appeals court said Whalen had been free for six years since the original burglary of an Adrian jewelry store, and "enough is enough."

But a Supreme Court clerk said Friday the high court now has jurisdiction over Whalen's case and nothing could be done about putting him in jail unless the Supreme Court decided to.

The Supreme Court is considering Whalen's second appeal of appeals court rulings which have twice upheld his original 1970 burglary conviction.

The first time around, two years ago, Whalen allegedly made a financial deal with then Supreme Court Justice Swainson to have his case heard by the high court. The Supreme Court granted Whalen a new trial, and the case is now back to the Supreme Court again.

Swainson, a former governor, was convicted of perjury in November on Whalen's, and others' testimony, though he was found innocent of bribery and conspiracy charges. He resigned from the bench a few days after his conviction.

Whalen's whereabouts are not known, although his attorney said Whalen is under police protection following an alleged arson incident at Whalen's St. Clair Shores home.

COLBY ACCUSES PIKE: CIA Director William Colby, left, appearing before the House Intelligence Committee in Washington Friday, accused Chairman Otis Pike, D-N.Y., of "frightening people" by saying several months ago that U.S. intelligence was incapable of predicting an attack on America. Colby also said U.S. intelligence efforts must not be dismantled in 1975 as U.S. defenses were in the years following World War II. (AP Wirephoto)

Angola Not Vietnam, Colby Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — CIA Director William E. Colby, all but confirming that the United States is conducting a paramilitary campaign in Angola, says there is no similarity between U.S. activity in the African nation and involvement in Vietnam.

Colby was quizzed by the House intelligence committee on Friday about reports of U.S. involvement in Angolan strife.

He appeared to confirm U.S. activity in Angola by telling the committee the War Powers Act is not being violated because "paramilitary operations were stricken from" the act.

CIA officials have defined paramilitary operations as U.S. support for forces of other countries short of involving U.S. combat troops. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger had already indicated such support was being supplied to Angolan factions.

Colby said no Americans are involved in fighting in Angola but refused to comment on published reports that the United States has supplied $50 million to Angolan forces through neighboring Zaire.

Colby phrased his comments so that he never specifically confirmed U.S. operations in Angola. But he made it clear they are being conducted.

He said that when the United States sees the Soviet Union "trying to expand its power" it has to decide whether to react. Many times, he said, the United States decides not to react.

But, he said, "when it becomes a clear case of trying to overpower other forces" with Soviet trained, equipped and armed forces and Cuban technical assistance "then you begin to wonder what is the long term view of the Soviet Union's potential role there."

"You can say we can do nothing and it may go away and you might be right. But is it more prudent for the United States to take some modest action to do nothing?"

Colby said there is no similarity between any U.S. action in Angola and American involvement in Vietnam. Angola is a situation where the United States must decide whether to participate in a "modest" way, he said, while Vietnam was a case of "massive military commitment."

Colby refused to comment on reports that the United States is supplying $50 million in aid to Zaire to oppose Angolan forces which Colby said have been trained and equipped by the Soviets and Cubans.

Meanwhile, a senior State Department official said he did not know the exact amount the United States had given to anti-Soviet factions. But he said a report in The New York Times that the United States has spent $25 million and planned to spend another $25 million was more in line with his understanding than a report in The Washington Post $50 million has been spent.

Colby for the first time listed a series of what he called U.S. intelligence successes and accused Chairman Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y., of "frightening people" with the statement several months ago that U.S. intelligence probably could not predict an attack on America.

Townships Group Sues Founder For $47,000

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Michigan Townships Association has filed a lawsuit against its founder over missing money.

A civil suit was filed Friday in Ingham County Circuit Court seeking repayment of $47,000 in association funds from John Parisi Jr. of Kalamazoo, said Robert Robinson, the group's executive director.

Parisi, 49, served as the association's first executive director for some 20 years until he was fired in March 1975, Robinson said.

"The suit was filed by the board of directors of the association to seek the recovery of more than $47,000 in association funds plus other costs which were found to be missing or inadequately accounted for," Robinson said.

Parisi was unavailable for comment. His wife said he is suffering from heart problems and is unable to work because of poor health.

The suit also asks payment of Parisi's former surety bond with the Auto-Owners Insurance Co. of Lansing and "damages for professional negligence" from the Kalamazoo accounting firm of Siegfried, Crandall, Voss and Egley, which audited the association's books, Robinson said.

He refused to say how or when the association discovered the alleged loss of money.

The case has been assigned to Judge Donald Reisch. Hearing dates have not been set.

Kidnap Move

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Murder charges can be expected in the kidnaping and knife slaying of a Detroit banker, law enforcement officials from two states agreed Friday.

Three men and a woman have been charged in the kidnaping of James J. Crawford, 25, an assistant branch manager for the National Bank of Detroit.

The men have been charged with conspiracy to commit bank larceny by use of a hostage. The woman has been charged with being an accessory after the fact of kidnaping. They face hearings Dec. 18.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Richard D. DeLonis in Detroit said murder charges probably would be filed in Crawford's death but that they would come from Ohio.

Max Marston, sheriff in Licking County where Crawford's bloodstained, knife-slashed body was found Thursday, said murder charges would be filed by his office but he didn't know when or against whom.

The U.S. Attorney's office here said state charges probably would await the outcome of federal legal proceedings against the men in Detroit, where Crawford was kidnaped Dec. 5 as he reported for work.

An affidavit filed by federal officials in Detroit indicated Crawford was marked for death from the time he was abducted. The affidavit in U.S. District Court said an informant told police the kidnapers planned to kill Crawford when they received $250,000 in ransom.

Dutch May Use Force

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands (AP) — Premier Joop den Uyl says he will not rule out the use of force to free 53 hostages held by South Moluccan nationalists in two sieges.

Den Uyl, speaking to reporters late Friday, said "there are no clear prospects for a quick, bloodless end to the sieges" in which four persons have died.

He voiced concern for the health of the hostages, some of whom have been captive for nearly two weeks. He met with top ministers at The Hague into the early hours today.

In his latest offer, the premier promised that The Netherlands would reconsider its stand on the South Moluccan issue after the hostages are released.

FAIR TRADE BILL SIGNED
WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumers will soon be getting a break of more than $2 billion a year in the marketplace on items ranging from liquor to small appliances, according to President Ford and supporters of a law that repeals state "fair trade" statutes.

Perjury Hinted In Chile Quiz

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate intelligence committee's investigation of U.S. covert operations in Chile "indicates that perjury may have been committed" by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and three other present or former top U.S. officials, according to Sen. Gary Hart, a Democrat from Colorado, stopped short of calling any of them a liar. Instead, he cited examples of their statements to other congressional committees "which appear to be misleading at best, or, perhaps, perjurious." The other three mentioned by Hart are former CIA Director Richard M. Helms, former U.S. Ambassador to Chile Edward Korry and Charles Meyer, assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs.

Perry Como:

"Try My Festive Salad This Christmas!"

A Celebrity Cooks

By Perry Como

In Conversation with Helen Dorsey

I must tell you a very funny story! I never knew about stuffing a turkey until I got married. My mother didn't stuff turkey. She quartered the bird, then she put it in a pan with potatoes, put in some butter and baked it. The first time my wife, Roselle, came over for Christmas dinner, I told her, "We're going to have turkey and all the trimmings!" She looked at that cut-up bird lying on the table and asked, "Where's the turkey?"

My mother was Italian, of course, and she cooked everything so differently from the way we do here! Her spaghetti even tasted different. She used a lot of fresh ingredients they don't use today. My mother made home-made tomato purée from tomatoes my father grew in the garden. And her parsley was always from the garden—none of this dried stuff you find now.

Roselle is an excellent cook. We have the traditional dinner on Christmas: turkey, sweet potatoes, salads, cranberries and pies (fresh key lime pie, pumpkin chiffon). With grandchildren you've got to have a turkey. I always starve for about a week ahead. I put on weight so easily!

CHRISTMAS RIBBON SALAD

Layer One

- 1 pkg. (3 ozs.) lime-flavored gelatin
- 1 cup hot water
- ¼ cup ginger ale
- 2 tablespoons fresh lemon or lime juice
- 1 can (8 ozs.) crushed pineapple, drained
- 1 red apple, unpeeled and diced
- 1 cup mandarin oranges, well drained

Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Add ginger ale and juice. Pour into 4-qt. glass baking dish or mold. Chill until slightly thickened. Stir in remaining ingredients. Cover, chill until almost firm.

Layer Two

- 1 pkg. (3 ozs.) lime-flavored gelatin
- ½ cup boiling water
- 1 cup chopped walnuts
- 2 cups cottage cheese (cream-style)
- 2 tablespoons mayonnaise
- 1 cup heavy cream, whipped

Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Let cool. Chill in refrigerator until thickened. Stir in remaining ingredients. Pour over first layer and chill until almost firm.

Layer Three

- 1 pkg. (3 ozs.) lime-flavored gelatin
- 1 cup hot water
- ¼ cup ginger ale
- 2 tablespoons fresh lemon or lime juice
- 1 red apple unpeeled and diced
- 1 cup mandarin oranges, well drained
- ½ ripe California avocado, sliced

Proceed as directed in Layer One. Wait until gelatin has thickened before adding apple and oranges. Pour over top two layers. Chill until very firm. Unmold. Garnish with avocado slices and lettuce. Lovely for a Christmas buffet!

Serves 8 to 10.

Note: Try raspberry or cherry gelatin with red fruits (cherries, raspberries, cranberries) for one of the layers.

Appeal Reversal Asked In Suit

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

A former laboratory technician trainee at St. Joseph Memorial hospital has filed suit in Berrien Circuit court, asking the court to reverse a decision by an appeal board and grant her unemployment benefits.

The suit was filed by Vickie A. Pailing, of 604 West John Beers road, Stevensville, who also seeks retroactive benefits from the time her employment was terminated.

DIAL-A-JUDGE: Judge Charles Goff, assigned to the civil division of San Francisco Municipal Court, conducts a pretrial hearing by phone in his office Friday. Goff decided it was "boring and expensive" for lawyers to sit in civil court through long pretrial hearings, so he started conducting them over the telephone last Monday as a one-week experiment. Sitting in his City Hall office, he would have the telephone operator get opposing attorneys on the line for a conference call and then preside over a three-way conversation. (AP Wirephoto)

Asks For Hearing

PAW PAW — Gloria Bianchetti, 34, 3700 South 50th street, Lawrence, demanded preliminary examination on a charge of writing three non-sufficient fund checks within 10 days when arraigned yesterday in Van Buren Seventh district court.

According to the charge, she issued three non-sufficient fund checks totaling $219 between Oct. 31 and Nov. 7 to private individuals.

Mrs. Bianchetti was released on her own recognizance pending a Dec. 23 hearing.

Pailing, of 604 West John Beers road, Stevensville, who also seeks retroactive benefits from the time her employment was terminated.

Cited as defendants were Memorial hospital and the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

The suit seeks the reversal of the employment security appeal board decision, claiming Mrs. Pailing was "accused of misconduct in her performance" but noting no testimony at a hearing supported a finding of misconduct or grounds for denial of benefits.

The suit contends the hearing was held before a state referee in St. Joseph on Feb. 24, 1975, and he ruled Mrs. Pailing was entitled to unemployment benefits. The suit says Memorial appealed that decision, and on Oct. 2 an appeal board ruled in favor of the hospital. Mrs. Pailing claims she asked for a rehearing, which was denied Nov. 21.

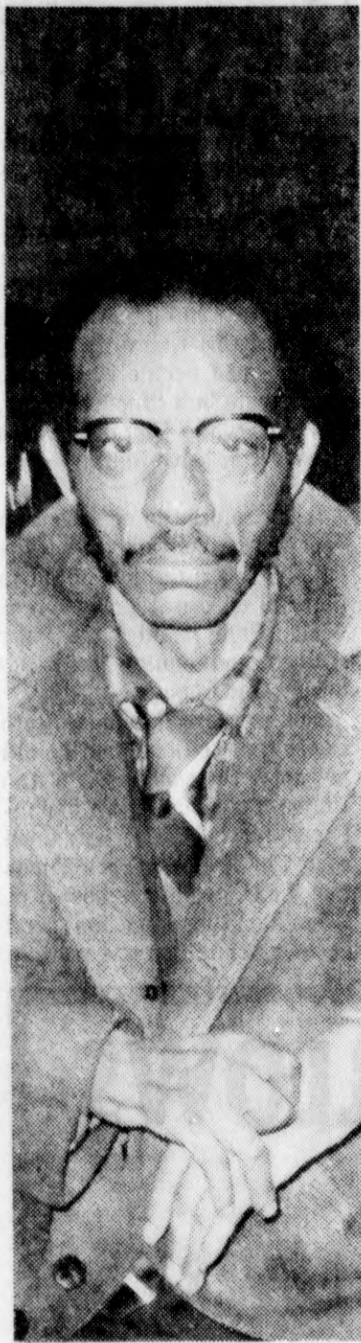

A hearing transcript in the suit notes Mrs. Pailing was hired on April 19, 1974, to work in the hospital's laboratory, and was allowed to resign on Sept. 23, 1974.

Hospital officials charged she prepared incorrect reports, mislabeled blood samples, and came up with improper test results, which the hospital claimed was careless and defective work.

Berrien Building Authority Re-Elects And Re-Invests

The Berrien county building authority in a routine quarterly meeting yesterday re-elected the same officers and authorized re-investment of $200,000.

Officers for the building authority, landlord of the courthouse in St. Joseph, are: Allen W. Baker, Jr., chairman; Joseph Schulte, vice chairman; George Behner, secretary and County Treasurer William Heyn as treasurer.

Other members of the authority include John E. Steele, Doyle Barkmeier, John Spelman, and James Dittmar.

Members learned a certificate of deposit for $195,000 held by the First National Bank of Watervliet comes due Dec. 19, netting interest of $5,915, according to Heyn. He said that will give the authority a cash-on-hand balance of $204,723, and the authority authorized him to re-invest $200,000 for six months at the best interest rate available.

Authority members also set meeting dates for 1976 the same as in previous years, with the authority to meet the second Friday of March, June, September, and December.

Alabaman Loses $1.8 Suit Against Clark

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

An Alabaman who became a quadriplegic as the result of an industrial accident lost his bid for $1.8 million in damages from Clark Equipment Co. when a Berrien Circuit court jury found in favor of Clark.

The three man, three woman jury deliberated only 1 hour and 42 minutes yesterday before returning a verdict against Listeon Hill, 52, of Mobile, Ala., to cap a seven-day civil trial in Judge Julian Hughes' courtroom.

Hill was injured on Oct. 4, 1963, while unloading cardboard bales from a boxcar in a Mobile warehouse when a bale fell, hit him on the back, and knocked him to the floor, resulting in paralysis from the neck down.

He claimed he was driving a Clark lift truck, manufactured in 1951, and that Clark was negligent in failing to equip the machine with an overhead protective guard and failing to warn operators that the machine should not be operated in areas where boxes or other goods are stacked high.

Clark during the trial contended the danger should have been obvious, not necessitating a need for a warning. The company also claimed it was the custom of the industry in the early 1950's not to equip lift trucks with a canopy, but that dealers or purchasers would have them installed depending upon the use of the vehicle.

The trial was unusual because the jury was also required to decide whether a statute of limitations had expired before Hill filed suit, which in effect is what the jury ruled in its 5 to 1 decision.

Alabama law, under which the suit was filed, gives a plaintiff one year after an accident in which to file suit, and Hill did not file until 1966. But his attorneys claimed the statute was not applicable because Hill became incompetent from the accident and was incapable of recognizing his legal obligations.

The jury's verdict supported a 1969 decision by Hughes when he found in favor of Clark on the same basis and issued a summary judgment. But Hill appealed to the Michigan Court of Appeals, which sent the case back to Berrien Circuit court and said the issue on the statute of limitations was a question a jury must decide. Atty. William Buchanan, of Grand Rapids, represented Clark in the trial, while Hill's attorneys were Peter Cicinelli and T.L. Majoros, both of Saginaw, and Joseph Matranga, of Mobile.

Judge Orders Mental Tests For Sara

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A psychiatric examination has been ordered this weekend for Sara Jane Moore, who says she "willfully and knowingly" attempted to kill President Ford. Miss Moore, a one-time FBI informant, tried on Friday to change her plea to guilty of the attempted assassination of the President. She said she was ready to answer for her acts.

U.S. District Court Judge Samuel Conti, who must decide whether to accept the new plea, said he wanted to be assured that Miss Moore is mentally competent to give up her constitutional right to a trial. "If you enter this plea of guilty," he told her, "there is a possibility you can be sent to jail for life."

The matronly, middle-aged Miss Moore said she realized the consequences but saw no "reasonably honest and honorable way I can avoid it...."

"There comes a point when we each have to answer to ourselves, and it is with our own conscience that we must make peace," she said.

She indicated she had political motivations for firing a gun at Ford as he left a downtown San Francisco hotel Sept. 22. A bystander deflected the gun, and the bullet missed the President.

Reading calmly from a written statement, Miss Moore cited alleged U.S. government involvement in assassination plots against foreign leaders, including Cuban Premier Fidel Castro, Chilean President Salvador Allende and Congolese leader Patrice Lumumba.

"When any government uses assassination, whether of political leaders in other countries or of its own citizens, to put down dissent or to hide its own repressive actions, it must expect that tool to be turned back against it," she said.

"I did willfully and knowingly attempt to murder Gerald R. Ford, the President of the United States. I knew what I was doing, knew it was illegal, had control of my actions and made a conscious and deliberate decision to act as I did.... Now I am ready to answer for my own acts."

Miss Moore, 45, has a long history of mental illness. The judge expressed concern about her present competence as well as her mental state at the time of the alleged offense.

He left open the possibility that the trial, which had been scheduled to begin Monday, might still be held if he refuses to accept the plea.

"You have to live with your actions the rest of your life," the judge told Miss Moore. "And I have to live with this for all of mine."

He appointed Dr. Robert Jack Bardley to examine Miss Moore over the weekend and scheduled an 11 a.m. hearing Monday for Bardley's report.

Bardley, a psychiatrist at the Springfield, Mo., federal medical facility, examined Miss Moore previously and said she was competent to stand trial.

Miss Moore's attorney, Public Defender James Hewitt, who had planned a defense of insanity and diminished capacity for Miss Moore, said he advised against changing her plea.

"It's against my advice," he said. "I didn't want her to do it."

Eye Saver

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Invest $1.50 and save your eyes while hunting, says a state Department of Natural Resources official.

Chances are if you're hunting grouse, pheasant or rabbit this season, your eyes could be injured by buckshot and you could go blind like two hunters did last year, says James R. Walker, recreational safety specialist.

Walker says hunters who are smart will spend $1.50 on a pair of plastic safety glasses, available at sporting goods stores.

City Hall Site For Payments

COLOMA — Mrs. Gladys VanDerveer, Coloma city treasurer, said she will be at the city hall here on Jan. 10 and 24, and again on Feb. 14 to receive tax payments. She said she will be at the office from 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 4 p.m. on the three dates.

According to Mrs. VanDerveer, $348,206 was to be collected with $253,912 to go to schools. The balance would go to the county and a special drain tax.

WANTS TO CHANGE PLEA: Sara Jane Moore told a judge in San Francisco Friday she wants to change her plea to guilty on charges of trying to kill President Ford. She declared, "I did willfully and knowingly try to assassinate Gerald R. Ford, President of the United States." (AP Wirephoto)

COLOMA NEED CITED Post Office Push Renewed

COLOMA — City officials here have renewed their efforts to seek a new Coloma post office.

Coloma Mayor Glenn Randall has confirmed the city commission authorized City Clerk Mrs. Patricia Beezley to write letters to State Rep. Bela Kennedy and U.S. Rep. Edward Hutchinson asking them to reopen the case for a new post office, and if needed, push for the approval.

Randall said the need for a new post office providing off-street parking in an area close to the existing building is the only answer to resolving parking and traffic problems at the present site on West Logan street.

Last month the city commission authorized a reduced parking time limit in front of the post office and a parking ban along Federal court alongside the building.

Randall said one suitable site for a new post office would be at the southwest corner of West Logan and West streets west of the present building.

Randall said he feels the chances are very good that Coloma will be approved for a new post office.

A previous effort for a new post office faded in Sept., 1971, when the prospective site for a new building was acquired by a loan association for a permanent branch office.

The existing building was opened in 1957.

U.S. Links Union Loan To Mafia

DETROIT (AP) — Law enforcement sources and records show a $670,000 loan from the Teamsters Central States Pension Fund was made last January to a man the U.S. Justice Department has identified as a top Detroit Mafia figure.

The reputed Mafia figure is Jack W. Tocco. Records show the Teamsters loan went to Tocco and his partners for a tennis club venture in the Macomb County community of Warren.

Tocco was named by the U.S. Justice Department as one of the top organized crime figures in Detroit, an allegation that Tocco has strenuously and frequently denied.

Tocco's partners in the tennis club venture are his brother, Anthony; Carlo Licata, an alleged associate of several reputed mob figures; and Jack Tocco's brother-in-law; and Sam Barone of Detroit, records show.

The men's wives also are listed in Macomb County records as co-partners in Warren Tennis properties, the company which acquired the Teamsters loan. The four men are listed in the same records as officers of the Warren Tennis Club.

Should Be Illegal To Lie, Says Candidate

ATTY. JAMES ELSMAR
Seeks Hart's seat

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP) — An "independent" Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate says there should be a law against public officials lying.

Birmingham attorney James L. Elsmar, 39, will seek his party's nomination in 1976 for the Senate seat being vacated by retiring Sen. Philip Hart.

"Do you realize that I can't find any specific law preventing government officials from lying to the people?" Elsmar asked. He said his solution to the Watergate-era problem of official obstruction of justice would be a law forbidding lies by officials.

"If politicians won't vote for a Public Lying Law, then we citizens should give ourselves a Bicentennial present with a constitutional amendment," Elsmar said.

He said he will kick off his campaign with a 10-mile jog in Detroit. The run, he said, will be a symbolic attempt "to shape up the country physically, politically and morally."

It is the Kalamazoo native's second bid for a Senate seat. Elsmar ran in the 1966 Democratic primary as an anti-war candidate but finished far behind former Gov. G. Mennen Williams and former Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh.

Others seeking the Democratic nomination are Congressmen James O'Hara of Utica and Don Riegle of Flint and state Sen. John Otterbacher of Grand Rapids.

Elsmar said he wants a volunteer staff from Republicans, independents and Democrats.

"I'm really an independent myself, but feel the Democratic party is closer to the people's interests generally," he said.

Elsmar defined election-year issues as:

- Dangerous government overspending on welfare.
- Continued unemployment and economic stagnation.
- Increased crime.
- Government abuse of power.

—Government's attempt to forcefully integrate society through the unreasonable means of school busing.

—And a Kissinger-run foreign policy that seems to make us more insecure than secure.

The University of Michigan law school graduate said he will propose solutions to these problems as the Senate race develops.

Elsmar has held several appointive bar and government appointments in the field of international law and relations, and has served in Michigan Partners for the Alliance of Progress with Latin America.

He and his wife, Janice, who is an officer in Michigan Common Cause, have a son and daughter.

Fatal Fire Believed To Be Arson

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "Everybody was just hanging out their windows, screaming, trying to get out."

Randy Bates, 21, was describing the horror of a deliberately set fire that killed 12 persons early Friday when it roared through an apartment building whose owners had been accused of 40 code violations. Officers said 100 to 125 persons were in the building at the time. A lawyer for the owners said he believed most of the violations had been corrected.

Firemen sifted through the rubble in the city's Mission District for other possible victims, and homicide detectives pondered the motive of the arsonist who touched off the predawn blaze.

Diggers Of Dump 'No Show'

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP) — Although federal authorities have stated in court that they have information which may lead them to the body of former Teamsters boss James R. Hoffa in a landfill here, there's still no word on when digging will begin at "Brother Moscato's Dump."

According to an affidavit filed two days ago in U.S. District Court here, a secret witness has given federal investigators more specific information on where to look for Hoffa's body or the bodies of others in the 60-acre landfill, but sources said there wasn't any digging because federal agents were still studying testimony from the witness for more precise details.

Although there were no law enforcement officials in evidence Friday at the dump, situated beneath the Pulaski Skyway in the heavily industrialized section of Hudson County, scores of newsmen and onlookers gathered to await the arrival of bulldozers and other heavy equipment.

William Spedding, Jersey City director of public works, said he was informed late last week "to be ready to assist in the digging if we are asked." He said the city owns three bulldozers and three back hoes that could be used in excavating at the dump.

Spedding said he had no word in the last two days on plans to begin digging and said he was not worried about problems of methane gas at the site, saying, "It's no big deal. We move earth around everyday. Except for the intrigue of maybe finding Jimmy Hoffa out there, it would be rather boring."

But City Engineer Richard Jenny said methane gas trapped underneath the surface could touch off a fire if pressure is improperly applied.

Jenny said the fact that the landfill has not been actively open for about six years would lessen the potential problems, but he said, "A fire could still start out there."

According to Jenny, the fire hazard could be minimized if "they wet it down while they're pulling dirt up. If care is exercised, then nothing will happen."

Another potential problem, according to Jenny, is the buried contents of the dump. "Let's say there's some chemicals in drums. The barrels may be rotted and if they're moved they may mix with other chemicals."

Interest in the dumping site resurfaced Thursday when Robert C. Stewart, a member of the U.S. Organized Crime Strike Force in Newark, said there were new leads in the case pertaining to the landfill.

"Within the past 24 hours the government has received information from an informant whose information has proved reliable in the past, which should enable the government to focus attention upon a more precise and limited area of the dump," Stewart said in an affidavit used to obtain an extension of a search warrant granted last week.

The warrant gives federal authorities the right to search for the body of Armand Faugno, an reputed underworld figure who disappeared three years ago and had close ties to various persons implicated in the Hoffa disappearance. But sources say Hoffa's body is the real focus of interest in the dump.

Kmart PLAZA 455 RIVERVIEW DRIVE

Now—for the first time—an international Jet-Setter reveals the "inside" story:

How The Beautiful People Get Rid Of Both Cellulite And Ordinary Fat—Without Dieting!

Yes, the Beautiful People cannot afford to be fat!

Those stunning, sleekly-slim couples who grace the pages of the fashion magazines and society columns...who spend each new Season in New York and Cannes and Saint Moritz and Saint Tropez...who live surrounded by a horde of admirers and photographers must remain youthful and slim right up to 50...60...70!

And yet they eat lavishly, feasting on exotic cuisines as they travel the globe, but always retaining their fantastic figures.

And, if you were to ask them what they do to maintain their Beautiful People Bodies, the answer would always be the same: "I don't do ANYTHING; I don't diet!"

That's right! The Beautiful People Don't Diet! They enjoy the finest food in the world and yet the needle on the scale barely moves! How do they do it?

For the first time, Luciana Avedon (former Princess Pignatelli and now the wife of the European cosmetics executive, Burt S. Avedon) reveals the "BEAUTIFUL PEOPLE MIRACLE FORMULA" responsible for all those lusciously sleek figures of the society pages. How they NEVER go on fat diets, NEVER take dangerous anorexemics, diuretics or diet pills, and NEVER give up their favorite foods either! How they simply go right on eating the foods they like—but in a special way that keeps them always fashionably slim, without their having to jump on (and off) the diet merry-go-round.

To give just a few examples: One California socialite says: "I always keep my weight fluctuation within two pounds. It's bad for the face when you go up and down."

Another stunning fashion leader says: "I weighed more at age 25 than I do now." (She's now 37!)

Another says: "Sitting down to nothing but clear soup or health food depresses me; it makes me feel like an invalid."

And another Italian Beauty confesses: "Take away pasta and I would die!"

But yet they know how to splurge like this without incurring disaster on the scales! They get their food kicks—constantly—but their figures never show it!

They eat the finest food in the world (even the delicacies and "tempters" you'd be horrified to touch), but they do it in a way that never lets them put on more weight than they can simply "peel off" in a few days any time they desire to!

In fact, these Beautiful People secrets of delicious figure-maintenance are so powerful that, when one young, overweight model was introduced to just one of them, she lost 22 pounds in one month and stayed at that weight from then on! And another young girl, when shown how, lost 20 "impossible" pounds in two short months, even though not a single meal demanded special preparation!

So, From Now On, Forget About Debilitating Diets! The Beautiful People Don't Use Them—Why Should You?

Once again, let us emphasize that the Beautiful People think dieting is a "hoax." They eat well—very well—and they are not fat! They wouldn't think of giving up their favorite foods and the needle on the scale barely changes!

Why then shouldn't you follow their plan and lose weight—pounds and pounds and pounds of it! The process is the same, even if you start with a 50 pound burden. And you do it all by yourself (without "fat" doctors, or the group therapy approach of diet clubs.) And, yet, (to repeat once again) you do not "sacrifice" the foods you love for a single minute!

Yes, you can still enjoy parties, restaurants, business lunches or dinners, and "super-relaxed" vacations. You can eat all the foods you usually do, and still find the pounds and inches gradually, but permanently, melting off!

Listen, As The Beautiful People Tell You How To:

Condition yourself by developing your own built-in "Fat Radar" so that the minute your weight starts to shoot up, you can shoot it down!

Take off fat while it's still "soft"...before the body has had a chance to make it part of the muscle structure. Before it hardens, as in a fat steak, and becomes even harder to lose!

Make the natural diuretic power of food even MORE effective, so that accumulated tissue water drains out of your body faster and you NEVER get that bloated look!

Lose tons of weight—all in the right places—and NEVER get "scrummy" looking in the face. Actually melt unwanted pounds right off your body, and still retain that "youthful" bloom in your face the Beautiful People way!

PLUS...

How to be thin as a model, and still have the energy and stamina of a truck driver!

The Beautiful People's special "Secret Elimination Diet" that detoxifies your system...drains out internal poisons...at exactly the same time that you are painlessly losing weight!

The Beautiful People "Easy-Diet Plan", a permanent part of your life, so that you continue to lose weight for as long as you wish, and yet NEVER feel deprived!

How to prevent your body from automatically "adjusting" to your first massive weight loss, so that it actually prevents you from taking off even more pounds!

What to do if you are a "sandwich fiend" and don't want to cut them out of your diet.

Why the Beautiful People make sure that they never lose more than 18 pounds at a time.

How they painlessly "retrain their nervous system so that they don't go on eating binges during an "anxiety attack."

The most carefully guarded Beautiful People secret: how to lose weight super-fast, purify your body, and heighten your senses to a new state of awareness at exactly the same time!

The hypothesis approach to weight loss!

How the Beautiful People lose weight while they are traveling.

How the Beautiful People keep their children from developing unhealthy and fattening eating habits.

What the European Beautiful People do at once when their skin looks bad, they have trouble sleeping, or they are just feeling "drunk."

Why the Beautiful People feel that American men are a "disaster"...overweight, over-tobaccoed, over-alcoholized, and under-sexed! And, what Beautiful People Males "over 30," do to retain their very special attractiveness.

The Beautiful People "cure" for sporadic over-indulgence. In other words, how to eat your cake, and have a knock-out figure too!

Yes, The Beautiful People Have Been Looking Fabulous For Years THIS Way. Now You! Learn Now, WITHOUT RISKING A PENNY!

You are just as capable of keeping younger, prettier, slimmer and more attractive as any of the Beautiful People you'll read about in this book. And once you know their "secrets," you'll be well on your way to joining the ranks of all the Beautiful People all over the world, who realize that being beautiful also means being slender. SPECIAL ADDED BONUS:

How The Beautiful People "Smooth Away" Ugly Cellulite, The EASY Way!

Yes, while these Beautiful People are incredibly slim and supple at all ages—actually glowing with good health—they have also learned how to FREE themselves of ugly and distorting CELLULITE! (Cellulite, as you may know, is "orange peel fat"—the hard lumps of hideous fat that stick to the back of the thighs, knees, arms, buttocks and back. The same ripply fat pockets that cause desperation and unhappiness in thousands of American women who cannot walk down a beach, or up to a husband or lover, without feeling unattractive or just plain ugly!)

This is not ordinary fat, by any means. And it can't be gotten rid of by ordinary means. Instead, it's bumpy, hard lumps of toxic material—really a gel-like substance—that become trapped in bubbly, immovable pockets just beneath the skin...it's found in pencil-slim models and housewives alike. In fact, it's reputed to disfigure almost 90% of the women in the world! But not the Beautiful People! Why?

BECAUSE OF THESE TWO SIMPLE "CELLULITE CHASERS" THAT YOU CAN USE YOURSELF RIGHT IN YOUR OWN HOME, STARTING IN JUST A FEW MINUTES A DAY!

No, you don't need fancy doctors, or expensive health spas to be able to bid farewell to these unsightly globules. You can achieve spectacular results simply by following these two simple steps beginning on Page 26:

First, attack the cellulite you're carrying around right now through this special self-massage treatment designed to break it up and quickly "wash" this figure-distorting mess right out of your body!

Second, follow the unique Anti-Cellulite-Food Program that will actually help your natural circulatory system to rid your body of annoying substances BEFORE they can build up and become IMMOVABLE CHUNKS OF FAT!

Both these Cellulite Fighters are yours, as just one section of this great Beautiful People Over-All Body Beauty Plan...yours to read from cover to cover, entirely at your risk!

Coloman Charged With Extortion

A 20-year-old Coloma man has been charged with trying to extort $5 from a 13-year-old Coloma schoolboy.

Arraigned on the extortion charge in Berrien Fifth District court yesterday was Bobby Lee Vermilyer, 20, DeField road, Coloma.

A 14-year-old schoolmate of the reported victim has been petitioned into juvenile court on the same charge, according to District Court Judge John T. Hammond.

The warrant states that Vermilyer "threatened to injure Brian Dings, 13, with intent to extort money" near Becht and North Coloma roads in Coloma township.

Richard Klimaszewski, Coloma township police chief, said the Dings boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Dings, 6724 Johnson road, Coloma, told police he was beaten Tuesday of this week and told to bring $5 to school to avoid another beating.

Coloma township police said the youth reported he was hit in the face and kicked by his assailants. The boy suffered a cut lip and a black eye but did not seek medical attention, police said.

Police said they were summoned to the Dings home after the reported Tuesday beating.

Vermilyer and the 14-year-old were taken into custody yesterday by Coloma township police.

Bond on Vermilyer was set at $2,500.

White Boston Youths Protest

BOSTON (AP) — About 250 youths gathered at South Boston High School early today after a day of protests that began with a white boycott over a federal judge's order to put the racially troubled school into receivership. The crowd of white youths gathered on the steps of the school shortly after midnight, sang neighborhood songs, set fire to several trash containers in the schoolyard and tossed a few bottles at police. Police sealed off several surrounding streets in the predominantly Irish-American neighborhood but did not move in on the youths. The crowd dispersed about two hours later. No injuries were reported, and police made no arrests.

Deer Season Was 'Safest'

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A state wildlife official says this year's two-week firearm deer hunting season was the safest ever, despite 13 hunting deaths. "Twenty-four gun-related accidents were reported, which means that only about one in every 29,000 hunters was involved in some kind of a shooting accident," said David Jenkins, head of the Department of Natural Resources' Wildlife Division. "And contrary to some reports that play up the number of fatal hunting accidents, the accident rate per 100,000 deer hunters has been steadily decreasing for over 30 years," he said. About 700,000 hunters took to the woods last month, he said, twice as many as went out in 1952, the record season for hunting accidents and deaths.

Tax Cut Compromise Offered

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the Senate Finance Committee is proposing a new way out of an impasse between President Ford and Congress over a $17-billion tax cut bill scheduled for Senate action Monday. Without the tax cuts, the average taxpayer would begin paying $3 to $4.73 more a week in withholding taxes beginning Jan. 1. Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., suggested Friday that Ford drop his demand for a flat $395-billion federal spending ceiling for the fiscal year starting next Oct. 1. In return, he proposed that Congress make a non-binding commitment to trim federal spending by an amount equal to the $17 billion in the tax cut.

Freeway Extension To Open

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A nine-mile extension of the U.S. 31 freeway north of Muskegon will be opened to traffic two days before Christmas. The state Highway Commission announced Friday the new section will extend the freeway from a point north of Muskegon to Michigan 20 near New Era in Oceana County. The extension will boost Michigan's freeway network to 1,605 miles.

Sea Search Continues

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Rescuers planned to bring 16 survivors of a sunken Liberian freighter ashore in Norfolk today, as a search continued in the Atlantic Ocean for eight men still missing. The survivors, South Americans and Greeks, were plucked from the sea off North Carolina's coast Thursday night and Friday and appeared to be in good physical condition, a Coast Guard spokesman said. He said they would be taken to the Public Health Service office in Norfolk for examinations. The Navy cruiser California planned to rendezvous with a Coast Guard cutter this morning to bring the crewmen ashore.

People Move South, West

WASHINGTON (AP) — Economic considerations are the major factor sending thousands of Americans swarming into the South and West, the nation's so-called "Sun Belt," migration experts say. The government says the flow of people into the southern and western sections of the country has accounted for 85 per cent of U.S. population growth in the past five years. The experts say many of those migrating to the South and West are following jobs as industries relocate in areas where wages are lower, unions are less organized and the general cost-of-living is less.

Cass County Firm Hit By Fire Again

DOWAGIAC — Fire destroyed about half of a corrugated metal office and sales building this morning at the Austra Farm equipment company about two miles northwest of Dowagiac.

Indian Lake firemen said one wing of the L-shaped building on Yaw street and California road was completely destroyed and the other half may have been damaged from smoke. Firemen were still on the scene at 8:30 a.m. today and had not made a dollar estimate of the damage. No injuries were reported.

The building belongs to Robert Austra who lives on the property.

It was the second fire at the firm within a month.

On Nov. 20, fire destroyed a storage barn on the Austra property filled with farm equipment tires and a used combine, all valued at $45,000. That fire was blamed on faulty wiring.

Firemen said the company office and merchandise were destroyed in this morning's blaze.

Cause of the fire was undetermined this morning, but an investigation was underway.

Firemen said they received the alarm at 6:15 a.m. and by the time they arrived, the building was engulfed in flames. The Sister Lakes fire department sent a tanker truck to assist in extinguishing the blaze, which was under control by 7:30 a.m., firemen said.

Valuable Paintings Found

DETROIT (AP) — Eight of nine stolen paintings valued at a total of $111,000 were found Thursday in East Detroit after police received a phone tip. The paintings were taken Nov. 19 from the Grosse Pointe Farms home of George Simon, an industrialist and power boat enthusiast. Police reported finding the paintings, wrapped in cloth, near a steel garbage container behind a restaurant. They said the paintings were not damaged, although the frames were chipped.

Freighter Runs Aground

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (AP) — Coast Guard officials said Friday an ocean-going freighter, the 541-foot Ivory Neptune, ran hard aground 45 miles below the Soo Locks near Lime Island. Officials said the ship, bound for Hamburg, Germany, out of Superior, Wis., with nearly 14,000 tons of wheat and sunflower seeds aboard, went aground Thursday night. Efforts to free the ship Friday morning failed. There was no damage to the ship and no crewmen were injured, the Coast Guard said.

Saginaw Children Drown

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — Three Saginaw County children drowned Friday when they fell into icy waters, State Police said. The youngsters were identified as Billy Jo Kelly, 6; his sister, Rachael Renee Kelly, 8; and Nancy Sharon Smith, 6, all of Burt. Officials said the three children and another youngster were playing Friday afternoon on an ice-covered pit behind the Albee Township trailer park where they lived.

LAKE MICHIGAN COLLEGE

Police Officers Graduate

Twenty-six police officers from 13 regional law enforcement agencies were graduated Friday from Lake Michigan college's Advanced Police Training program and were awarded certificates signifying successful completion of the five-day series of courses.

The program, federally funded and supervised at LMC by Rease Merrill, assistant coordinator of law enforcement training, provides updated and advanced training without charge to area law enforcement personnel.

The curriculum included police legal matters, interpersonal communications, advanced criminal investigation, and advanced traffic enforcement.

sonnel." He noted the circuit courts are getting into new types of cases, such as environmental and product liability cases, and many more hearings are needed in criminal cases.

"Our greatest need is to have another circuit judge," Byrns emphasized.

He noted police forces are expanding their manpower, as is the prosecutor's office, and compared the justice system to a bottle. "The bottle is getting bigger and bigger but the neck through which all of this must pass is still the same."

and their police departments include: Larry F. Castro, Samuel A. Donoho, John W. Gast and Dean D. Kugle, of the Berrien county sheriff's department; Paul D. Wandt, of the Blissfield police department; Norman E. Bannow, Ronald E. Cruzan, Roger C. Pompey and John Wolff, Jr., of the Cass county sheriff's department.

Others who were graduated include: Robert G. Kelnhofer and Michael A. Whelan of the Covert township police department; Howard N. Clupper and Charles O. Dravis of the Dowagiac police department; Robert W. Wohler, of the Eau Claire police department; and

Kevin M. English, Michael P. Heidenreich, George M. Keller and James V. Padgett, of the Hartford city police department.

Still others who graduated include: William R. Moore, of the Howard township police department; Patrick P. Marion, of the Ionia police department; Jeffrey D. LMC Art Students To Display Works

The artworks of nearly 50 Lake Michigan college art students will be on display in a comprehensive art exhibit open to the public in the LMC library, Dec. 15 through 19.

The exhibit will include works in textiles, clay, oil, water color, woodcuts, intaglio prints, drawings, and design projects developed during the current semester in LMC art classes.

Arranged in the LMC library's central section for easy viewing, the exhibits have been produced under the supervision of the college's full-time and part-time art faculty.

Purpose of the exhibit is to bring before the public the accomplishments of LMC art students and to allow student artists to experience first general recognition for their work.

The exhibit will be on display from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m., Monday through Thursday, and 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Friday, on the LMC Napier avenue campus.

Stadium Rolls Out Red Carpet For 125 Michigan Politicians

By SUSAN AGER Associated Press Writer

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Though a Pontiac Stadium official says it's not "political," about 125 state politicians will be wined, dined and treated to pro football Sunday as guests of the City of Pontiac and the Stadium Authority.

Harold Cousins, authority chairman, said this week "about 125" of 147 state lawmakers said they'd come to "Legislative Day" at the stadium.

The day will be kicked off with lunch and drinks in the stadium restaurant and capped by a Detroit Lions-Minnesota Vikings National Football League game.

Invitations were sent to all legislators and Oakland County Commissioners and their spouses, said Mayor Wallace Holland.

Officials deny they're lobbying or doing any political favors. But lawmakers' approval this week of a $800,000 state subsidy for the stadium came after a heated fight by some who said the payments subsidize a private business.

A law passed two years ago pledges $24 million more over the next 30 years to the stadium, though legislation is pending to end the payments.

Cousins said the bash "won't be any political hassle. The mayor will probably just get up and welcome them, say, 'Glad you're here, and hope you enjoy our stadium.'"

"We'd just like for them to see the stadium and what it's doing for the state," said Holland. "It's drawn a lot of attention to the state."

So far what the legislature has done for the stadium totals $1.6 million in state payments.

The state Court of Appeals has told the stadium authority it could not spend the money until the court rules on a suit brought by Rep. Dennis Hertel, D-Detroit, whose brother, John, opposed the subsidies in the Senate.

Neither is attending the game and dinner Sunday, secretaries said.

Cousins said the lawmakers won't be treated to anything special in the way of food, drinks or seats.

"They'll get the regular lunch served to all stadium patrons, and their seats are scattered all over the stadium," he said.

Dinner and drinks start at 2 p.m., and the game at 4 p.m.

Jobmanship

Getting Support From the People You Work With

In his American Management Associations book "How To Get Along With (Almost) Everybody," Elton Reeves points out that many people make the mistake of believing they can overlook their fellow workers, come to a decision, and then expect the situations "to be set in concrete." Reeves suggests five rules to help you get along well with people you work with: 1) Be optimistic.
Expect those around you to be women and men of good will. People usually react on the same emotional level that you use in approaching them.

2) Be ready to go a little out of your way to demonstrate your own positive attitude.
Offer to lend a hand when one of your co-workers is overloaded. 3) Be sure you pass on all necessary information. This, says Reeves, can do more to tear down or build up your reputation with other people than anything else. 4) Be intellectually honest. This means being careful not to deliberately "misunderstand." It also means that you should avoid gossip where you delicately twist interpretations of what others did or said. 5) Don't expect too much in the way of active friendship. In general, this is a work relationship, and all that is necessary is that you go through the day together amiably. Says Reeves, "You will be most successful if you take the attitude that the greatest responsibility for your acceptance or rejection by others rests on your shoulders."

"Don't go with the crowd"

Did you know Petula Clark was Britain's answer to Shirley Temple as a child and acted in some 20 movies? She told FAMILY WEEKLY: "At age seven I was an established star. My father, who had wanted to be an entertainer, was my manager. My early remembrances are pleasant enough, but sometimes I regret having missed a happy, free childhood. I missed out on a lot of my formal schooling, and when I was in school, I did terribly because of my frequent absences. But, of course, I knew things far beyond my age because of my backstage, liberal upbringing. Perhaps that's why I'll devote myself to redefining education if I ever leave show business. If we want to change anything in the world, we must start with children. If we can't train and educate them properly, we can't do anything well. I'm certain that our leadership would improve if we didn't teach children to go with the crowd. This makes sense when you consider that real fulfillment doesn't come from success, but in having the courage to try new things."

A lawyer talks about modern man's fears: "A strange thing has happened in this century which many attribute to Freud and an overpowering technology—we're devoting ourselves to realism with frightening results. Everyone wants to be 'aware.' Maybe we're too aware. Gerard Nierenberg: We've become a nation of chronic complainers. I hear people constantly denouncing the quality of leadership, but that's just not the case. . . . We're more sophisticated, so naturally we expect more and demand more. The end result is that we're left in a state of constant fear. Everyone plays the psychiatrist role—we hand out advice at the drop of a hat, but nobody wants to hear it. This creates a dilemma because not only do our problems remain unsolved, but we don't stimulate creative solutions in others. What's lacking is a little humanism in all this realism." Gerard Nierenberg is the author of "How to Give and Receive Advice" (Simon and Schuster, $6.95).

TY COBB
Demonic or Intuitive?

How Ty Cobb, the late Detroit Tigers' outfielder and Hall of Famer, added a new dimension to baseball: "Old-time sportswriters believed there was an element of black magic about Cobb, that he must have had a pact with the devil. Nonsense. What Cobb had was much more useful—a mixture of nerve, imagination and courage in preposterous amounts. He also had a fantastic skill based on psychology and nothing more mysterious than abnormally, almost freakishly fast reactions. Cobb himself claimed another attribute: intuition. For him, batting was a study in psychology. 'It's like the study of crime, the work of a detective as he picks up clues,' Cobb explained. Before his time, the base runner was the natural prey of the team in field. Cobb changed all that. Once he reached first base, the whole infield was on the defensive. Ty's main purpose was to make them throw the ball. He knew that if they juggled it among themselves long enough, in their nervousness they'd throw it away.' From "Ty Cobb," by John D. McCallum (Praeger, $8.95).

MEDICINE SHOW

Our medicine chest is no treasure chest,
No jewels therein one seeks;
But it's like a treasure chest in a way—
That is, it is full of antiques.

There are bottles of pills for our long-gone ills,
And potions a little cloudy.
They've been there for years, and we've long
forgot
What they're for. They look doubtful and dowdy.

Then why do we save them? Here is my thesis:
In time they'll be sold as museum pieces.

A horse-racing enthusiast reported his latest venture with the nags to a friend: "I went to the track on the eleventh day of the eleventh month," he said, "arriving at 11:00. My son was 11 that day, and the eleventh race showed 11 horses. So I bet all my money on the eleventh horse on the card."

"And he won?" asked the friend.

"No," the sportsman replied sadly. "He came in eleventh."

LITTLE EMILY

"No, a 'belpark figure' is not acceptable!"

"Isn't there a gentleman in the bus who will offer me a seat?" demanded an extremely fat woman.

A small man jumped up. "Well," he volunteered, "I'm willing to make a contribution."

—Thomas LaMunce

My kid's going to go far. I knew it the day a teacher told him to write "I will not talk in class" 500 times, and he ran it off on the Xerox!

What made our country and the rest of the world what they are today?

Any answer would have to include military conflicts of the past — the battles and strategies, the fighting men and machines, the winners and losers.

That's why military books have always been so fascinating, both as a source of information and reading excitement.

Now, the Military Book Club invites you to build a prized library of such books at big savings... with a wide selection of often-hard-to-find and seldom-discounted books on military affairs. The Club offers you a unique opportunity to enjoy hundreds of accounts of battlefield brilliance and stories of personal bravery, while at the same time adding to your knowledge of history and world affairs.

As a member of the Military Book Club, you can step back in time and visit the great battle-scenes of the past... on land, at sea, and in the air. You will follow the movements of armies to victory or defeat in the battles of Bunker Hill and Bataan, Murfreesboro and Midway, Stalingrad and Saipan, Coral Sea and Chosin Reservoir. You will ride with the U.S. Cavalry through the West in our Frontier Wars of the 1800's... share the fears and triumphs of our submarine men in their silent under-sea war against Japan... tackle the entire Luftwaffe with outnumbered R.A.F. pilots over the North Atlantic in World War II... wade ashore and engage in vicious hand-to-hand combat along with our GI's at Arzio and Iwo Jima.

As a member of the Club, you can choose books detailing the brilliant careers of such World War II personalities as Patton, Spruance, MacArthur and LeMay, and understand the qualities that enabled these men to command huge forces and influence the course of history. And you'll be able to relive, through words and pictures, the adventures of heroic men like Jimmy Doolittle in his crusade for air power, Audie Murphy in his one-man war against Germany, and Horoo Onoda, the Japanese soldier who fought a lone, lost war for 30 years in a desolate outpost. He finally surrendered in 1974, 29 years after the war was over.

Military Book Club selections enable you to trace the evolution of weapons from muskets to missiles, from lumbering World War I Junkers to supersonic F-15's, from crude armored vehicles to the fearsome tanks of modern warfare.

You can be sure the works you receive from the Military Book Club are authoritative and up-to-date. But they are never dull, dry texts. The Club combs the publishing world to bring you books that are as entertaining as they are reliable.

So join the Military Book Club and start enjoying the exciting and informative reading it will bring to your home. Right now, you can take any four of the books shown on this page for only 98¢, plus shipping and handling, with membership. As a member, you will continue to receive a wide range of selections at substantial savings.

How The Club Works

To apply for membership, send no money now. Simply mail the application. Once you're accepted as a member, you'll get the four introductory volumes you've chosen for 98¢ plus shipping and handling charges. If you're not satisfied for any reason at all, return your books within 10 days and cancel your membership. You won't owe anything.

If you decide to remain in the Club, you'll receive a copy of the Club's magazine about every four weeks (14 times a year) describing the coming selection and alternates which will average 30% less than the prices of publishers' editions plus shipping and handling.

If you want the Club selection, do nothing. It will be shipped to you automatically.

If you prefer an alternate, or no book, indicate your choice on the convenient reply form. Just return the form to us by the specified date. You'll have at least 10 days to decide. If for some reason you do not have 10 days and we send you a selection you do not want, just ship it back to us at our expense.

As a member, you need take only four more books at regular low Club prices during your first two years of membership. You may resign any time thereafter or continue without further purchase obligation.
